RUSSIA RATIFIES PEACE TREATIES

Ex-Serviceman Held For Theft Of Atom Photos

Pictures Recovered In Search Of Home

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 — (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation tonight announced the arrest of Arnold Frederick Kivi, 27, at Brooklyn, N. Y., for the theft of "highly confidential photographs" from the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic installations.

The FBI, in a special announcement, said its agents had recovered 37 photographs and 10 negatives when they searched Kivi's home.

The announcement by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, said that Kivi, a former soldier, had at first denied being in possession of any highly-confidential pictures but that he later had admitted removing from the Los Alamos project certain classified photographs.

Classified documents or pictures are those usually marked secret, confidential or restricted.

The pictures found in Kivi's possession, Hoover said, depicted various phases of atomic research equipment used in connection with the bomb and several pictures of visitors to the atomic property.

Made 500 Official Photos

When first interviewed, the FBI Director related in his announcement, Kivi said he had made 500 official photographs of various stages of development of the atomic bomb.

It was at Los Alamos that the first atomic bomb was assembled and tested before similar missiles were dropped on Japan to bring a quick end of the Japanese war.

Kivi subsequently admitted, the FBI Director related, taking the classified photographs when he left the Army in February, 1946, and that several weeks later, he became "extremely concerned about the pictures and burned them."

Single, 27 years of age, Kivi served in the Army from September 1, 1942, to February 6, 1946.

After leaving the Los Alamos installation, the FBI said Kivi later got a job at the Brookhaven National Laboratory of the Atomic Energy Commission at Patchogue, N. Y.

He was relieve of the job immediately, Hoover added, "as a result of the investigation of the prior theft."

Kivi was taken into custody when he returned to his home at 341 17th Street, Brooklyn, tonight.

Complaint Filed

A complaint formally charging him with the theft, the FBI said, was filed before the United States Commissioner at Santa Fe, N. M., today.

He will be arraigned before the United States Commissioner for the Eastern District of New York on Saturday morning.

Another former ex-Army sergeant, Alexander Von Der Luft, 23, was tried in Pittsburgh on August 21 and placed on four year's probation after he had pleaded guilty to two counts, charging stealing and concealing of government documents taken from an atomic project.

Von Der Luft told Federal Judge Robert M. Gibson he wanted the papers for souvenirs.

Ernest D. Wallis, a 34-year-old Chicago photographer, arrested on similar charges of taking atomic documents, has not yet been tried. The FBI had previously announced that about 200 photographs were found in Wallis' possession.

Fire Damages British Princess' Future Home

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 30 (AP)—A wing of Sunninghill Park, the Windsor forest mansion given to Princess Elizabeth to serve as her home after her marriage to Lt. Philip Mountbatten, was seriously damaged by fire early today, the British Press Association reported.

The roof and rooms of the mansion's southern wing, unoccupied and as yet unfurnished, were considerably damaged, the report said.

There was no indication of the cause of the blaze.

British, Americans Plan To Hike German Industry Ceiling To Level Of 1936

Is Drastic Revision Of Four-Power Pact

BERLIN, Aug. 29 (AP)—The British and American military governments announced today their plan to raise the permitted ceiling of industry in their two German zones to approximately the standard of 1936; increase exports to 15 per cent above that year, and to hike the present German living standard to 75 per cent of that basic period.

The plan, announced after a six-week delay occasioned by French objections resulting in a three-power conference to which Russia protested, is a drastic revision of the four-power agreement of March, 1946. In effect it means a sharp cut in German industrial plants and machinery that will be available for the reparations for which Russia has been clamoring.

Steel Production Raised

The plan nearly doubles the steel production allowed under the four-power agreement for all Germany; quadruples passenger automobile production; increases chemical production by 42 per cent; ups the level in machinery, optics, plastics, electrical engineering and cement industries, and contemplates the cancelling of the ban on light metal industries such as aluminum, beryllium, vanadium and magnesium.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American commander, and Air Marshal Sir Sholto Douglas, British commander, said the new plan was necessary to create a self-sustaining economy, produce exports to bring in $2,000,000,000 a year and save American and British taxpayers that outlay, and to enable Germany's industrial potential to make a contribution to European recovery under the Marshall plan or some other plan.

1946 Pact "Unrealistic"

Their communique said the 1946 four-power agreement had proved "unrealistic" because it was based on unfulfilled "assumptions." One of these major assumptions was that Germany would be operated as an economic unit by the four powers.

The Clay-Douglas statement pointed out that their two western zones accounted for the whole of Germany's prewar food deficit, that Eastern Germany occupied by the Russians was about self-sufficient in food stuffs, and that it was necessary to increase Western Germany's industrial exports to keep the region from starving.

At a news conference Clay and Douglas disclosed that the new plan envisages a basic ration of 2,000 calories daily per German, and a living standard 75 per cent of that of 1936. They said France had agreed "fundamentally" that Germany's industrial production must be raised to insure a sound Europe.

Truman Appoints Gen. Draper War Undersecretary

Five Others Named For Defense Posts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — President Truman virtually completed top assignments in the nation's new unified defense establishment today with appointment of Maj. Gen. William H. Draper, Jr., as Undersecretary of War and selection of five other officials to be formally appointed later.

Draper will become Undersecretary of the Army next month when reorganization of the armed forces takes actual effect with the swearing in of Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal as Secretary of National Defense.

At the same time, the White House announced, Mr. Truman will make these other appointments:

West Virginian Chosen

1. Arthur M. Hill, Charleston, W. Va., now chairman of the board of the Atlantic Greyhound Corporation, as chairman of the National Security Resources Board. That board, to be made up of men from various government departments and agencies, will plan for utilization of the nation's facilities in wartime. Hill was in the Navy Department through the recent war, on transportation and public works assignments.

2. Sidney W. Souers, retired rear admiral and former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, as executive secretary of the National Security Council. The council, composed of the President, Secretary of State, Secretary of Defense, Secretaries of Army, Navy and Air Forc, and chairman of the Resources Board, will have the task of helping the President co-ordinate national, foreign and military policies. Souers, a native of Dayton, Ohio, is now connected with firms in St. Louis, Mo., and Atlanta, Ga.

3. Rear Adm. Roscoe H. Hillenkoetter, director of the Central Intelligence Agency under the present dfense stup, to tak the sam post undr the service unification. Hillenkoetter is a native of St. Louis.

Hargrave Is Appointed

4. Thomas J. Hargrave, president of the Eastman Kodak Company as chairman of the Munitions Board. That board, including representatives of each of the armed services, will co-ordinate military industrial procurement and planning.

13 Planes Ready For Trophy Dash

VAN NUYS, Calif., Aug. 29 (AP)—Thirteen converted warplanes, tuned to the finest degree, were under lock and key at Metropolitan Airport as their pilots awaited the takeoff tomorrow morning in the $25,000 Bendix Trophy dash to Cleveland.

Official departure time is 7 a. m. (Pacific Standard Time) (10 a. m. EST) but one flier, Jane Page Hlavacek, Wilmette, Ill., will depart an hour and a half earlier if she can gain permission of the other pilots. She wants to reach Cleveland early enough to participate in another dash in the National Air Races tomorrow.

After the official start the ships will take off at five-minute intervals, and race officials said they hoped to get them all on their way within an hour.

William P. Odom, of 'round-the-world record fame, reached here from Houston, Tex., today in his clipped winged P-47, with which he says he expects to win. He was accompanied by his friend, R. A. Cole, flying the "Reynolds Bombshell," a converted A-26 bomber.

Cole is not eligible for the trophy dash, but he indicated he might go along anyway for the ride.

A prime favorite is last year's winner, Paul Mantz, movie stunt man and charter service operator. He will be flying the same P-51 in which he averaged 435.5 miles an hour in last year's dash, but has installed a few gadgets with which he expects to coax a little more speed out of the sleek Mustang.

Warm Weather Forecast For Labor Day Weekend

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — Warm weather with considerable sunshine is in prospect for Sunday and Monday, the Weather Bureau said tonight in a nationwide forecast for the Labor Day weekend.

The forecast:

Most of the country will experience warm weather with considerable sunshine during Sunday and Monday, particularly in the areas eastward from the Rockies to the Appalachians where dry and hot weather with temperatures in the 90s will prevail except for seasonal temperatures in the Northern Plains, the Lake Region, and New England.

In the Atlantic states from New England to Northern Virginia there will be considerable cloudiness with showers Sunday but clearing by Monday with seasonably comfortable temperatures.

New Tsaldaris Regime Takes Over In Greece

Administration Faces Defeat In First Test

ATHENS, Aug. 29—(AP)—A right-wing Greek government headed by Constantin Tsaldaris and composed with one exception of Populist (Royalist) Party members—contrary to United States wishes—was sworn in at the palace of King Paul tonight.

The naming of the new Cabinet ended the week-long crisis in which Greece was without a government, but there were clear indications that the new administration would not survive its first test in Parliament.

Already faced by five opposition parties holding enough votes to defeat any appeal for a vote of confidence, Tsaldaris failed to include in his new Cabinet Stephen Stephanopoulis, former Minister of Coordination and one of the strongest Populist leaders.

This notable omission was interpreted as indicating a rift among the Populists themselves, and observers said it presaged certain defeat for the Cabinet formed within two hours after a last effort to bring Liberal and other opposition parties into the government had failed.

Zervas Not Included

The new Premier did not include Napoleon Zervas, an extreme rightist and leader of the Democratic National Union, in the Cabinet as Minister of Public Order as had been expected in some quarters. It was the administration of that post, held by Zervas, and the War Ministry that precipitated the resignation last Saturday of the Cabinet headed by Demetrios Maximos.

Tsaldaris returned George Stratos to the War Ministry, however.

Only one man outside the populist Party was named to the Cabinet—Adm. Alexander Sakellariou, an independent, who was made Minister of Supplies and Provisional Minister of Merchant Marine.

An authoritative spokesman for the Populists said Tsaldaris had left the way open for a broadened government and would resign if a coalition Cabinet could be effected. He pointed to the omission of Zervas from the new Cabinet as evidence of good faith on Tstldaris' part.

The spokesman said all the concessions Tsaldaris had offered during the week of fruitless negotiation with the opposition "still hold good." These included an offer to form a coalition under a new premier.

However, the spokesman did not clarify the issue of the War Ministry, returned to Stratos despite opposition objections to his previous administration.

Tsaldaris Faces Defeat

Tsaldaris' solution of the crisis was contrary to the efforts of United States representatives who tried to convince Greek political leaders of all complexion to join in a broadly representative government.

With only 166 votes, even with the support of Zervas' Nationalists, Tsaldaris appeared certain to be defeated in a confidence test if the opposition ranks held firm.

Tsaldaris appeared angry following a meeting with opposition leaders summoned tonight by Maximos, who was announced yesterday as the agreed choice of all political leaders to head the new government.

TRUMAN WILL ADDRESS BRAZILIAN LAWMAKERS NEXT FRIDAY AFTERNOON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29. (AP) —President Truman will address a joint session of the Brazilian Congress next Friday at 2 p. m. Eastern Standard Time (4 p. m. Brazilian time), the White House announced today.

This will be the second major address Mr. Truman will deliver during his week's stay in Brazil. The White House said the speech before the Brazilian Congress will be brief.

His principal speech will be a 20-minute affair at 8:30 a. m. Eastern Standard Time (10:30 a. m. Brazil time) next Tuesday at the closing session of the Inter-American Defense Conference. This speech will be broadcast.

Security Council Adjourns; Egypt Impasse Remains

Vacation Will Run Until September 9

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Security Council failed again today to settle the Anglo-Egyptian dispute over British forces in the Nile Valley and adjourned for vacation until September 9 with the case still on its calendar.

A Colombian plan for settling the case was rejected through failure to get the necessary affirmative majority of seven votes. The most it received in a paragraph-by-paragraph balloting was five votes. Britain, a party to the dispute, had no vote.

For the first time in council history all voting delegates abstained on one section relating to "mutual assistance," which had been vigorously assailed by Soviet Russia and other speakers during a three-hour wrangle.

Disagree Over Meaning

Some delegates contended this "mutual assistance" would mean that the negotiations would be conditioned on the withdrawal of troops. But others said it merely clarified the points for negotiation.

After the paragraph-by-paragraph voting, Council President Faris El Khoury, Syria, ruled the Colombian resolution was finished with further balloting unnecessary.

Egyptian Premier Nokrashy Pasha, who has been here almost a month, told newsmen he would stay on in New York.

"I have said that this dispute affects the very existence of my country," he declared. "As Premier of that country I must stay here."

The delegates now have no formal resolution before them but just before they adjourned China's T. F. Tsiang made a half-way proposal in a third effort to find some compromise solution.

Chinese Proposal

Noting that futile attempts had been made on the Colombian plan and a Brazilian proposal which failed by one vote to muster the necessary majority support yesterday, Tsiang said the evacuation of British troops from Egypt was the core of the problem. Egypt has persistently contended that British troops must be withdrawn now.

U. S. Calls Four-Power Korea Meet

Offers Proposals To Speed Freedom

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The United States today called a conference of the Big Four Pacific powers to act on sweeping new proposals aimed at breaking a stubborn deadlock with Russia over Korea's independence.

In a toughly-worded note to Moscow, Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett invited Russia to take part in the conference with the United States, Britain and China, to be held in Washington September 8. The object would be to hasten freedom for Korea, now split into two occupation zones administered by the United States and Russia.

Soviet refusal to take part would open the way for an appeal to the United Nations or for an independent American effort to build up the economic strength of the United States zone in South Korea. Regardless of the Soviet decision, diplomatic authorities made plain this government is determined to find a way out of the Korean stalemate resulting from the continued failure to reach agreement with the Russians on a unified government.

Molotov's Charge Is Denied

Lovett in his note:

(1) Charged Russia with violating pledges made by Foreign Minister Molotov;

(2) Brushed off as without basis Molotov's assertions that pro-Soviet elements were being "persecuted" in the American occupation zone, and

(3) Announced that the United States "in good conscience" could no longer be a party to delay in carrying out the 1945 Moscow agreement to give the Koreans independence.

This agreement called for a five-year period of trusteeship under a single democratic government for the entire country, to be followed by complete freedom.

Lovett proposed instead that the four power conference consider a radical new procedure of granting

War Not Immediate Threat, "Ike" Says

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, in an address he described as "something of an official farewell," told the American Legion today he did not foresee "a global war as an immediate threat."

The Army Chief of Staff and supreme commander of World War Two, who leaves military service early next year to become head of Columbia University, declared the world at present "comprises two great camps"—one grouped around dictatorships and the other democracy.

But, he said, "no great nation is today in position deliberately to provoke a long and exhausting conflict with any hope of gain."

Eisenhower's long-run view of the international situation was less optimistic, however.

Nimitz, Spaatz Speak

"As long as deliberate aggression against the rights of free men and the existence of free government may be a part of the international picture, we must be prepared for whatever this may finally mean to us," he said.

The Chief of Staff, who shared the platform with Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz and Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, received an ovation from the 6,000 Legionnaires at the second session of the 29th national convention, held in the gaily-decorated 71st Regiment Armory on Lower Park Avenue instead of Madison Square Garden as at yesterday's opening meeting.

Most of the speechmaking was concluded today, with tomorrow reserved for the Legion parade up Fifth Avenue.

Eisenhower gave emphatic endorsement to a universal training program, which was backed strongly by President Truman, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Secretary of Defense-designate James V. Forrestal and other notables at the opening session. A campaign to win congres-

State Tax Collections Reach Record Total

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — State tax collections during fiscal 1947, which ended last June 30, rose 12.5 per cent over the previous year to a record total of $6,800,000,000, the Census Bureau reported today.

Even so, all the states together collected little more than one-sixth of the $39,108,000,000 taken in from taxes by the federal government during that period.

The Census Bureau said state governments in general expect both their tax collections and spending to be higher in the fiscal year recently started.

Formal Ending Of Hostilities Now Imminent

Troop Withdrawals Slated To Follow

LONDON, Aug. 29 (AP) — Russia ratified the long-delayed peace treaties with Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland tonight, bringing in sight the formal end of hostilities with five wartime allies of Nazi Germany.

Announcement of the treaty ratifications was made by the Moscow radio which said the action was taken by the Praesidium of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R.

Ratification by the Soviet Union completed action by the four major powers on the treaties drafted last year in Paris. The victors in World War II still have to decide upon peace terms for Germany, Austria and Japan.

Formal ending of hostilities against Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland will come when the instruments of ratification are deposited in Paris and Moscow. Withdrawal of some occupation troops is scheduled to follow.

A British official said Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister, had promised that Russia would agree to "an early date" for the deposit of the instruments of ratification.

The United States, Britain and France took action on the five treaties months ago, but Russia, by delaying action, had held up the return toward peace time conditions in the beaten nations.

Approval Is Tempered

The first reaction in European capitals to the Moscow announcement was one of relief. But diplomatic sources tempered their approval by pointing out that Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria already have been accused by the United States and Britain of violating the "human rights" sections of the pacts.

Reports also indicated that the Russian ratification—which came only a few days after approval was rushed through the Parliaments of Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary—was given to facilitate the admission of Eastern European nations into the United Nations. The United Nations General Assembly meets in New York September 16.

The Italian Minister of the Interior, Mario Scelba, declared in Rome that Russia apparently delayed ratification of the Italian treaty in order to keep Italy from gaining United Nations membership last week. Premier Alcide De Gasperi merely expressed the hope that the ratification now had removed all obstacles to Italy's membership in the United Nations.

The terms of the five pacts deprive the defeated nations of much territory, a large part of their defense forces and $1,330,000,000 in reparations. Italy is reduced to the status of a third-rate power, stripped of colonies, indebted by reparations, her homeland reduced and her army and navy cut to a relative shadow.

Only two countries will be relieved of the direct influence of foreign troops by the formal ending of hostilities.

Under the terms of the pacts Russia is pledged to withdraw her sol-

Citizens Of Boys Town Seek Clues In Slaying

OMAHA, Aug. 29 (AP) — Citizens of Father E. J. Flanagan's famed Boys Town joined deputy sheriffs in a search today for new clues into the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. May, 2nd, Alexandria, Va.

The search for additional clues was launched after a filling station attendant and a construction worker at Grand Island, Neb., failed to identify two suspects held there as the men who hitched a ride to Omaha with the socially-prominent couple Wednesday night.

Bodies of the Mays were found in a clump of bushes two and one-half miles west of Boys Town Thursday morning. The two had been shot in the head with a .38 caliber revolver. Their blood splattered automobile was located later in an Omaha alley.

Resumption Of Safety Inspections For Maryland Cars Urged By Elgin

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 29—State Motor Vehicles Commissioner W. Lee Elgin today proposed resumption of safety inspections for Maryland automobiles, trucks and buses.

"Lase year we killed 417 people on our streets and highways," he declared. "If we get the right kind of inspection, we can cut that by one-third. Saving the lives of that many people is important, isn't it?"

Elgin said legislation requiring semi-annual safety inspections at state-operated garages was "buried in committee" at this year's session of the General Assembly.

There already is an inspection system on the Maryland statute books but it was suspended by gubernatorial decree in 1941 as a war emergency measure.

Until then, automobile owners were required to have their cars inspected each September at a privately-owned garage certified by the vehicles department. If their machines passed, stickers were affixed to the windshield.

Garages paid $2.50 for certification by the state and could charge nothing for the inspection. The only way they could make money on the system was by selling spare parts or making the repairs necessary to pass.

"A few garages made a racket out of that before the war and supplied the stickers without ever making an inspection," Elgin said. "The greater number co-operated, but when it became difficult to get the parts or hire the mechanics to make the repairs they lost interest in the work and dropped it.

"The Automobile Trade Association is meeting in Ocean City next Friday and I am going to ask them to resume the inspection. I believe they can get the spare parts and the mechanics now, and I hope to resume the work."

Castaways Sizzle As Navy, Coast Guard Decline To Go To Their Aid

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 29—(AP)—Four airmen and a fuel-less seaplane sizzled on blistering Caribbean Islands today with neither the Coast Guard nor Navy willing to go to their aid because their case doesn't constitute an "emergency."

The modern Crusoes—who flew southward from Key West Monday to inspect Swan Island for a proposed cattle quarantine station after the government had asked for bids—complained bitterly of their plight, but their clamoring brought no gasoline.

As a result, three men twiddled their thumbs on tiny Swan Island, 600 miles south of Miami, while their plane lay useless for lack of fuel. A fourth man was marooned on lonely Grand Cayman Island, waiting to be picked up.

The men are Albert Janes, pilot, Orlando, Fla.; William A. Kruzen and his father, I. A. Kruzen, Tampa, Fla.; who are on Swan Island, and a "Mr. Parker," who was dropped off Tuesday at Grand Cayman to look into the prospects of a new airlin between the island and Tampa, Fla.

The party—equipped with two-way radio—ran into fuel trouble when the radio range station they expected to guide them to Swan Island was not operating, and they decided on a longer route, via Bonacca Island, using up all of their gasoline. They gambled that Swan Island would have fuel at its weather station. They guessed wrong.

A Tampa importer, C. E. Hamilton, said three of his fruit ships pass Swan Island frequently—but he held out no hope of gasoline for at least a week. However, he offered philosophical advice:

"It is a lovely island," he said. "It is three miles long and 23 feet above sea level, with plenty of food. It's a splendid place to get away from it all."

Ex-Serviceman Held For Theft Of Atom Photos

Pictures Recovered In Search Of Home

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 — (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation tonight announced the arrest of Arnold Frederick Kivi, 27, at Brooklyn, N. Y., for the theft of "highly confidential photographs" from the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic installations.

The FBI, in a special announcement, said its agents had recovered 37 photographs and 10 negatives when they searched Kivi's home.

The announcement by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, said that Kivi, a former soldier, had at first denied being in possession of any highly-confidential pictures but that he later had admitted removing from the Los Alamos project certain classified photographs.

Classified documents or pictures are those usually marked secret, confidential or restricted.

The pictures found in Kivi's possession, Hoover said, depicted various phases of atomic research equipment used in connection with the bomb and several pictures of visitors to the atomic property.

Made 500 Official Photos

When first interviewed, the FBI Director related in his announcement, Kivi said he had made 500 official photographs of various stages of development of the atomic bomb.

It was at Los Alamos that the first atomic bomb was assembled and tested before similar missiles were dropped on Japan to bring a quick end of the Japanese war.

Kivi subsequently admitted, the FBI Director related, taking the classified photographs when he left the Army in February, 1946, and that several weeks later, he became "extremely concerned about the pictures and burned them."

Single, 27 years of age, Kivi served in the Army from September 1, 1942, to February 6, 1946.

After leaving the Los Alamos installation, the FBI said Kivi later got a job at the Brookhaven National Laboratory of the Atomic Energy Commission at Patchogue, N. Y.

He was relieve of the job immediately, Hoover added, "as a result of the investigation of the prior theft."

Kivi was taken into custody when he returned to his home at 341 17th Street, Brooklyn, tonight.

Complaint Filed

A complaint formally charging him with the theft, the FBI said, was filed before the United States Commissioner at Santa Fe, N. M., today.

He will be arraigned before the United States Commissioner for the Eastern District of New York on Saturday morning.

Another former ex-Army sergeant, Alexander Von Der Luft, 23, was tried in Pittsburgh on August 21 and placed on four year's probation after he had pleaded guilty to two counts, charging stealing and concealing of government documents taken from an atomic project.

Von Der Luft told Federal Judge Robert M. Gibson he wanted the papers for souvenirs.

Ernest D. Wallis, a 34-year-old Chicago photographer, arrested on similar charges of taking atomic documents, has not yet been tried. The FBI had previously announced that about 200 photographs were found in Wallis' possession.

Is Drastic Revision Of Four-Power Pact

BERLIN, Aug. 29 (AP)—The British and American military governments announced today their plan to raise the permitted ceiling of industry in their two German zones to approximately the standard of 1936; increase exports to 15 per cent above that year, and to hike the present German living standard to 75 per cent of that basic period.

The plan, announced after a six-week delay occasioned by French objections resulting in a three-power conference to which Russia protested, is a drastic revision of the four-power agreement of March, 1946. In effect it means a sharp cut in German industrial plants and machinery that will be available for the reparations for which Russia has been clamoring.

Steel Production Raised

The plan nearly doubles the steel production allowed under the four-power agreement for all Germany; quadruples passenger automobile production; increases chemical production by 42 per cent; ups the level in machinery, optics, plastics, electrical engineering and cement industries, and contemplates the cancelling of the ban on light metal industries such as aluminum, beryllium, vanadium and magnesium.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American commander, and Air Marshal Sir Sholto Douglas, British commander, said the new plan was necessary to create a self-sustaining economy, produce exports to bring in $2,000,000,000 a year and save American and British taxpayers that outlay, and to enable Germany's industrial potential to make a contribution to European recovery under the Marshall plan or some other plan.

1946 Pact "Unrealistic"

Their communique said the 1946 four-power agreement had proved "unrealistic" because it was based on unfulfilled "assumptions." One of these major assumptions was that Germany would be operated as an economic unit by the four powers.

The Clay-Douglas statement pointed out that their two western zones accounted for the whole of Germany's prewar food deficit, that Eastern Germany occupied by the Russians was about self-sufficient in food stuffs, and that it was necessary to increase Western Germany's industrial exports to keep the region from starving.

At a news conference Clay and Douglas disclosed that the new plan envisages a basic ration of 2,000 calories daily per German, and a living standard 75 per cent of that of 1936. They said France had agreed "fundamentally" that Germany's industrial production must be raised to insure a sound Europe.

Truman Appoints Gen. Draper War Undersecretary

Five Others Named For Defense Posts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — President Truman virtually completed top assignments in the nation's new unified defense establishment today with appointment of Maj. Gen. William H. Draper, Jr., as Undersecretary of War and selection of five other officials to be formally appointed later.

Draper will become Undersecretary of the Army next month when reorganization of the armed forces takes actual effect with the swearing in of Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal as Secretary of National Defense.

At the same time, the White House announced, Mr. Truman will make these other appointments:

West Virginian Chosen

1. Arthur M. Hill, Charleston, W. Va., now chairman of the board of the Atlantic Greyhound Corporation, as chairman of the National Security Resources Board. That board, to be made up of men from various government departments and agencies, will plan for utilization of the nation's facilities in wartime. Hill was in the Navy Department through the recent war, on transportation and public works assignments.

2. Sidney W. Souers, retired rear admiral and former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, as executive secretary of the National Security Council. The council, composed of the President, Secretary of State, Secretary of Defense, Secretaries of Army, Navy and Air Forc, and chairman of the Resources Board, will have the task of helping the President co-ordinate national, foreign and military policies. Souers, a native of Dayton, Ohio, is now connected with firms in St. Louis, Mo., and Atlanta, Ga.

3. Rear Adm. Roscoe H. Hillenkoetter, director of the Central Intelligence Agency under the present dfense stup, to tak the sam post undr the service unification. Hillenkoetter is a native of St. Louis.

Hargrave Is Appointed

4. Thomas J. Hargrave, president of the Eastman Kodak Company as chairman of the Munitions Board. That board, including representatives of each of the armed services, will co-ordinate military industrial procurement and planning.

13 Planes Ready For Trophy Dash

VAN NUYS, Calif., Aug. 29 (AP)—Thirteen converted warplanes, tuned to the finest degree, were under lock and key at Metropolitan Airport as their pilots awaited the takeoff tomorrow morning in the $25,000 Bendix Trophy dash to Cleveland.

Official departure time is 7 a. m. (Pacific Standard Time) (10 a. m. EST) but one flier, Jane Page Hlavacek, Wilmette, Ill., will depart an hour and a half earlier if she can gain permission of the other pilots. She wants to reach Cleveland early enough to participate in another dash in the National Air Races tomorrow.

After the official start the ships will take off at five-minute intervals, and race officials said they hoped to get them all on their way within an hour.

William P. Odom, of 'round-the-world record fame, reached here from Houston, Tex., today in his clipped winged P-47, with which he says he expects to win. He was accompanied by his friend, R. A. Cole, flying the "Reynolds Bombshell," a converted A-26 bomber.

Cole is not eligible for the trophy dash, but he indicated he might go along anyway for the ride.

A prime favorite is last year's winner, Paul Mantz, movie stunt man and charter service operator. He will be flying the same P-51 in which he averaged 435.5 miles an hour in last year's dash, but has installed a few gadgets with which he expects to coax a little more speed out of the sleek Mustang.

Warm Weather Forecast For Labor Day Weekend

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — Warm weather with considerable sunshine is in prospect for Sunday and Monday, the Weather Bureau said tonight in a nationwide forecast for the Labor Day weekend.

The forecast:

Most of the country will experience warm weather with considerable sunshine during Sunday and Monday, particularly in the areas eastward from the Rockies to the Appalachians where dry and hot weather with temperatures in the 90s will prevail except for seasonal temperatures in the Northern Plains, the Lake Region, and New England.

In the Atlantic states from New England to Northern Virginia there will be considerable cloudiness with showers Sunday but clearing by Monday with seasonably comfortable temperatures

New Tsaldaris Regime Takes Over In Greece

Administration Faces Defeat In First Test

ATHENS, Aug. 29—(AP)—A right-wing Greek government headed by Constantin Tsaldaris and composed with one exception of Populist (Royalist) Party members—contrary to United States wishes—was sworn in at the palace of King Paul tonight.

The naming of the new Cabinet ended the week-long crisis in which Greece was without a government, but there were clear indications that the new administration would not survive its first test in Parliament.

Already faced by five opposition parties holding enough votes to defeat any appeal for a vote of confidence, Tsaldaris failed to include in his new Cabinet Stephen Stephanopoulis, former Minister of Coordination and one of the strongest Populist leaders.

This notable omission was interpreted as indicating a rift among the Populists themselves, and observers said it presaged certain defeat for the Cabinet formed within two hours after a last effort to bring Liberal and other opposition parties into the government had failed.

Zervas Not Included

The new Premier did not include Napoleon Zervas, an extreme rightist and leader of the Democratic National Union, in the Cabinet as Minister of Public Order as had been expected in some quarters. It was the administration of that post, held by Zervas, and the War Ministry that precipitated the resignation last Saturday of the Cabinet headed by Demetrios Maximos.

Tsaldaris returned George Stratos to the War Ministry, however.

Only one man outside the populist Party was named to the Cabinet—Adm. Alexander Sakellariou, an independent, who was made Minister of Supplies and Provisional Minister of Merchant Marine.

An authoritative spokesman for the Populists said Tsaldaris had left the way open for a broadened government and would resign if a coalition Cabinet could be effected. He pointed to the omission of Zervas from the new Cabinet as evidence of good faith on Tstldaris' part.

The spokesman said all the concessions Tsaldaris had offered during the week of fruitless negotiation with the opposition "still hold good." These included an offer to form a coalition under a new premier.

However, the spokesman did not clarify the issue of the War Ministry, returned to Stratos despite opposition objections to his previous administration.

Tsaldaris Faces Defeat

Tsaldaris' solution of the crisis was contrary to the efforts of United States representatives who tried to convince Greek political leaders of all complexion to join in a broadly representative government.

With only 166 votes, even with the support of Zervas' Nationalists, Tsaldaris appeared certain to be defeated in a confidence test if the opposition ranks held firm.

Tsaldaris appeared angry following a meeting with opposition leaders summoned tonight by Maximos, who was announced yesterday as the agreed choice of all political leaders to head the new government.

TRUMAN WILL ADDRESS BRAZILIAN LAWMAKERS NEXT FRIDAY AFTERNOON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29. (AP) —President Truman will address a joint session of the Brazilian Congress next Friday at 2 p. m. Eastern Standard Time (4 p. m. Brazilian time), the White House announced today.

This will be the second major address Mr. Truman will deliver during his week's stay in Brazil. The White House said the speech before the Brazilian Congress will be brief.

His principal speech will be a 20-minute affair at 8:30 a. m. Eastern Standard Time (10:30 a. m. Brazil time) next Tuesday at the closing session of the Inter-American Defense Conference. This speech will be broadcast.

CHUTE SAVED PILOT—The P-51 Mustang owned by Ray Eiche, Berea, Ohio, burns (top) after crashing yesterday at Cleveland while qualifying for the National Air Races. Eiche holds the parachute (bottom) which saved his life as he tells crew members in Berea Hospital how he jumped to safety.

Security Council Adjourns; Egypt Impasse Remains

Vacation Will Run Until September 9

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Security Council failed again today to settle the Anglo-Egyptian dispute over British forces in the Nile Valley and adjourned for vacation until September 9 with the case still on its calendar.

A Colombian plan for settling the case was rejected through failure to get the necessary affirmative majority of seven votes. The most it received in a paragraph-by-paragraph balloting was five votes. Britain, a party to the dispute, had no vote.

For the first time in council history all voting delegates abstained on one section relating to "mutual assistance," which had been vigorously assailed by Soviet Russia and other speakers during a three-hour wrangle.

Disagree Over Meaning

Some delegates contended this "mutual assistance" would mean that the negotiations would be conditioned on the withdrawal of troops. But others said it merely clarified the points for negotiation.

After the paragraph-by-paragraph voting, Council President Faris El Khoury, Syria, ruled the Colombian resolution was finished with further balloting unnecessary.

Egyptian Premier Nokrashy Pasha, who has been here almost a month, told newsmen he would stay on in New York.

"I have said that this dispute affects the very existence of my country," he declared. "As Premier of that country I must stay here."

The delegates now have no formal resolution before them but just before they adjourned China's T. F. Tsiang made a half-way proposal in a third effort to find some compromise solution.

Chinese Proposal

Noting that futile attempts had been made on the Colombian plan and a Brazilian proposal which failed by one vote to muster the necessary majority support yesterday, Tsiang said the evacuation of British troops from Egypt was the core of the problem. Egypt has persistently contended that British troops must be withdrawn now.

U. S. Calls Four-Power Korea Meet

Offers Proposals To Speed Freedom

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The United States today called a conference of the Big Four Pacific powers to act on sweeping new proposals aimed at breaking a stubborn deadlock with Russia over Korea's independence.

In a toughly-worded note to Moscow, Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett invited Russia to take part in the conference with the United States, Britain and China, to be held in Washington September 8. The object would be to hasten freedom for Korea, now split into two occupation zones administered by the United States and Russia.

Soviet refusal to take part would open the way for an appeal to the United Nations or for an independent American effort to build up the economic strength of the United States zone in South Korea. Regardless of the Soviet decision, diplomatic authorities made plain this government is determined to find a way out of the Korean stalemate resulting from the continued failure to reach agreement with the Russians on a unified government.

Molotov's Charge Is Denied

Lovett in his note:

(1) Charged Russia with violating pledges made by Foreign Minister Molotov;

(2) Brushed off as without basis Molotov's assertions that pro-Soviet elements were being "persecuted" in the American occupation zone, and

(3) Announced that the United States "in good conscience" could no longer be a party to delay in carrying out the 1945 Moscow agreement to give the Koreans independence.

This agreement called for a five-year period of trusteeship under a single democratic government for the entire country, to be followed by complete freedom.

Lovett proposed instead that the four power conference consider a radical new procedure of granting

War Not Immediate Threat, "Ike" Says

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, in an address he described as "something of an official farewell," told the American Legion today he did not foresee "a global war as an immediate threat."

The Army Chief of Staff and supreme commander of World War Two, who leaves military service early next year to become head of Columbia University, declared the world at present "comprises two great camps"—one grouped around dictatorships and the other democracy.

But, he said, "no great nation is today in position deliberately to provoke a long and exhausting conflict with any hope of gain."

Nimitz, Spaatz Speak

"As long as deliberate aggression against the rights of free men and the existence of free government may be a part of the international picture, we must be prepared for whatever this may finally mean to us," he said.

The Chief of Staff, who shared the platform with Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz and Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, received an ovation from the 6,000 Legionnaires at the second session of the 29th national convention, held in the gaily-decorated 71st Regiment Armory on Lower Park Avenue instead of Madison Square Garden as at yesterday's opening meeting.

Most of the speechmaking was concluded today, with tomorrow reserved for the Legion parade up Fifth Avenue.

Eisenhower gave emphatic endorsement to a universal training program, which was backed strongly by President Truman, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Secretary of Defense-designate James V. Forrestal and other notables at the opening session. A campaign to win congres-

Formal Ending Of Hostilities Now Imminent

Troop Withdrawals Slated To Follow

LONDON, Aug. 29 (AP) — Russia ratified the long-delayed peace treaties with Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland tonight, bringing in sight the formal end of hostilities with five wartime allies of Nazi Germany.

Announcement of the treaty ratifications was made by the Moscow radio which said the action was taken by the Praesidium of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R.

Ratification by the Soviet Union completed action by the four major powers on the treaties drafted last year in Paris. The victors in World War II still have to decide upon peace terms for Germany, Austria and Japan.

Formal ending of hostilities against Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland will come when the instruments of ratification are deposited in Paris and Moscow. Withdrawal of some occupation troops is scheduled to follow.

A British official said Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister, had promised that Russia would agree to "an early date" for the deposit of the instruments of ratification.

The United States, Britain and France took action on the five treaties months ago, but Russia, by delaying action, had held up the return toward peace time conditions in the beaten nations.

Approval Is Tempered

The first reaction in European capitals to the Moscow announcement was one of relief. But diplomatic sources tempered their approval by pointing out that Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria already have been accused by the United States and Britain of violating the "human rights" sections of the pacts.

Reports also indicated that the Russian ratification—which came only a few days after approval was rushed through the Parliaments of Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary—was given to facilitate the admission of Eastern European nations into the United Nations. The United Nations General Assembly meets in New York September 16.

The Italian Minister of the Interior, Mario Scelba, declared in Rome that Russia apparently delayed ratification of the Italian treaty in order to keep Italy from gaining United Nations membership last week. Premier Alcide De Gasperi merely expressed the hope that the ratification now had removed all obstacles to Italy's membership in the United Nations.

The terms of the five pacts deprive the defeated nations of much territory, a large part of their defense forces and $1,330,000,000 in reparations. Italy is reduced to the status of a third-rate power, stripped of colonies, indebted by reparations, her homeland reduced and her army and navy cut to a relative shadow.

Only two countries will be relieved of the direct influence of foreign troops by the formal ending of hostilities.

Under the terms of the pacts Russia is pledged to withdraw her sol-

Citizens Of Boys Town Seek Clues In Slaying

OMAHA, Aug. 29 (AP) — Citizens of Father E. J. Flanagan's famed Boys Town joined deputy sheriffs in a search today for new clues into the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. May, 2nd, Alexandria, Va.

The search for additional clues was launched after a filling station attendant and a construction worker at Grand Island, Neb., failed to identify two suspects held there as the men who hitched a ride to Omaha with the socially-prominent couple Wednesday night.

Bodies of the Mays were found in a clump of bushes two and one-half miles west of Boys Town Thursday morning. The two had been shot in the head with a .38 caliber revolver. Their blood splattered automobile was located later in an Omaha alley.

Resumption Of Safety Inspections For Maryland Cars Urged By Elgin

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 29—State Motor Vehicles Commissioner W. Lee Elgin today proposed resumption of safety inspections for Maryland automobiles, trucks and buses.

"Lase year we killed 417 people on our streets and highways," he declared. "If we get the right kind of inspection, we can cut that by one-third. Saving the lives of that many people is important, isn't it?"

Elgin said legislation requiring semi-annual safety inspections at state-operated garages was "buried in committee" at this year's session of the General Assembly.

There already is an inspection system on the Maryland statute books but it was suspended by gubernatorial decree in 1941 as a war emergency measure.

Until then, automobile owners were required to have their cars inspected each September at a privately-owned garage certified by the vehicles department. If their machines passed, stickers were affixed to the windshield.

Garages paid $2.50 for certification by the state and could charge nothing for the inspection. The only way they could make money on the system was by selling spare parts or making the repairs necessary to pass.

"A few garages made a racket out of that before the war and supplied the stickers without ever making an inspection," Elgin said. "The greater number co-operated, but when it became difficult to get the parts or hire the mechanics to make the repairs they lost interest in the work and dropped it.

"The Automobile Trade Association is meeting in Ocean City next Friday and I am going to ask them to resume the inspection. I believe they can get the spare parts and the mechanics now, and I hope to resume the work."

State Tax Collections Reach Record Total

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — State tax collections during fiscal 1947, which ended last June 30, rose 12.5 per cent over the previous year to a record total of $6,800,000,000, the Census Bureau reported today.

Even so, all the states together collected little more than one-sixth of the $39,108,000,000 taken in from taxes by the federal government during that period.

The Census Bureau said state governments in general expect both their tax collections and spending to be higher in the fiscal year recently started.

Castaways Sizzle As Navy, Coast Guard Decline To Go To Their Aid

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 29—(AP)—Four airmen and a fuel-less seaplane sizzled on blistering Caribbean Islands today with neither the Coast Guard nor Navy willing to go to their aid because their case doesn't constitute an "emergency."

The modern Crusoes—who flew southward from Key West Monday to inspect Swan Island for a proposed cattle quarantine station after the government had asked for bids—complained bitterly of their plight, but their clamoring brought no gasoline.

As a result, three men twiddled their thumbs on tiny Swan Island, 600 miles south of Miami, while their plane lay useless for lack of fuel. A fourth man was marooned on lonely Grand Cayman Island, waiting to be picked up.

The men are Albert Janes, pilot, Orlando, Fla.; William A. Kruzen and his father, I. A. Kruzen, Tampa, Fla.; who are on Swan Island, and a "Mr. Parker," who was dropped off Tuesday at Grand Cayman to look into the prospects of a new airline between the island and Tampa, Fla.

The party—equipped with two-way radio—ran into fuel trouble when the radio range station they expected to guide them to Swan Island was not operating, and they decided on a longer route, via Bonacca Island, using up all of their gasoline. They gambled that Swan Island would have fuel at its weather station. They guessed wrong.

A Tampa importer, C. E. Hamilton, said three of his fruit ships pass Swan Island frequently—but he held out no hope of gasoline for at least a week. However, he offered philosophical advice:

"It is a lovely island," he said. "It is three miles long and 23 feet above sea level, with plenty of food. It's a splendid place to get away from it all."

Flareup Between U. S., Argentina Settled Amicably

Mexican Compromise Proposal Is Adopted

QUITANDINHA, Brazil, Aug. 29 (AP) — Argentina withdrew tonight her proposed amendment to the Inter-American mutual defense treaty which would have limited the treaty's application to the hemisphere security zone, thus ending an impasse and permitting unanimous adoption of a Mexican compromise.

The Mexican proposal provides that the treaty should apply in event of "invasion by armed forces of the state or territory of an American state." The previous wording of the draft treaty said merely "territory" of an American state.

Adoption of the compromise wording by the Aggression Committee of the conference apparently removed the last obstacle to approval of the entire treaty.

Sections Of Pact Approved

The plenary session tonight unanimously approved two sections of the pact, the preamble and principles and the section on voting procedure.

The Argentine amendment had provoked a flare of heated debate between the United States and Argentina in the Aggression Committee earlier today, but the issue was settled amicably between Argentine and United States delegates along the lines of the Mexican compromise.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenburg (R-Mich), United States delegate, had declared the Argentine amendment a restriction on even the obligation to consult in the case of aggression and a violation of the United Nations Charter.

Vandenburg Addresses Lawmakers

Vandenburg also addressed a joint session of the Brazilian Congress at which he said that completion of the hemispheric defense pact by the 19-nation conference—which convened August 15 and had virtually finished the treaty draft by yesterday—would "strengthen and encourage peace forces throughout the world" and "set the organization of the United Nations a significent example."

The Argentine proposal which set off the debate would apply the principle of "effective jurisdiction" only within the pole-to-pole security zone in which any attack would constitute an aggression against all the American republics.

Atomic Power Is Brought Nearer

LOS ALAMOS, N. M., Aug. 29 (AP) — A significant stride toward an atomic power plant, involving a harnessed version of the atomic bomb, was announced today by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The commission said it had developed an atomic reaction plant, called a "pile," which actually is "a controlled form of the atomic bomb."

In it, an atomic explosion releases a steady, sustained flow of energy instead of turning it loose in an instantaneous, crushing blast. And operators can control the rate at which energy is generated.

The atomic furnace is a long way from being in itself a plant which can generate useful power for industrial or other purposes by splitting atoms.

But Dr. Norris E. Bradbury, director of the commission's Los Alamos scientific laboratory, said the plant supplies a more intense source of "fast neutrons" and it is hoped this will "make possible the study of fast neutron chain reactions in more detail, and thus be another step toward finding the best type of chain reactor for the production of useful power."

He said the plant, developed secretly at Los Alamos, has been operated successfully since last November.

Baby Sitter Runs Off With Baby's Father, Baby

ATLANTA, Aug. 29—(AP)—A 25-year-old mother complained to the Fulton County Grand Judy today that her 17-year-old aunt and chief baby sitter had not only run off with her husband but the baby as well.

And, said Mrs. Obie Porter, she wanted her son, Billy, aged 18 months, back. Her husband, Meredith Porter, 43, she said she didn't want. She asked that he be indicted for abandonment of their older child, Tommy, 3, and the Grand Jury complied.

Mrs. Porter told the jury that her mother's half sister came to live with her, keep house and mind the baby. Not long ago, Mrs. Porter continued, the baby sitter called and said she and Mrs. Porter's husband were leaving with the baby.

"When I got home," said Mrs. Porter, "they had all gone." She charged her husband had taken the baby to Meadville, Miss., his home, and refused to release him.

Arc Or Spark Blamed For Coal Mine Blast

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Bureau of Mines said today an electric locomotive or a workman smoking may have touched off the explosion that killed 27 miners in a West Frankfort, Ill., coal mine July 24.

A preliminary report by four of the seven federal coal mine inspectors assigned to investigate the disaster attributed it to ignition of methane, an explosive gas.

The investigators said they could not determine definitely the source of the ignition in the Old Ben Coal Corporation's No. 8 mine, but that available evidence indicated the gas was ignited by an arc or spark from an electric gathering locomotive.

Hirshberg Will Serve 10-Month Sentence

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—Harold E. Hirshberg, 29-year-old Navy chief signalman, has been sentenced to 10 months imprisonment followed by dishonorable discharge for striking fellow war prisoners in a Japanese prison camp, the Navy announced today.

After a three-week trial by a Navy court-martial earlier this month, Hirshberg, a resident of Brooklyn, was convicted of striking Chief Carpenter's Mate George N. Gaboury, 36, Webster, Mass., and Chief Boatswain's Mate Robert H. Welch, 26, Tulsa, Okla.

He was acquitted on seven counts charging that he reported prisoners' escape plans to Japanese guards, causing torture of three men and the death of one, Army Pvt. George Garrett, Waco, Tex.

Physician Is Convicted On Fornication Charge

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Aug. 29 (AP) —A 28-year-old Pennsylvania physician was convicted today of fornication but was freed of rape and two other charges brought by a 23-year-old dishwasher.

The physician, Dr. Robert S. Lefever, also had been charged with assault with intent to ravish and administering a drug with intent to commit a felony.

An all-male jury deliberated the case three and a half hours. The offense carries a maximum penalty of $100 fine.

Mrs. Rita Dryer told the jurors Dr. Lefever gave her "a white pill" for a headache when she visited his office November 21, 1946, then assaulted her while she was under the influence of the drug.

UMW May Not Sign Affidavits

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The United Mine Workers threw out a broad hint today that its officers would feel justified in refusing to sign anti-Communist affidavits provided for in the Taft-Hartley Act, but whether they actually would do so remained undetermined.

An article in the U. M. W. Journal said "men whose forefathers, relatives and offspring fought on down the line from the Revolutionary War to World War II and who conducted the affairs of the unions they direct to the exclusion of Communists, Ku Kluxers and all other subversive elements" have an inherent right to decline an invitation to prove they are devoted to the American way of life.

The new labor act requires officers of unions desiring to use the services of the National Labor Relations Board to sign affidavits declaring they are not Communists.

The Republican National Committee, meantime, made public a pamphlet entitled "The Truth About The Labor Management Relations Act Of 1947." That is the full name for the Taft-Hartley measure.

The pamphlet said the act was "the fulfillment of a major campaign pledge by the Republican Party" in 1946, and that the measure "established equal rights and responsibilities for management and labor in their relationships, and increased safeguards for the rights of individual workers."

USSR Hurls Atom Monopoly Charge

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 29—(AP)—The Soviet Union charged once more today that the United States is seeking a world-wide monopoly on atomic energy.

In a long-awaited declaration, Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian Deputy Foreign Minister, also rejected a series of six papers approved by a majority of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission. These documents, which Russia refused to help draft and on which she had not committed herself definitely until now, deal with constituting and running an international atomic control agency.

Gromyko told the Political Committee of the commission that every statement by the United States "convinces us" that the United States is seeking a monopoly.

He said these papers seek to protect the interests of one country by securing a monopoly for that country in atomic energy.

Gromyko hurled the monopoly charge at the United States for the first time last spring. It was met then by a snappy reply and denial from Warren R. Austin, United States delegate. Frederick H. Osborn, United States atomic deputy, did not reply today but indicated he would study Gromyko's speech carefully.

ZARAGOZA, Spain, Aug. 29—(AP)—Fifteen persons were reported killed and 21 injured tonight when a rain-weakened bridge collapsed under a passenger train near the town of Villaroya.

Doctor Is Credited With Cupid Assist

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 29— (AP) —A "shot" by a doctor enabled Kemble Stubblefield, 25, to get married even though he knew that in a few minutes he must enter a hospital and have his appendix removed.

Stubblefield became ill and visited a physician an hour before his wedding to Miss Mildred Schladensky, 23. He was told that his appendix must come out.

"I explained that I was getting married in an hour, so the doctor gave me a shot to ease the pain," he said.

The ceremony performed—though Stubblefield was half hour late in arriving — he immediately entered a hospital and the operation was carried out.

30,600-Ton Battleship New Mexico For Sale

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—The 30,600-ton battleship New Mexico, built at an estimated cost of $7,800,000 in 1918 and subsequently subjected to several expensive face-liftings, is up for sale.

But the buyer of the big battlewagon, which tasted her first blood late in her career, must be an American citizen agreeable to the idea of beating its superannuated hull and batteries into plowshares of their equivalents.

Sealed bids must be submitted to the New York naval shipyard in Brooklyn by September 30, and the successful bidder will be required to scrap the vessel, now tied up at commonwealth Pier 1, East Boston, Mass.

Legal Off-Track Betting Opposed

BALTIMORE, Aug. 29 — (AP) — Chairman Stuart S. Janney, Jr., of the State Racing Commission, said today that in his opinion legalizing of off-track betting on horse racing would spell "the death of racing" in Maryland.

Emphasizing this was his personal opinion, and not that of the commission, Janney said it was not a moral issue, but one involving the economic welfare of Baltimore City.

Several City Council members have suggested legalizing and taxing of bookmakers as a means of raising additional revenue for the municipality.

"I think it must be conceded that there is a limit on the amount of betting which any community will tolerate," Janney said in a statement.

"The scheme or legalizing off-the-track betting sets up gambling as a business in itself and entices people to bet just for the sake of betting. It is my judgment that it would turn out to be harmful to the public because it would lead to more betting than is good for the welfare of the community."

He said tradesmen and business would feel its effects.

Flareup Between U. S., Argentina Settled Amicably

Mexican Compromise Proposal Is Adopted

QUITANDINHA, Brazil, Aug. 29 (AP) — Argentina withdrew tonight her proposed amendment to the inter-American mutual defense treaty which would have limited the treaty's application to the hemisphere security zone, thus ending an impasse and permitting unanimous adoption of a Mexican compromise.

The Mexican proposal provides that the treaty should apply in event of "invasion by armed forces of the state or territory of an American state." The previous wording of the draft treaty said merely "territory" of an American state.

Adoption of the compromise wording by the Aggression Committee of the conference apparently removed the last obstacle to approval of the entire treaty.

Sections Of Pact Approved

The plenary session tonight unanimously approved two sections of the pact, the preamble and principles and the section on voting procedure.

The Argentine amendment had provoked a flare of heated debate between the United States and Argentina in the Aggression Committee earlier today, but the issue was settled amicably between Argentine and United States delegates along the lines of the Mexican compromise.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenburg (R-Mich), United States delegate, had declared the Argentine amendment a restriction on even the obligation to consult in the case of aggression and a violation of the United Nations Charter.

Vandenburg Addresses Lawmakers

Vandenburg also addressed a joint session of the Brazilian Congress at which he said that completion of the hemispheric defense pact by the 19-nation conference—which convened August 15 and had virtually finished the treaty draft by yesterday—would "strengthen and encourage peace forces throughout the world' and "set the organization of the United Nations a significent example."

The Argentine proposal which set off the debate would apply the principle of "effective jurisdiction" only within the pole-to-pole security zone in which any attack would constitute an aggression against all the American republics.

Atomic Power Is Brought Nearer

LOS ALAMOS, N. M., Aug. 29 (AP) — A significant stride toward an atomic power plant, involving a harnessed version of the atomic bomb, was announced today by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The commission said it had developed an atomic reaction plant, called a "pile," which actually is "a controlled form of the atomic bomb."

In it, an atomic explosion releases a steady, sustained flow of energy instead of turning it loose in an instantaneous, crushing blast. And operators can control the rate at which energy is generated.

The atomic furnace is a long way from being in itself a plant which can generate useful power for industrial or other purposes by splitting atoms.

But Dr. Norris E. Bradbury, director of the commission's Los Alamos scientific laboratory, said the plant supplies a more intense source of "fast neutrons" and it is hoped this will "make possible the study of fast neutron chain reactions in more detail, and thus be another step toward finding the best type of chain reactor for the production of useful power."

He said the plant, developed secretly at Los Alamos, has been operated successfully since last November.

Baby Sitter Runs Off With Baby's Father, Baby

ATLANTA, Aug. 29—(AP)—A 25-year-old mother complained to the Fulton County Grand Judy today that her 17-year-old aunt and chief baby sitter had not only run off with her husband but the baby as well.

And, said Mrs. Obie Porter, she wanted her son, Billy, aged 18 months, back. Her husband, Meredith Porter, 43, she said she didn't want. She asked that he be indicted for abandonment of their older child, Tommy, 3, and the Grand Jury complied.

Mrs. Porter told the jury that her mother's half sister came to live with her, keep house and mind the baby. Not long ago, Mrs. Porter continued, the baby sitter called and said she and Mrs. Porter's husband were leaving with the baby.

"When I got home," said Mrs. Porter, "they had all gone." She charged her husband had taken the baby to Meadville, Miss., his home, and refused to release him.

Arc Or Spark Blamed For Coal Mine Blast

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Bureau of Mines said today an electric locomotive or a workman smoking may have touched off the explosion that killed 27 miners in a West Frankfort, Ill., coal mine July 24.

A preliminary report by four of the seven federal coal mine inspectors assigned to investigate the disaster attributed it to ignition of methane, an explosive gas.

The investigators said they could not determine definitely the source of the ignition in the Old Ben Coal Corporation's No. 8 mine, but that available evidence indicated the gas was ignited by an arc or spark from an electric gathering locomotive.

2. Was chased by Rover, her 9-year-old beagle;

Hirshberg Will Serve 10-Month Sentence

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—Harold E. Hirshberg, 29-year-old Navy chief signalman, has been sentenced to 10 months imprisonment followed by dishonorable discharge for striking fellow war prisoners in a Japanese prison camp, the Navy announced today.

After a three-week trial by a Navy court-martial earlier this month, Hirshberg, a resident of Brooklyn, was convicted of striking Chief Carpenter's Mate George N. Gaboury, 36, Webster, Mass., and Chief Boatswain's Mate Robert H. Welch, 26, Tulsa, Okla.

He was acquitted on seven counts charging that he reported prisoners' escape plans to Japanese guards, causing torture of three men and the death of one, Army Pvt. George Garrett, Waco, Tex.

Contestants from the state's 23 counties will parade before a panel of judges in the pavilion at 1:30 tomorrow and the winner must be both pretty and talented.

Gates open on the agricultural and home crafts exhibits at 8 a. m. Monday and the big fair area is expected to bulge at the seams before Labor Day is over.

Physician Is Convicted On Fornication Charge

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Aug. 29 (AP) —A 28-year-old Pennsylvania physician was convicted today of fornication but was freed of rape and two other charges brought by a 23-year-old dishwasher.

The physician, Dr. Robert S. Lefever, also had been charged with assault with intent to ravish and administering a drug with intent to commit a felony.

An all-male jury deliberated the case three and a half hours. The offense carries a maximum penalty of $100 fine.

Mrs. Rita Dryer told the jurors Dr. Lefever gave her "a white pill" for a headache when she visited his office November 21, 1946, then assaulted her while she was under the influence of the drug.

UMW May Not Sign Affidavits

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The United Mine Workers threw out a broad hint today that its officers would feel justified in refusing to sign anti-Communist affidavits provided for in the Taft-Hartley Act, but whether they actually would do so remained undetermined.

An article in the U. M. W. Journal said "men whose forefathers, relatives and offspring fought on down the line from the Revolutionary War to World War II and who conducted the affairs of the unions they direct to the exclusion of Communists, Ku Kluxers and all other subversive elements" have an inherent right to decline an invitation to prove they are devoted to the American way of life.

The new labor act requires officers of unions desiring to use the services of the National Labor Relations Board to sign affidavits declaring they are not Communists.

The Republican National Committee, meantime, made public a pamphlet entitled "The Truth About The Labor Management Relations Act Of 1947." That is the full name for the Taft-Hartley measure.

The pamphlet said the act was "the fulfillment of a major campaign pledge by the Republican Party" in 1946, and that the measure "established equal rights and responsibilities for management and labor in their relationships, and increased safeguards for the rights of individual workers."

LOSE HOME—Stephen Zivich, 59, tries to console his wife, Pauline, 54, as the couple appeared in police court at Cleveland and explained how they lost their home because for three years they mistakenly sent their mortgage payments to the wrong bank. Evicted in July, they refused to believe the home is not theirs anymore.

USSR Hurls Atom Monopoly Charge

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 29—(AP)—The Soviet Union charged once more today that the United States is seeking a world-wide monopoly on atomic energy.

In a long-awaited declaration, Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian Deputy Foreign Minister, also rejected a series of six papers approved by a majority of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission. These documents, which Russia refused to help draft and on which she had not committed herself definitely until now, deal with constituting and running an international atomic control agency.

Gromyko told the Political Committee of the commission that every statement by the United States "convinces us" that the United States is seeking a monopoly.

He said these papers seek to protect the interests of one country by securing a monopoly for that country in atomic energy.

Gromyko hurled the monopoly charge at the United States for the first time last spring. It was met then by a snappy reply and denial from Warren R. Austin, United States delegate. Frederick H. Osborn, United States atomic deputy, did not reply today but indicated he would study Gromyko's speech carefully.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Miss Fairfax Says No Girl Of 17 Is Ready For Marriage

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 17. A year ago, I met a fellow of 25. He is now in the service, but has been writing me letters telling me he loves me, and I know I love him, although I am not yet thinking of marriage.

He has asked my age many times, but I have always stalled on telling him, because I am afraid he will consider me too young for him. Before I met him, I had an affair with another fellow.

He is soon to return from service, and my two questions are: If he really loves me as he says he does, do you think my age would matter? And should I tell him about my affair?

FRANCES

Dear Frances:

If this young man is a wise person, he will want to wait until you are older before marrying you no matter how much he may love you. And you yourself should see the wisdom of waiting.

No girl of 17 is ready for marriage, besides which, the very fact that you made the kind of mistake you did shows that you are very far from maturity, and that you have not acquired either judgment or self-control, both of which are qualities very much needed in marriage. If you were to marry this man before you develop them, it is not at all impossible that you might find yourself being led astray again by some chap with whom you happened to become infatuated.

As for confessing that you have already had an affair, I suggest that you wait awhile before making any decision about this, too. For all you know, nothing may come of this romance anyhow. Either one or both of you may have a change of heart before you get around to talking about marriage and decide that you aren't in love with each other after all.

Pickups By Mail Inadvisable

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am writing you in answer to the letter printed in a recent column of yours signed "Lonesome."

I am a widow of the same age as the gentleman who wrote the letter, and would also be interested in meeting someone, as I am a very lonesome person. Perhaps you could also help me by telling me the name of some club or society where I would meet men and women of my age, or even some way I could meet this gentleman.

"A Lonely Widow"

Dear "Lonely Widow":

If you read the letter signed "Lonesome," you undoubtedly also read my answer to it, in which I said that picking people up through the mails was a very poor idea, and that there are much better ways of meeting people than that.

I think that you should look around your town for a good place to start acquiring more friends, which usually means to join some community group. It makes very little difference what type of organization you choose, provided, of course, that it is a thoroughly reputable one. If you attend a church regularly, there must be groups there you could join which carry on interesting activity programs. If there's a Red Cross chapter in town, join that, and get interested in working for others. Every community has a number of such social service organizations that are always eager for volunteers. Don't take an upstage attitude toward all-woman groups, either, since it's not at all impossible that you might meet eligible male relatives through them.

The point is that the way to make new friends is to go where people are, and, if you are a cheery, companionable person, one friend always leads to another.

FRANKRURT, Germany, Aug. 29, (AP) — Seventeen thousand carats of cut diamonds valued at $2,500,000, taken by the Nazis from Dutch merchants during the occupation, were returned to the Netherlands by a United States troop convoy.

Heavily armed, the convoy took the gems to Beek, a frontier town near Nijmegen, to turn them over to the Dutch Economics Minister.

"We are restituting the precious stones in time for Queen Wilhelmina of Holland's birthday on Sunday," said Col. William G. Brey, chief of the United States Military Government's foreign exchange depository.

Labor Day And Its Challenge To Drivers Of Automobiles

Monday is Labor Day. It will be observed in the traditional manner with parades, picnics and oratory by labor leaders at rallies arranged by the various units of organized labor. The holiday falls this year on the earliest date possible. It marks the climax to the vacation season for not only those who work but for pupils of our elementary schools, students of our high schools and for those who will start packing for the first semester at colleges and universities.

Labor Day, falling always on a Monday, provides a long weekend holiday for most people, and there are those who will travel to far distant places to visit family or friends, or to summer camp and nearby summer resorts. It became evident last night, when the rush to get away started, that the Labor Day traffic will approach record breaking proportions. Every precaution against accidents on the highways should be taken by automobile drivers.

Don't celebrate this holiday with an accident. It was important that you had your car checked thoroughly before starting your trip. The time to have found out how good your brakes were was before you took to the road, and not when you slammed your foot on the pedal in case of emergency.

It is advisable to take a half-hour rest after driving more than two or three hours. Dr. Paul Neal, one of the leading scientists with the National Institute of Health, makes this urgent recommendation. He points out that because all faculties of vision, attention, and muscular co-ordination are involved in safe-driving, fatigue is one of the chief causes of traffic accidents.

Drivers should keep their tempers, and not lose patience if traffic is moving slowly. Keep your wits about you every second and remember, a little judicious care may save your life and the lives of others.

Rivers Have Unseen Pitfalls To Bring Sorrow To Bathers

This weekend will find hundreds of our citizens leaving the city to spend the Labor Day holiday at their summer cottages along the Potomac river, and elsewhere. If the weather continues warm most of them will seek relief in the waters bordering their camping areas. In their holiday spirit it is not likely they will give much thought to the dangers lurking in their midst, which could spoil an otherwise happy period of rest and relaxation.

On the seashore the tides come in and go out over a smooth floor with an easy grade, and leave things about as they were before. The bather can walk out with confidence in his footing, and nothing much can happen to him except what the billows may do by their smashing attacks or by an undertow.

Swimming in a river—the Potomac or any other—is different. Every rainstorm does things to it—and we have had plenty of them—anchoring snags in the bottom or creating new sandbars.

When a swimmer walks out into the cloudy waters of a river, he may step off into a deep pit or a whirlpool that gave no hint of its presence and was not known to be there before. This has been happening hereabouts on several occasions.

At any time, also, river bathing may carry dangers of typhoid.

To familiar safety precautions it is well to add the reminder that a river bottom holds surprises. So, be careful.

Smashing Atom Not So Full Of Deadly Potentialities

To the layman, whose mind is just beginning to grasp the terrible implications of the atomic bomb, any further tinkering with the atom would seem better let alone. The great new advances in atom smashing announced by the University of California, however, are not so full of deadly potentialities.

Atom smashing in a cyclotron is something different from the nuclear fission of the atomic bomb. In atom smashing the atom is split asunder by the highly concentrated bombardment of nuclei of other elements. It is similar, but a much smaller scale, to the natural smashing of atoms by cosmic rays. Furthermore, the chain-reaction of the atomic bomb type depends on the use of a relatively unstable element. Very stable and inert elements can be smashed in a cyclotron, and chain reaction is not an important factor.

There is, of course, no assurance that atom smashing may not become of military value. The automobile was not designed as a war weapon. But the research into atom smashing to date has been carried on for entirely peaceful purposes. And those purposes are highly important.

The University of California achievement in extensively smashing an atom has disclosed vast new fields of possibilities. Whole new forms of radio-active elements have been uncovered and old elements have been changed into different forms. This modern variation of the alchemist's search for a method to turn baser metal into gold has been successful. Medicine alone, by having access to new radio-active substances for the treatment of disease, will benefit measurably. A vista has been opened which promises great good for mankind.

It's Really Simple

Every so often, usually in what are termed "good times," swindlers find sucker response unusually good. This explains the current rash of chain-money-letters. A similar hysteria swept the country in the lush twenties, but came to its ending when the federal authorities and then the depression moved in.

Now the letter writers are busy again, and are getting the usual response from some people who are unthinking enough to fall for their racket. All a person has to do to win a fortune, he is informed, is to do as the chain letters tell him—providing, of course, everybody else in the chain does likewise.

Of course, the return from one circuit totals only $2,048, but no one is obliged to confine himself to one chain. He can get in on a half dozen. What could be simpler? Rather the question should be phrased, "Who could be simpler?"

Chicago woman who married a man because he could sing and now wants to divorce him probably wishes she had bought a canary.

POST-WAR BOOM IN BABIES

SOME one asked if the United States would ever have to resort to bonuses or subsidies to increase the native population. No one knows what the future will bring but for the present there is no such luck for prospective parents. We are having a bumper crop of babies by following our natural impulses and need no governmental encouragement.

Last year the stork outdid himself and set an all time record. The Metropolitan bulletin reported that 3,440,000 infants were born in this country, exceeding the previous high of 3,150,000 in 1943. Furthermore 973,000 young ones were delivered in the first three months of 1947. The outlook for population growth is much brighter than during the past quarter of a century as a whole.

From 1915 on there was a steady decline in the birth rate until a low point was reached in 1936. Then the curve started upward. The summit of 1946 can be explained by the rapid demobilization of the armed forces after V-J Day and the rise in the number of marriages thereafter. Last year likewise set a record for nuptials, and since there was a backlog of delayed weddings due to the war it is doubtful whether this peak will be surpassed for some time to come.

Uncle Sam can also be proud of the fact that in 1946 the total death rate as well as the infant mortality fell to new lows. With an excess of births over deaths our population rose approximately 2,000,000 from this source alone. Even tho it was a "measles year" and we had a polio epidemic with more than 25,000 victims, fewer children succumbed to communicable diseases; and the percentage of fatalities subsequent to pneumonia, diarrhea, and appendicitis was decreased. The widespread use of the sulfa drugs and penicillin is beginning to pay dividends.

The augmented births of 1943 and 1946 may provide a headache for the schools thruout the nation and many more teachers and units will be required during the next few years when all these tots will be ready for kindergarten and first grade. This state of affairs will continue for years all along the line and by 1957, 5,000,000 more youngsters than now will be registered in elementary schools. Additional facilities will be necessary to promote the physical and mental health of our boys and girls.

In Chicago the situation is said to be somewhat different. The population is multiplying, but not because there are more children. Last year the Windy City had a greater proportion of individuals between 35 and 54 than in the whole United States. As a result there is a decreasing number of school children. In 1920 the ratio of adults to grade school pupils was 5 to 1; in 1940, 8 to 1; and today, 10 to 1.

SWIM WITH SCIATICA

W. M. writes: Would you advise a person with sciatica to swim in a lake or outdoor pool on a warm day?

REPLY

This is difficult to answer as there are many causes and degrees of severity in sciatic pain. Generally the exercise is safe provided straining and chilling do not result.

INADEQUATE CIRCULATION

C. N. writes: Is a coronary deficiency the same as angina pectoris?

REPLY

Not exactly, as it is a matter of cause and effect. Angina pectoris is the name given the condition which results from poor circulation to the heart altho coronary insufficiency may be present without producing symptoms of angina.

EFFECT OF HEAT

B. J. I. writes: Do certain parts of the body swell if one is allergic to heat?

REPLY

Excess heat has an adverse effect on all of us and the result may range from pure laziness to exhaustion or heat stroke. In the allergic individual, less heat is probably required to produce the symptoms. As a rule, local reactions are rare. On the other hand, swelling of the hands, generalized hives, or even bronchial asthma may result in extremely sensitive individuals.

INDIGESTION

G. H. writes: What is waterbrash?

REPLY

The word means "heartburn" and is one of the many components of indigestion.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

They used to say, "two can live as cheaply as one." Now they have to in order to pay for the license. Yes sir, the price of marriage licenses has just been raised.

With the increase in license rates, marriage has become a big business. In fact, I looked at the financial page yesterday and "ball and chain" is up two and a half.

Of course, this is going to take a lot of the romance out of marriage. The gentle strains of "O Promise Me" will be drowned out by the tinkle of the cash register.

Now you'll really have to go to Niagara Falls in a barrel. They say marriage is a bond. Theyre not kidding—only you can't cash it in. I hear that for those who can afford it they have special deluxe licenses for $25. They're made out of old Atwater Kent tablecloths. When you buy one of these they throw in a three-piece orchestra, two witnesses and a guest spot on the Good Will Hour.

Of course, Tommy Manville has a custom-made license. It's like a calendar; it changes every month.

Of course, things have changed since I got married. It was only $2 then. I know, I distinctly remember the Justice of the Peace giving my wife $3 change.

ATTY. GENERAL CLARK WILL NOW INVESTIGATE THE SOURCE OF HIGH PRICES.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Former Secretary of War Patterson Deserves Recognition For High Devotion To Public Trust; Has Met Every Test Of Selfless Citizenship

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—In the practically daily welter of outcries and charges against men in high office, it is vital to keep in mind that there are many more Americans who have a lofty sense of duty and who serve their country honorably, devotedly and courageously.

Too frequently the distinguished deeds and records of these citizens do not receive the acclaim they so richly deserve. Selfless devotion to public trust, as a general rule, does not make smash headlines. But throughout the nation's history it has been such citizens, big and small, who have fought and won its battles and made the U. S. the mighty world power it is today.

It is the Merry-Go-Round's pleasure and honor to pay tribute to such an American by bestowing on him the brass ring for outstandingly patriotic and distinguished service to his country. Throughout his life, from the field of battle to high public office, he has met every test of selfless citizenship unfailingly, modestly and valorously.

This great American is Robert P. Patterson, former Secretary of War.

In bestowing the brass ring on him, this column in a very small way is endeavoring to make up for the inexplicable failure to decorate him with the high medal he deserved when he retired from office recently. Far lesser men received DSM's and Legions of Merit. Why Bob Patterson was not so honored is a mystery. He merited it outstandingly on every count.

It can be said, of course, that he did not require such recognition. His kind of integrity, courage, and lofty sense of duty need no decoration to embellish them.

Also, in his lapel, Bob Patterson wears the gleaming pin of the Distinguished Service Cross that he won for extraordinary heroism in battle as a young company commander in World War I. A DSM would have added luster to this DSC, but could not have replaced it.

Yet, it would have been a gracious and eminently fitting act to have awarded him the DSM.

Iron Courage

Those who know Bob Patterson, know that he unhesitatingly gave up a lifetime position as a U. S. Circuit Court Judge to respond to the late President Roosevelt's request to assume the onerous and thankless responsibilities of directing the Logistics Branch of the War Department. They also know how he worked unflaggingly and fiercely to arm and equip his unprepared country.

But only a few members of his staff know of one particular act of uniquely outstanding fortitude and high sense of duty.

Patterson's only son was an AAF bombardier. The young soldier was a member of the crack squadron selected to make the first raid on the vital Ploesti oilfields in Rumania on Aug. 1, 1943. It was crucial to smash these installations in order to deprive the Nazis of desperately needed gas and fuel oil. For that reason, the attack had to be made at "tree top" level.

With the heavy bombers based 1,200 miles away in Africa, that meant, in effect, a suicidal raid. Any plane that sustained damage had practically no chance of getting back.

On the day the attack was made, Patterson was scheduled to leave Washington on an urgent secret mission in the Pacific. Before he departed, the War Department received word that the raid had been very successful but that more than 37 per cent of the bombers had been lost.

It would have been very easy for Patterson, as Undersecretary of War, to have ascertained the fate of his only son. All Patterson had to do was to lift his phone and ask for the informatin.

But he quietly left Washington without seeking or knowing what had become of his boy.

Patterson's concept of duty was so meticulous and inflexible that he would not use his position to gain information not available to the fathers and mothers of the other boys who made that attack.

A week later, far out in the Pacific, Patterson was formally notified by the War Department that his son's plane had been shot down. However, the boy had not been in it. Two days before the raid, he had been hospitalized as the result of an injury in a crash.

Note: All the members of young Patterson's plane parachuted to safety and were captured by the Germans. After the war, all were recovered in a prison camp.

Modern Prosthetics

Another thing that only close friends know about Bob Patterson's service is that he is responsible for the Government's belated program to develop modern and effective artificial limbs.

Both the Army and Navy went to great lengths and cost to give the finest medical care to men who lost limbs. Special hospitals and rehabilitation centers were set up for amputees, who, at the height of the fighting, averaged as high as 1,500 a month. But at that point their efforts ended.

Nothing was done about modernizing the prosthetic devices upon which these handicapped men would have to depend the rest of their lives.

Both services gave the amputees the best artificial limbs that could be bought. But they still were obsolete, cumbersome and ineffectual. There had been no real improvement in artificial limbs since World Wor I.

In the spring of 1945, Patterson, personally, finally took hold of this tragic problem himself. Over the hidebound opposition of certain Army brasshats, he set up a committee of civilian scientists, engineers and surgeons, provided them with ample funds, and put them to work to lift artificial limbs out of the ice age.

This committee on artificial limbs is still functioning. It is now jointly supported by the War Department and Veterans Admnistration. It has already made some notable advances, and other promising developments are in progress. If this long-needed humanitarian program can be continued a few more years, the 800,000 amputees in the U. S.—civilians as well as veterans—can hopefully look forward to devices that will be as modern and as efficient as an up-to-date electric washing machine, at least.

If that modest goal is realized, it will be due in a large measure to the humanitarianism and high sense of duty of a great American—Robert P. Patterson.

Note: All devices developed under the committee on artificial limbs are made available to civilians through Government contracts with private limb-makers.

Expressions Of Ideals By Pope And Mr. Truman Are Significant

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—When the President of the United States and the Pope exchange messages on the subject of peace at a time of great csisis in the world, it is not an ordinary expression of ideals. There is a deeper significance in it than the phrases themselves can possibly convey.

Unquestionably the messages are a call to the moral forces of the world to examine realistically the arbitrary and inexplicable course of Russia and to perceive the dangers which can befall the peace of the world if men who believe in God divide their counsels or their energies and fail to see that all must have a common purpose.

Though obviously referring to the Soviet attitude, nowhere in the whole exchange is Russia mentioned. The two messages employ the implicit rather than explicit style. Thus President Truman articulated a great principle of Christian philosophy when he wrote:

"The times demand faith that is strong enough to struggle if need be for the right, that is able to endure troubles and hardships, attacks and even contempt from forces of evil—and able to arise reborn and revitalized from the daily struggle."

Not to Be Provoked Into War

This does not mean that America is thinking of war but it does mean she will not shrink from defense if attacked. This does mean, on the other hand, that America is not going to be provoked into war by nasty propaganda or the spread of lies concerning American purposes.

The Pope rightly places great reliance on moral force when he says in reply to Mr. Truman:

"Truth has lost none of its power to rally to its cause the most enlightened minds and noblest spirits. Their ardour is fed by the flame of righteous freedom struggling to break through injustice and lying. But those who possess the truth must be conscientious to define it clearly when its foes cleverly distort it; bold to defend it and generous enough to set the course of their lives both national and personal by its dictates."

The Pope speaks also of the "fragile structure of peace" today and breathes the courageous spirit of a church undismayed by Russian attacks. He says:

"Her (the church's) divinely-given mission often brings her into conflict with the powers of evil whose sole strength is in their physical force and brutalized spirit and her leaders are sent into exile or cast into prison or die under torture. This is history of today but the church is unafraid. She cannot compromise with an avowed enemy of God."

Persecutions Furnish Background

The recent news of persecutions of Catholic priests in the countries under Communist domination has undoubtedly furnished the background for this frank expression by the Pope.

Pope Pius XII is perhaps the most talented statesman of all the Popes of history. His brilliant mind and knowledge of European diplomacy is one of the reasons why the late President Roosevelt sent a special envoy to Rome to keep in touch with what the Vatican was doing in the realm of moral force. Such a contact is more than ever important. For the Catholic population of Europe is large in all countries where the Communists are making inroads and can be a most helpful ally in the application of moral force to the problems that face Europe.

To bring the Vatican and the American policy abroad close together through constant exchange of information is to serve notice on Soviet Russia that the democracies feel they are compelled by a righteous cause and that these moral forces intend to work together for peace by understanding and by the application of Christian principles. It may seem to cynical observers a wasteful effort but it must be tried so the whole world will be convinced of the sincerity of purpose behind the American program.

Decisions Facing Government Within Next 45 Days Are Grave

By MARK SULLIVAN

As we come to the eighth anniversary of the beginning of the recent war, an appropriate reflection is to be found in the words of a distinguished English author, Sir Osbert Sitwell. He is writing, not of the recent war but of the eve of the First World War in 1914, and the period preceding:

"I had the fortune to be born toward the sunset hour of one of the great periodic calms of history. So placid was this brief golden halt that often as a small child, passionately addicted to reading books of history, I used to wonder whether its stream had not already dried up."

Today in Washington one realizes how far from placid the stream of world events has become, how tumultuous its rush. This generation lives in a turmoil so headlong and complex that almost one speculates with a sense of wonder on the policy of mortal man to keep pace.

From the world-wide swirl can be detached one group of events which compose at least a tiny island of constructive effort, an attempt which, if it is successful, might be the basis of hope for a better condition in an important part of the world. This is the Marshall plan for the restoration of Europe. At the moment hope for the plan is disquieted by developments in the conference of 16 European nations at Paris which are to carry out the European part of the plan. What they have done so far suggests an expectation of greater aid from the United States than is practicable. This however was expected and does not dismay our officials. Some steps taken by the Paris Conference are sound, and the Conference will be informed by officials of our State Department about the limitations on what may be expected from the United States. The plan will proceed.

Marshall Plan Can Be Divided

The Marshall Plan can be divided into parts. One is a statement by the European nations of what they may do for themselves. This will include agreements upon reducing or removing tariffs, strengthening monetary systems, allocation and priorities for scarce materials, in general, the creation of conditions that build up confidence.

Another part of the plan, to be provided by the Paris Conference, is a statement of what the European nations, after their own all-out effort has been made, will need from us in food, materials and money. This statement will divide their need from us into two categories—what will be needed immediately to carry Europe through the winter, and what will be needed over the next few years until a date when help from this country will no longer be necessary.

Complementary to what is being done at Paris, three American committees set up by President Truman are working feverishly upon a study of our policy to aid Europe and how best we can contribute without dangerous strain upon us. This includes a study of our resources, financial and material such as coal, oil, farm products and the like.

Congress Must Act

After Europe's statement of its needs, and our statement of what we can supply, there will be analysis, comparison and checking by our State Department and other Administration officials. Thereafter, action will be up to Congress. That body is already preparing itself for well-informed judgment and evaluation of what and how much we can do. A committee of the House, accompanied by technical experts, left for Europe this week to make its own study, later a committee of the Senate will go. Rarely have committees of Congress approached any task with a more sober sense of responsibility.

To state the Marshall plan so briefly is of course an over-simplification. And the Marshall plan is not all. Apart from it but bearing directly on it are meetings between the English and American governments to decide on coal production in Germany, and meetings including the French government to decide about increasing the level of industry for Germany. Concurrently goes on the financial and economic crisis in Britain, about which action must be taken very soon. Added to all this are possible crises, either political or economic in Italy, France, and some other European countries.

Altogether the decisions which will face our government and people within the next 30 to 45 days are many and grave. It can be said that our officials, in the State Department and elsewhere in the Administration, face them with energy, with thoroughly informed understanding, and above all with an attitude that looks affirmatively in a constructive direction.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Fists Against God

WHEN a fellow butts into a quarrel that is none of his business, he is liable to have his ear bitten off. It is like walking into one of those gentle altercations between a husband and wife who are ready to murder each other but who turn jointly and severally upon the peacemaker and rend him.

Also, I am told that religion is a bad subject to discuss because it is taken too seriously by those who are interested. As I have been discussing religion for some 40 years, beginning at the knee of my rabbinical father, I have no fears about it. In fact, there is a fairly good record of at least 6,000 years of such discussion in the course of which some were stoned, beheaded, crucified, burned alive, imprisoned, pilloried and spat upon, beatified sanctified and glorified.

Is this a premonition that I, who am neither a Catholic nor a Protestant, protest vehemently against the current quarrel among Christians which seems to me unruly, harmful and without foundation.

At a time such as this, when a world-wide attack is being made on all the religions of God, when ugly, amoral materialism is being offered our children as sound thought, when millions of human beings have been displaced and even killed for their faith, it appears unseemly for the clergy of differing sects to be at each other's throats, fighting over trivialities when the fist of the enemy is always against God.

My own people have suffered horribly because a vested interest has grown up in the attack upon them and the defense of them. There is money in that business both ways—being against and being for. How much more has been collected one way or the other, I do not know. Some day maybe a Congressional Committee will get at that, too, and I am sure that it will not be a pretty story. Perhaps that game has played itself out and we are to have the spectacle of a Catholic-Protestant fight with the same old pinkoes moving in on it for all that the traffic will bear.

The principal issue seems to be that Catholic parochial schools have been claiming participation in certain social benefits provided American children through taxes. As I find the facts, no Catholic school has requested any State government for funds for buildings or teachers, for libraries, laboratories or other equipment. The Catholic schools have contended that if buses or free lunches, medical examinations, dental clinics or other social services are provided by the State for any American children, they should be given to all American children whatever their religion.

The two arguments usually adduced against the Catholics are: 1) that the State provides a free school system and that when parents choose to send their children to other schools, they automatically exclude themselves from whatever benefit the children in the public school system enjoy; 2) that the ideal of separation of Church and State is imperiled by the very existence of the parochial school.

What is involved here is the nature of education in a free society. Certainly the separation of Church and State cannot mean that the child is not to be educated in the faith of his parents whatever that faith may be, nor can it mean that the State, in providing social services for American children, should discriminate between one child and another on the basis of faith. If that is the logic of the situation, then only the children of atheists should benefit from the social services provided by the State. If that concept is false, what excuse exists for objecting to Catholic children riding to whatever school they go to in buses provided by the State?

Instead of fomenting strife, these clergy should join together with other men of God in a united front against all who corrupt and pervert our children by eliminating religions and morals from education. Millions are dying for their faith and these folks quarrel over buses for school children. I would provide buses to bring our children to Sunday schools, to churches—of any faith, of any denomination—that they might hear the word of God and not live in darkness.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Giving and Getting

The story of our entire lives may be centrally told about this business of giving and getting. We give, or exchange, for everything that we are and have. We give of our time and strength to earn an income, in order to give to get!

We cannot get anything without giving in some way or other. And this is as it should be. The good worker is proud of the service that he is able to give, and in return he gets happiness beyond the mere wage. Labor and remuneration should always be a happy exchange.

I know people who have hedged themselves into a solitary place, and then wonder why they are so unhappy, have so few friends, and little or no attention, is paid to them. You have to be friendly to have friends. You have to want them. And you have to give for what you get. You don't pick up rubies, or diamonds on the street. Neither do you find friends that way. You have to dig deep into life for them. You have to look about you, and select those who most nearly fit your hope in life.

If you give too little, never expect too much. It is surprising how much you get in rteurn when you give without any expectation of getting anything in return, outside the mere pleasure and happiness of having given. The only way we know how to get anything is to give. People just don't go around dropping things in other people's pockets just for the fun of it!

Naturally the more we give the more we get. Perhaps not at once. We must never be too anxious to get a return. In time it always does come to one. A remembered kindness, perhaps, and an unexpected encouraging word—who can measure such gifts? Who can appraise their value? Their return in kind is as sure as that light follows darkness.

Whenever we give value we get value in return. After years of practice and continual study, the artist, musician, or writer, after having given of his, or her, life blood, finally gains recognition and gets both satisfaction and profit from all that has been given.

The Surgeon, who has watched long and anxiously over his patient, knows that what he is going to be paid for his services, cannot possibly repay him for all he has given of himself, nor for the satisfaction of having, perhaps, saved a human life. That's like that something that isn't in the pay envelope.

Labor Day And Its Challenge To Drivers Of Automobiles

Monday is Labor Day. It will be observed in the traditional manner with parades, picnics and oratory by labor leaders at rallies arranged by the various units of organized labor. The holiday falls this year on the earliest date possible. It marks the climax to the vacation season for not only those who work but for pupils of our elementary schools, students of our high schools and for those who will start packing for the first semester at colleges and universities.

Labor Day, falling always on a Monday, provides a long weekend holiday for most people, and there are those who will travel to far distant places to visit family or friends, or to summer camp and nearby summer resorts. It became evident last night, when the rush to get away started, that the Labor Day traffic will approach record breaking proportions. Every precaution against accidents on the highways should be taken by automobile drivers.

Don't celebrate this holiday with an accident. It was important that you had your car checked thoroughly before starting your trip. The time to have found out how good your brakes were was before you took to the road, and not when you slammed your foot on the pedal in case of emergency.

It is advisable to take a half-hour rest after driving more than two or three hours. Dr. Paul Neal, one of the leading scientists with the National Institute of Health, makes this urgent recommendation. He points out that because all faculties of vision, attention, and muscular co-ordination are involved in safe-driving, fatigue is one of the chief causes of traffic accidents.

Drivers should keep their tempers, and not lose patience if traffic is moving slowly. Keep your wits about you every second and remember, a little judicious care may save your life and the lives of others.

Rivers Have Unseen Pitfalls To Bring Sorrow To Bathers

This weekend will find hundreds of our citizens leaving the city to spend the Labor Day holiday at their summer cottages along the Potomac river, and elsewhere. If the weather continues warm most of them will seek relief in the waters bordering their camping areas. In their holiday spirit it is not likely they will give much thought to the dangers lurking in their midst, which could spoil an otherwise happy period of rest and relaxation.

On the seashore the tides come in and go out over a smooth floor with an easy grade, and leave things about as they were before. The bather can walk out with confidence in his footing, and nothing much can happen to him except what the billows may do by their smashing attacks or by an undertow.

Swimming in a river—the Potomac or any other—is different. Every rainstorm does things to it—and we have had plenty of them—anchoring snags in the bottom or creating new sandbars.

When a swimmer walks out into the cloudy waters of a river, he may step off into a deep pit or a whirlpool that gave no hint of its presence and was not known to be there before. This has been happening hereabouts on several occasions.

At any time, also, river bathing may carry dangers of typhoid.

To familiar safety precautions it is well to add the reminder that a river bottom holds surprises. So, be careful.

Smashing Atom Not So Full Of Deadly Potentialities

To the layman, whose mind is just beginning to grasp the terrible implications of the atomic bomb, any further tinkering with the atom would seem better let alone. The great new advances in atom smashing announced by the University of California, however, are not so full of deadly potentialities.

Atom smashing in a cyclotron is something different from the nuclear fission of the atomic bomb. In atom smashing the atom is split asunder by the highly concentrated bombardment of nuclei of other elements. It is similar, but a much smaller scale, to the natural smashing of atoms by cosmic rays. Furthermore, the chain-reaction of the atomic bomb type depends on the use of a relatively unstable element. Very stable and inert elements can be smashed in a cyclotron, and chain reaction is not an important factor.

There is, of course, no assurance that atom smashing may not become of military value. The automobile was not designed as a war weapon. But the research into atom smashing to date has been carried on for entirely peaceful purposes. And those purposes are highly important.

The University of California achievement in extensively smashing an atom has disclosed vast new fields of possibilities. Whole new forms of radio-active elements have been uncovered and old elements have been changed into different forms. This modern variation of the alchemist's search for a method to turn baser metal into gold has been successful. Medicine alone, by having access to new radio-active substances for the treatment of disease, will benefit measurably. A vista has been opened which promises great good for mankind.

It's Really Simple

Every so often, usually in what are termed "good times," swindlers find sucker response unusually good. This explains the current rash of chain-money-letters. A similar hysteria swept the country in the lush twenties, but came to its ending when the federal authorities and then the depression moved in.

Now the letter writers are busy again, and are getting the usual response from some people who are unthinking enough to fall for their racket. All a person has to do to win a fortune, he is informed, is to do as the chain letters tell him—providing, of course, everybody else in the chain does likewise.

Of course, the return from one circuit totals only $2,048, but no one is obliged to confine himself to one chain. He can get in on a half dozen. What could be simpler? Rather the question should be phrased, "Who could be simpler?"

Chicago woman who married a man because he could sing and now wants to divorce him probably wishes she had bought a canary.

POST-WAR BOOM IN BABIES

SOME one asked if the United States would ever have to resort to bonuses or subsidies to increase the native population. No one knows what the future will bring but for the present there is no such luck for prospective parents. We are having a bumper crop of babies by following our natural impulses and need no governmental encouragement.

Last year the stork outdid himself and set an all time record. The Metropolitan bulletin reported that 3,440,000 infants were born in this country, exceeding the previous high of 3,150,000 in 1943. Furthermore 973,000 young ones were delivered in the first three months of 1947. The outlook for population growth is much brighter than during the past quarter of a century as a whole.

From 1915 on there was a steady decline in the birth rate until a low point was reached in 1936. Then the curve started upward. The summit of 1946 can be explained by the rapid demobilization of the armed forces after V-J Day and the rise in the number of marriages thereafter. Last year likewise set a record for nuptials, and since there was a backlog of delayed weddings due to the war it is doubtful whether this peak will be surpassed for some time to come.

Uncle Sam can also be proud of the fact that in 1946 the total death rate as well as the infant mortality fell to new lows. With an excess of births over deaths our population rose approximately 2,000,000 from this source alone. Even tho it was a "measles year" and we had a polio epidemic with more than 25,000 victims, fewer children succumbed to communicable diseases; and the percentage of fatalities subsequent to pneumonia, diarrhea, and appendicitis was decreased. The widespread use of the sulfa drugs and penicillin is beginning to pay dividends.

The augmented births of 1943 and 1946 may provide a headache for the schools thruout the nation and many more teachers and units will be required during the next few years when all these tots will be ready for kindergarten and first grade. This state of affairs will continue for years all along the line and by 1957, 5,000,000 more youngsters than now will be registered in elementary schools. Additional facilities will be necessary to promote the physical and mental health of our boys and girls.

In Chicago the situation is said to be somewhat different. The population is multiplying, but not because there are more children. Last year the Windy City had a greater proportion of individuals between 35 and 54 than in the whole United States. As a result there is a decreasing number of school children. In 1920 the ratio of adults to grade school pupils was 5 to 1; in 1940, 8 to 1; and today, 10 to 1.

SWIM WITH SCIATICA

W. M. writes: Would you advise a person with sciatica to swim in a lake or outdoor pool on a warm day?

REPLY

This is difficult to answer as there are many causes and degrees of severity in sciatic pain. Generally the exercise is safe provided straining and chilling do not result.

INADEQUATE CIRCULATION

C. N. writes: Is a coronary deficiency the same as angina pectoris?

REPLY

Not exactly, as it is a matter of cause and effect. Angina pectoris is the name given the condition which results from poor circulation to the heart altho coronary insufficiency may be present without producing symptoms of angina.

EFFECT OF HEAT

B. J. I. writes: Do certain parts of the body swell if one is allergic to heat?

REPLY

Excess heat has an adverse effect on all of us and the result may range from pure laziness to exhaustion or heat stroke. In the allergic individual, less heat is probably required to produce the symptoms. As a rule, local reactions are rare. On the other hand, swelling of the hands, generalized hives, or even bronchial asthma may result in extremely sensitive individuals.

INDIGESTION

REPLY

The word means "heartburn" and is one of the many components of indigestion.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

They used to say, "two can live as cheaply as one." Now they have to in order to pay for the license. Yes sir, the price of marriage licenses has just been raised.

With the increase in license rates, marriage has become a big business. In fact, I looked at the financial page yesterday and "ball and chain" is up two and a half.

Of course, this is going to take a lot of the romance out of marriage. The gentle strains of "O Promise Me" will be drowned out by the tinkle of the cash register.

Now you'll really have to go to Niagara Falls in a barrel. They say marriage is a bond. Theyre not kidding—only you can't cash it in. I hear that for those who can afford it they have special deluxe licenses for $25. They're made out of old Atwater Kent tablecloths. When you buy one of these they throw in a three-piece orchestra, two witnesses and a guest spot on the Good Will Hour.

Of course, Tommy Manville has a custom-made license. It's like a calendar; it changes every month.

Of course, things have changed since I got married. It was only $2 then. I know, I distinctly remember the Justice of the Peace giving my wife $3 change.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Former Secretary of War Patterson Deserves Recognition For High Devotion To Public Trust; Has Met Every Test Of Selfless Citizenship

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—In the practically daily welter of outcries and charges against men in high office, it is vital to keep in mind that there are many more Americans who have a lofty sense of duty and who serve their country honorably, devotedly and courageously.

Too frequently the distinguished deeds and records of these citizens do not receive the acclaim they so richly deserve. Selfless devotion to public trust, as a general rule, does not make smash headlines. But throughout the nation's history it has been such citizens, big and small, who have fought and won its battles and made the U. S. the mighty world power it is today.

It is the Merry-Go-Round's pleasure and honor to pay tribute to such an American by bestowing on him the brass ring for outstandingly patriotic and distinguished service to his country. Throughout his life, from the field of battle to high public office, he has met every test of selfless citizenship unfailingly, modestly and valorously.

This great American is Robert P. Patterson, former Secretary of War.

In bestowing the brass ring on him, this column in a very small way is endeavoring to make up for the inexplicable failure to decorate him with the high medal he deserved when he retired from office recently. Far lesser men received DSM's and Legions of Merit. Why Bob Patterson was not so honored is a mystery. He merited it outstandingly on every count.

It can be said, of course, that he did not require such recognition. His kind of integrity, courage, and lofty sense of duty need no decoration to embellish them.

Also, in his lapel, Bob Patterson wears the gleaming pin of the Distinguished Service Cross that he won for extraordinary heroism in battle as a young company commander in World War I. A DSM would have added luster to this DSC, but could not have replaced it.

Yet, it would have been a gracious and eminently fitting act to have awarded him the DSM.

Iron Courage

Those who know Bob Patterson, know that he unhesitatingly gave up a lifetime position as a U. S. Circuit Court Judge to respond to the late President Roosevelt's request to assume the onerous and thankless responsibilities of directing the Logistics Branch of the War Department. They also know how he worked unflaggingly and fiercely to arm and equip his unprepared country.

But only a few members of his staff know of one particular act of uniquely outstanding fortitude and high sense of duty.

Patterson's only son was an AAF bombardier. The young soldier was a member of the crack squadron selected to make the first raid on the vital Ploesti oilfields in Rumania on Aug. 1, 1943. It was crucial to smash these installations in order to deprive the Nazis of desperately needed gas and fuel oil. For that reason, the attack had to be made at "tree top" level.

With the heavy bombers based 1,200 miles away in Africa, that meant, in effect, a suicidal raid. Any plane that sustained damage had practically no chance of getting back.

On the day the attack was made, Patterson was scheduled to leave Washington on an urgent secret mission in the Pacific. Before he departed, the War Department received word that the raid had been very successful but that more than 37 per cent of the bombers had been lost.

It would have been very easy for Patterson, as Undersecretary of War, to have ascertained the fate of his only son. All Patterson had to do was to lift his phone and ask for the informatin.

But he quietly left Washington without seeking or knowing what had become of his boy.

Patterson's concept of duty was so meticulous and inflexible that he would not use his position to gain information not available to the fathers and mothers of the other boys who made that attack.

A week later, far out in the Pacific, Patterson was formally notified by the War Department that his son's plane had been shot down. However, the boy had not been in it. Two days before the raid, he had been hospitalized as the result of an injury in a crash.

Note: All the members of young Patterson's plane parachuted to safety and were captured by the Germans. After the war, all were recovered in a prison camp.

Modern Prosthetics

Another thing that only close friends know about Bob Patterson's service is that he is responsible for the Government's belated program to develop modern and effective artificial limbs.

Both the Army and Navy went to great lengths and cost to give the finest medical care to men who lost limbs. Special hospitals and rehabilitation centers were set up for amputees, who, at the height of the fighting, averaged as high as 1,500 a month. But at that point their efforts ended.

Nothing was done about modernizing the prosthetic devices upon which these handicapped men would have to depend the rest of their lives.

Both services gave the amputees the best artificial limbs that could be bought. But they still were obsolete, cumbersome and ineffectual. There had been no real improvement in artificial limbs since World Wor I.

In the spring of 1945, Patterson, personally, finally took hold of this tragic problem himself. Over the hidebound opposition of certain Army brasshats, he set up a committee of civilian scientists, engineers and surgeons, provided them with ample funds, and put them to work to lift artificial limbs out of the ice age.

This committee on artificial limbs is still functioning. It is now jointly supported by the War Department and Veterans Admnistration. It has already made some notable advances, and other promising developments are in progress. If this long-needed humanitarian program can be continued a few more years, the 800,000 amputees in the U. S.—civilians as well as veterans—can hopefully look forward to devices that will be as modern and as efficient as an up-to-date electric washing machine, at least.

If that modest goal is realized, it will be due in a large measure to the humanitarianism and high sense of duty of a great American—Robert P. Patterson.

Note: All devices developed under the committee on artificial limbs are made available to civilians through Government contracts with private limb-makers.

Expressions Of Ideals By Pope And Mr. Truman Are Significant

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—When the President of the United States and the Pope exchange messages on the subject of peace at a time of great csisis in the world, it is not an ordinary expression of ideals. There is a deeper significance in it than the phrases themselves can possibly convey.

Unquestionably the messages are a call to the moral forces of the world to examine realistically the arbitrary and inexplicable course of Russia and to perceive the dangers which can befall the peace of the world if men who believe in God divide their counsels or their energies and fail to see that all must have a common purpose.

Though obviously referring to the Soviet attitude, nowhere in the whole exchange is Russia mentioned. The two messages employ the implicit rather than explicit style. Thus President Truman articulated a great principle of Christian philosophy when he wrote:

"The times demand faith that is strong enough to struggle if need be for the right, that is able to endure troubles and hardships, attacks and even contempt from forces of evil—and able to arise reborn and revitalized from the daily struggle."

Not to Be Provoked Into War

This does not mean that America is thinking of war but it does mean she will not shrink from defense if attacked. This does mean, on the other hand, that America is not going to be provoked into war by nasty propaganda or the spread of lies concerning American purposes.

The Pope rightly places great reliance on moral force when he says in reply to Mr. Truman:

"Truth has lost none of its power to rally to its cause the most enlightened minds and noblest spirits. Their ardour is fed by the flame of righteous freedom struggling to break through injustice and lying. But those who possess the truth must be conscientious to define it clearly when its foes cleverly distort it; bold to defend it and generous enough to set the course of their lives both national and personal by its dictates."

The Pope speaks also of the "fragile structure of peace" today and breathes the courageous spirit of a church undismayed by Russian attacks. He says:

"Her (the church's) divinely-given mission often brings her into conflict with the powers of evil whose sole strength is in their physical force and brutalized spirit and her leaders are sent into exile or cast into prison or die under torture. This is history of today but the church is unafraid. She cannot compromise with an avowed enemy of God."

Persecutions Furnish Background

The recent news of persecutions of Catholic priests in the countries under Communist domination has undoubtedly furnished the background for this frank expression by the Pope.

Pope Pius XII is perhaps the most talented statesman of all the Popes of history. His brilliant mind and knowledge of European diplomacy is one of the reasons why the late President Roosevelt sent a special envoy to Rome to keep in touch with what the Vatican was doing in the realm of moral force. Such a contact is more than ever important. For the Catholic population of Europe is large in all countries where the Communists are making inroads and can be a most helpful ally in the application of moral force to the problems that face Europe.

To bring the Vatican and the American policy abroad close together through constant exchange of information is to serve notice on Soviet Russia that the democracies feel they are compelled by a righteous cause and that these moral forces intend to work together for peace by understanding and by the application of Christian principles. It may seem to cynical observers a wasteful effort but it must be tried so the whole world will be convinced of the sincerity of purpose behind the American program.

Decisions Facing Government Within Next 45 Days Are Grave

By MARK SULLIVAN

As we come to the eighth anniversary of the beginning of the recent war, an appropriate reflection is to be found in the words of a distinguished English author, Sir Osbert Sitwell. He is writing, not of the recent war but of the eve of the First World War in 1914, and the period preceding:

"I had the fortune to be born toward the sunset hour of one of the great periodic calms of history. So placid was this brief golden halt that often as a small child, passionately addicted to reading books of history, I used to wonder whether its stream had not already dried up."

Today in Washington one realizes how far from placid the stream of world events has become, how tumultuous its rush. This generation lives in a turmoil so headlong and complex that almost one speculates with a sense of wonder on the policy of mortal man to keep pace.

From the world-wide swirl can be detached one group of events which compose at least a tiny island of constructive effort, an attempt which, if it is successful, might be the basis of hope for a better condition in an important part of the world. This is the Marshall plan for the restoration of Europe. At the moment hope for the plan is disquieted by developments in the conference of 16 European nations at Paris which are to carry out the European part of the plan. What they have done so far suggests an expectation of greater aid from the United States than is practicable. This however was expected and does not dismay our officials. Some steps taken by the Paris Conference are sound, and the Conference will be informed by officials of our State Department about the limitations on what may be expected from the United States. The plan will proceed.

Marshall Plan Can Be Divided

The Marshall Plan can be divided into parts. One is a statement by the European nations of what they may do for themselves. This will include agreements upon reducing or removing tariffs, strengthening monetary systems, allocation and priorities for scarce materials, in general, the creation of conditions that build up confidence.

Another part of the plan, to be provided by the Paris Conference, is a statement of what the European nations, after their own all-out effort has been made, will need from us in food, materials and money. This statement will divide their need from us into two categories—what will be needed immediately to carry Europe through the winter, and what will be needed over the next few years until a date when help from this country will no longer be necessary.

Complementary to what is being done at Paris, three American committees set up by President Truman are working feverishly upon a study of our policy to aid Europe and how best we can contribute without dangerous strain upon us. This includes a study of our resources, financial and material such as coal, oil, farm products and the like.

Congress Must Act

After Europe's statement of its needs, and our statement of what we can supply, there will be analysis, comparison and checking by our State Department and other Administration officials. Thereafter, action will be up to Congress. That body is already preparing itself for well-informed judgment and evaluation of what and how much we can do. A committee of the House, accompanied by technical experts, left for Europe this week to make its own study, later a committee of the Senate will go. Rarely have committees of Congress approached any task with a more sober sense of responsibility.

To state the Marshall plan so briefly is of course an over-simplification. And the Marshall plan is not all. Apart from it but bearing directly on it are meetings between the English and American governments to decide on coal production in Germany, and meetings including the French government to decide about increasing the level of industry for Germany. Concurrently goes on the financial and economic crisis in Britain, about which action must be taken very soon. Added to all this are possible crises, either political or economic in Italy, France, and some other European countries.

Altogether the decisions which will face our government and people within the next 30 to 45 days are many and grave. It can be said that our officials, in the State Department and elsewhere in the Administration, face them with energy, with thoroughly informed understanding, and above all with an attitude that looks affirmatively in a constructive direction.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Fists Against God

WHEN a fellow butts into a quarrel that is none of his business, he is liable to have his ear bitten off. It is like walking into one of those gentle altercations between a husband and wife who are ready to murder each other but who turn jointly and severally upon the peacemaker and rend him.

Also, I am told that religion is a bad subject to discuss because it is taken too seriously by those who are interested. As I have been discussing religion for some 40 years, beginning at the knee of my rabbinical father, I have no fears about it. In fact, there is a fairly good record of at least 6,000 years of such discussion in the course of which some were stoned, beheaded, crucified, burned alive, imprisoned, pilloried and spat upon, beatified sanctified and glorified.

Is this a premonition that I, who am neither a Catholic nor a Protestant, protest vehemently against the current quarrel among Christians which seems to me unruly, harmful and without foundation.

At a time such as this, when a world-wide attack is being made on all the religions of God, when ugly, amoral materialism is being offered our children as sound thought, when millions of human beings have been displaced and even killed for their faith, it appears unseemly for the clergy of differing sects to be at each other's throats, fighting over trivialities when the fist of the enemy is always against God.

My own people have suffered horribly because a vested interest has grown up in the attack upon them and the defense of them. There is money in that business both ways—being against and being for. How much more has been collected one way or the other, I do not know. Some day maybe a Congressional Committee will get at that, too, and I am sure that it will not be a pretty story. Perhaps that game has played itself out and we are to have the spectacle of a Catholic-Protestant fight with the same old pinkoes moving in on it for all that the traffic will bear.

The principal issue seems to be that Catholic parochial schools have been claiming participation in certain social benefits provided American children through taxes. As I find the facts, no Catholic school has requested any State government for funds for buildings or teachers, for libraries, laboratories or other equipment. The Catholic schools have contended that if buses or free lunches, medical examinations, dental clinics or other social services are provided by the State for any American children, they should be given to all American children whatever their religion.

The two arguments usually adduced against the Catholics are: 1) that the State provides a free school system and that when parents choose to send their children to other schools, they automatically exclude themselves from whatever benefit the children in the public school system enjoy; 2) that the ideal of separation of Church and State is imperiled by the very existence of the parochial school.

What is involved here is the nature of education in a free society. Certainly the separation of Church and State cannot mean that the child is not to be educated in the faith of his parents whatever that faith may be, nor can it mean that the State, in providing social services for American children, should discriminate between one child and another on the basis of faith. If that is the logic of the situation, then only the children of atheists should benefit from the social services provided by the State. If that concept is false, what excuse exists for objecting to Catholic children riding to whatever school they go to in buses provided by the State?

Instead of fomenting strife, these clergy should join together with other men of God in a united front against all who corrupt and pervert our children by eliminating religions and morals from education. Millions are dying for their faith and these folks quarrel over buses for school children. I would provide buses to bring our children to Sunday schools, to churches—of any faith, of any denomination—that they might hear the word of God and not live in darkness.

Today's Talk

Giving and Getting

The story of our entire lives may be centrally told about this business of giving and getting. We give, or exchange, for everything that we are and have. We give of our time and strength to earn an income, in order to give to get!

We cannot get anything without giving in some way or other. And this is as it should be. The good worker is proud of the service that he is able to give, and in return he gets happiness beyond the mere wage. Labor and remuneration should always be a happy exchange.

I know people who have hedged themselves into a solitary place, and then wonder why they are so unhappy, have so few friends, and little, or no attention, is paid to them. You have to be friendly to have friends. You have to want them. And you have to give for what you get. You don't pick up rubies, or diamonds on the street. Neither do you find friends that way. You have to dig deep into life for them. You have to look about you, and select those who most nearly fit your hope in life.

If you give too little, never expect too much. It is surprising how much you get in rteurn when you give without any expectation of getting anything in return, outside the mere pleasure and happiness of having given. The only way we know how to get anything is to give. People just don't go around dropping things in other people's pockets just for the fun of it!

Naturally the more we give the more we get. Perhaps not at once. We must never be too anxious to get a return. In time it always does come to one. A remembered kindness, perhaps, and an unexpected encouraging word—who can measure such gifts? Who can appraise their value? Their return in kind is as sure as that light follows darkness.

Whenever we give value we get value in return. After years of practice and continual study, the artist, musician, or writer, after having given of his, or her, life blood, finally gains recognition and gets both satisfaction and profit from all that has been given.

The Surgeon, who has watched long and anxiously over his patient, knows that what he is going to be paid for his services, cannot possibly repay him for all he has given of himself, nor for the satisfaction of having, perhaps, saved a human life. That's like that something that isn't in the pay envelope.

Negro Faces Sentence In Quarantine Case

Sentence will be imposed this morning in Police Court on Thomas Hurtt, negro, Wineow Street, who was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of violating the communicable disease law by permitting his 8-year-old son to roam the streets while carrying diphtheria germs of the throat.

Hurtt appeared yesterday morning and told Magistrate Frank A. Perdew that his work kept him occupied. Other members of the family, including Mrs. Hurtt, have been quarantined. Health officers obtained a warrant for his arrest.

Paper Firm Allowed Discount On Taxes

In another decree issued in Circuit Court, the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company is to receive a five per cent discount on 1947 county taxes if they are paid by September 30.

A decree Thursday provided the same discount for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. Both decrees were the result of an opinion in which the court ruled the Kelly, the paper plant and the Celanese Corporation must pay taxes on property previously exempted. A decree in the Celanese case has not yet been issued.

Serves On Submarine

Michael K. Smith, seaman, first class, USN nephew of Miss Hope Kelley, 187 Thomas Street, Cumberland, is serving aboard the submarine rescue ship, USS Bluebird at Tsingtato, China.

About 160 thousand honey bees are required to gather and prepare a pound of honey. Half fetch the nectar. Half wave their wings to evaporate the water off it and perform other hive chores.

U. Of Md. Will Offer Courses

Opportunity for Cumberlanders to enroll in off-campus courses sponsored by the University of Maryland will be given next Saturday at the annual meeting of County high school principals at Allegany High School, according to Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

The university which will offer the courses at Fort George G. Meade conducted a limited number of courses here last year. The new branch of the university is expected to teach about 18 subjects to an estimated 350 students.

Teachers Get Outline

Teachers who will conduct driver education courses in Allegany County high schools this fall were given an outline for the program yesterday during the second day of lectures being given by Dr. M. K. Strasser, of the Center of Safety Education of New York University.

In discussing teacher techniques, Dr. Strasser said wide use should be made of visual aids and stated that the class would largely be a "laboratory course."

Yesterday he took up various testing agencies including reactions and vision. Behind the wheel training was also discussed.

John Lee Troxell, Jr., To Wed Hazel Ileen Almond

Ceremony To Be Performed Today

Miss Hazel Ileen Almond, daughter of Mrs. M. C. Almond, Willowbrook Road, will become the bride of John Lee Troxell, Jr., son of Mrs. Lucy Troxell, 429 Cumberland Street, and John Troxell, Sr., today.

The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized at 10:30 this morning in Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, with Rev. Frederick D. Oberkircher officiating. Vocalists will be Miss Helen Mae Kreiling, who will sing, "Ich Leibe Dich," and Charles Robinett, "Because," they will be accompanied by Hugh Watson, who will also play a program of nuptial music and the traditional marches.

Miss Margaret Almond is to be her sister's maid of honor and only attendant and William Malcholski will serve as Mr. Troxell's best man. Charles Troxell and William Almond will be ushers.

The bride has chosen a white street length crepe dress for her wedding. It is fashioned with long sleeves, has the new draped skirt and is trimmed with small green leaves around the collar and cuffs. With it she will wear a crownless picture hat trimmed in flowers and will carry a white Bible with an orchid marker and shower of stephonotis.

Her maid of honor's gown is a print with a blue background. She will wear a white picture hat and will carry a bouquet of long stemmed red roses.

Mrs. Almond will be attired in a green dress and will wear black accessories and a corsage of gardenias, and Mrs. Troxell will wear a blue dress with black accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Fort Hill High School and Catherman's Business School and is employed on the office staff of the Celanese Corporation of America.

Her fiance attended LaSalle High School and served four years in the Navy, with sea duty in the Northern and Pacific Theaters. He is employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Following the ceremony a wedding reception is to be held at the Elks Club at 11 o'clock. The bridal motif will be carried out in the tiered cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Troxell will serve the cake and Mrs. Bruce DuVall, aunt of the bridegroom, will preside at the punch bowl.

Following the reception Mr. Troxell and his bride will leave for a wedding trip to Atlantic City. For traveling she has selected a tan dress with black accessories, and will wear her orchid corsage. Upon their return they will reside at 329 Cumberland Street, where they will be at home to their friends after September 8.

Approval Of Bay Crossing Measure Held Up By PWA

Parts Of Legislation Are "Objectionable"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Public Works Administration today declined approval of pending legislation authorizing construction of a Chesapeake Bay crossing, but Gov. Lane, of Maryland, said the action would not hold up its construction, bids for which are expected to be asked early next year.

Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Works Administrator, reported to the Senate Public Works Committee that he found "objectionable" sections of the legislation which would extend powers of the Maryland Roads Commission.

The administrator recommended these sections be deleted and amendments be included to make the enabling legislation for the crossing conform with a federal law of April, 1938.

Changes Acceptable, Lane Says

The Governor said the recommendations "undoubtedly" would be acceptable to the state.

Fleming contended the enabling legislation, known as the Tydings-O'Conor-Beall bill, would alter the 1938 law which provided for Chesapeake crossing and three spans over the Potomac, Susquehanna and Patapsco Rivers. The Potomac and Patapsco bridges have been built.

The Administrator said the pending bill would group together not only the four bridges "but also any additional project facility the State Roads Commission might determine to include, including what was referred to in the 1947 act of the Legislature as 'motorways' or toll roads, on all of which tolls would be charged until the whole group whatever it might include, would be paid for."

"What the General is saying," Gov. Lane explained, "is that the language of the bill is too broad and perhaps he is fearful that Maryland would extend the application of the tolls collected on its bridges to highways, toll roads and other projects and not just to the amortization of the bridges alone, as is provided in the federal law of 1938."

Substitute Clause Proposed

Fleming maintained the federal law authorizing construction of the four spans "provided definitely" that they would be free of tolls upon amortization of all costs.

"The pending bill however, would alter this situation," he said.

Fleming said the objectional features of the enabling legislation could be removed by striking out a clause which provided that the authority for the Chesapeake Bay crossing be "in accordance with the laws of Maryland."

He proposed substitution of a clause making the legislation "in accord with the act of April, 1938."

ELECTED PRESIDENT — Dr. Robert B. Thomas, Huntington, W. Va., osteopathic physician, was inaugurated as president of the American Osteopathic Association at the group's convention in Chicago. He will serve during the 1947-48 term.

Umstott Held In Jail Under Bond

Cpl. Earl Umstott, 24, 424 Hammond Street, Westernport, was committed to the County Jail in default of $1,000 bond imposed in Trial Magistrates' Court yesterday after he waived a preliminary hearing on a manslaughter by motor vehicle charge.

Assistant State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher preferred the charge which accuses Umstott of being grossly negligent when the motorcycle he was driving caused the death of James Russell Kenney, Franklin, who was riding on the machine.

Kenney was instantly killed when the motorcycle on which he and two other young men were riding skidded on a curve and upset. Umstott, who State Police stated was the driver, managed to hold on to the handle bars but the other three were tossed off.

One of the riders, Earl Kalbaugh, 19, 415 Hammond Street, Westernport, was admitted to Miners' Hospital, Frostburg, suffering with a fractured skull and severe facial lacerations. He was reported improving by hospital attaches last night. Also hurt were Umstott and Roy E. Dayton, 20, Westernport.

In testimony yesterday Umstott admitted visiting several taverns before the accident occurred. Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., docketed the charge.

Roy L. Reed, 29, 424 Race Street, a B. and O. brakeman, was admitted to Allegany early yesterday morning for treatment of a crushed left foot suffered while he was at work on the eastbound hump here.

He told attaches he was going from one track toward another when a car ran over his foot. About a third of his foot, including all of the toes, had to be removed following the accident. His condition was good yesterday.

Mason Sisk, 11, 209 Roberts Street, was admitted to Allegany yesterday for X-rays and examination of injuries suffered when the bicycle on which he was riding wrecked. Red Cross Issues Housing Appeal

Local Red Cross officials issued an appeal yesterday to Cumberland residents for aid in building up a file of apartments and rooms available for rent, stating that about three persons daily visit the Red Cross office for information and assistance in finding living quarters.

One man with five children said he would be willing to place his children in foster homes temporarily in order to provide better living quarters for his family.

The Red Cross also reported that the mother of a two-month-old baby said her husband was ill and that she had visited a number of real estate offices and other local agencies in an effort to find a place for the family to live.

Several young married couples without children have also appealed to the Red Cross for assistance, it was stated. Many of those seeking homes are ex-servicemen and their families.

Officials explained, however, that unless the Red Cross has a list of apartments or rooms for rent, no help can be given to the families, whose primary need is for living quarters and not for financial assistance.

In some cases, they said, tenants have been legally evicted by landlards after due notice was given, but the tenants were unable to find new homes prior to the eviction date.

Woman Describes Slaying Of Mate

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (AP) — Mrs. Anna Sosnowski told a coroner's jury today she beat her husband to death with a hammer and butchered his body, and also was quoted as saying she tore out his heart and tossed his head in a river.

The 54-year-old grandmother moaned "I'm a terrible woman" as she sat in a jail cell but later described details of the slaying and butchering, with a hacksaw and knife, and declared:

"I killed him and I'm glad he's dead."

Her earlier remorse apparently gone, she testified in heavy Polish accents that she killed her mate, Tony, 58, aftr a quarrel in their apartment last Sunday, wrapped the parts of his dissected body in several packages and dropped them in the Chicago River.

After hearing her story, the coroner's jury recommended that she be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Sosnowski listened unperturbed when Police Lt. LeRoy Steffens testified that Sosnowski's body was cut up into 15 parts, and that Mrs. Sosnowski admitted "tearing out the heart." Steffens said she told police, "you'll find the body all around."

The head still hasn't been found. Asked about it by Coroner A. L. Brodie, Mrs. Sosnowski said:

"The head I put in the river. Just in paper."

British Economic Parley Proposed

LONDON, Aug. 29—(AP)—Dr. Cyril Garbett, Archbishop of York and second ranking prelate of the Church of England, ni an unusual move, proposed today that Prime Minister Attlee call a round-table conference of all political parties to save Britain from what he termed economic ruin.

The Archbishop's statement appeared in his diocesan weekly paper, as a spreading coal strike, accompanied by a threat of violence to the head of the National Union of Mineworkers, spread through Yorkshire in a new threat to Britain's recovery program.

The National Coal Board, which administers the nationalized pits, said 16,701 men were on strike at 14 mines, but reports from the area quoted by the British Press Association put the number at 25,000 men and 16 mines.

Dr. Garbett said a coalition government was "at present entirely out o the question" but that "united action by all parties" would help the national production effort and "show America that the whole nation was united in its determination" to survive the economic crisis.

Playgrounds Close With Treat Given 1,820 Children

There were 1,820 children entertained at the annual treat concluding the summer playground season, yesterday Mrs. Ralph W. Stein, supervisor of city playgrounds, said last night. The treat, consisting of ice cream cake roll and cheese pop corn, was held at all 12 playgrounds in the city, including Mapleside, which is not equipped nor has a leader, Mrs. Stein said.

The largest enrollment yesterday was at LaFayette Avenue, which had 300; others were Virginia Avenue, 175; West Side, 150; Mt. Royal, 100; North End, 200; East Side, 250; Columbia Street, 150; Penn Avenue, 150; Centre Street, 60; Gephart, 125; Pine Avenue, 60 and Mapleside, 100.

The playgrounds, which were opened for a 10 week period, were well attended throughout the entire time. There were no serious accidents on the playground and the children co-operated very well with the leaders, Mrs. Stein said. However attendance dropped off a little the last few weeks as some of the children were out of town for their vacations.

During the summer different programs and festivals were given for the benefit of the children, with some special entertainment at one or the other playground almost every Friday night.

Emergency Meeting Granted Rockingham

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 29—(AP)—Rockingham Park was authorized today to run an "emergency" 19-day race meeting to accommodate horses quarantined by an epidemic of "swamp fever" at the track.

Lou Smith, executive director of Rockingham, announced the special meet would open September 13 and run until October 4 when the regular autumn meet gets under way.

With Narragansett Park in Pawtucket, R. I., opening a month-long meeting on Monday, this means that the major Rhode Island and New Hampshire tracks will be operating at the same time.

The New Hampshire racing commission announced it was authorizing the "emergency" meet to alleviate financial hardships facing horse owners at Rockingham who are forbidden to move their thoroughbreds to other tracks.

Narragansett officials declared their track was completely free of "swamp fever"—a form of anemia that saps the strength of horses and often is fatal.

Formal Ending

diers from Bulgaria, while the United States and Britain must evacuate Italy within 90 days of the deposit of the instruments of ratification.

Control Commission To End

Russia is permitted to maintain troops in Romania and Hungary to "protect lines of communication" with the Soviet occupation zone in Austria. In Finland, Russia has a peace treaty agreement for a 50-year lease on the Porkalla naval base.

Another result of the termination of hostilities will be the ending of Allied Control Commissions in the five countries, although diplomatic representatives of the United States, Russia, Britain and—in the case of Italy—France will be empowered to supervise administration of the treaties. Should they disagree, the treaties provide that the differences be submitted to the United Nations.

The coming of peace in the five countries also will see the birth of the free territory of Trieste—a compromise hammered out by the peace conference to deal with the conflicting claims of Italy and Yugoslavia for the vital port at the head of the Adriatic Sea.

The United Nations Security Council is empowered to appoint a Governor for Trieste "at the earliest possible moment" after the Italian treaty goes into effect. Until the Governor is named and for 90 days after he takes office, the United States, Britain and Yugoslavia are authorized to keep 5,000 troops each in their respective zones.

The Moscow radio broadcast, heard in London by the Soviet monitor, gave the five texts of the ratification instruments in rapid succession. They were identical except for the name of the conquered nation.

British "Pass Torch"

Nimitz, Chief of Naval Operations, asked the Legionnaires to act "as sentinels to see that no one branch of the armed forces is permitted to decline to the point where it can no longer carry out its share of responsibility for the national security."

"Each branch of our armed forces—like each leg of a three-legged stool—must be as effective as the others," he said.

Sir Ian Fraser, president of the 1,000,000-member British Legion, told the convention that the British navy for 100 years kept the peace of the world but said "we can no longer afford to do this."

"We pass the torch to you and our Canadian brothers in North America without regret, without jealousy," he added, "for you have inherited and nurtured our way of life and you will protect it."

Trucker Is Badly Injured In Crash Near Meyersdale

Found Staggering Along Route 219

A Westmoreland County, Pa., truck driver was in fair condition in Hazel McGilvery Hospital, Meyersdale, Pa., last night with injuries suffered when his truck climbed an embankment and overturned on Route 219 about two and a half miles north of Meyersdale.

Pennsylvania State Police at Somerset said the driver, Constantino Gazza, 24, of Luxor, Pa., near Greensburg, admitted he was driving too fast, failed to make a "treacherous" curve and climbed a four to five foot embankment, completely overturning at the top. It occurred about 5:45 p. m.

The cab of the truck was completely demolished, but Gazza soon managed to crawl out and later was found staggering along the highway in a dazed condition, police reported, adding that he was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist, H. Clay Stickle, Oakland.

Gazza was said to be suffering from a concussion of the brain, brush burns and other undetermined injuries. He will be X-rayed today.

The truck, owned by V. Z. Snail, also of Luxor, was demolished to the extent of $1,500 according to police, who said Snail is in the rendering business.

Gazza, who police said travels the road frequently, was charged with traveling too fast for conditions.

Pfc. W. H. Uhl, of the Pennsylvania Police, investigated.

The Chinese delegate said he was not making a proposal but suggested that the council note the troop problem and urge the two parties to resume bilateral negotiations. He said he would toss this onto the council table if it appeared to have some chance.

Herschel Johnson, United States, said his country could support such a proposal unless Britain and Egypt opposed it so strongly that it would not work.

After consultation with the incoming council president for the month of September — Andrei A. Gromyko, of Russia—El Khoury announced the case would rest until September 9.

Walker Is Held

Police Department, assisted in the arrest.

The FBI said Walker has a 1947 Cadilac sedan and from information gained he tried to impress his associates at the track with the idea that he was a millionaire. He usually observed the races from the club house where he reserved a special table, agents stated, and attempted in many ways to impress his associates with his importance along with the fact that he was a financial tycoon.

Until recently, authorities said, the man employed a negro chauffeur to drive his car but a few weeks ago he fired the negro because "he was joy riding without Walker's permission."

Police said Walker's methods of operation in defrauding Mrs. Grehan is what is referred to in police language as the "confidence game."

He will be returned to Lexington, Ky., in the near future, agents said.

Jail "Place For Him," Walker's Wife Says

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 29 (AP)—Mrs. Sally Grehan Walker, informed here tonight that her husband had been placed in jail in Maryland on her charges that he fraudulently obtained $18,000 from her, said: "I'm glad of it, for that's the place for him."

She said she married him at Versailles, Ky., last December 27 after she had been introduced to him at Keeneland race track by some "Louisville friends" and after he had sent her orchids every two days for a year.

Mrs. Walker, who said she filed suit for divorce July 30, said she was entertained in Chicago by Walker's mother, "a lovely and charming woman who didn't know about her son."

She said Walker was "a perfect gentleman" and represented himself to be wealthy, claiming to have had a little hard luck and pleading that he needed some money to tide him over until he received an inheritance of $80,000.

The widow of a former money order clerk at the Lexington postoffice said that besides the $18,000, which she said she borrowed to loan him, she also let him have her own money, the amount of which she declined to divulge.

Mrs. Walker said the last she saw her husband was January 3 or 4 about a week after their marriage when he left to make "various business trips." She said he wired and telephoned her several times.

Approval Of Bay Crossing Measure Held Up By PWA

Parts Of Legislation Are "Objectionable"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Public Works Administration today declined approval of pending legislation authorizing construction of a Chesapeake Bay crossing, but Gov. Lane, of Maryland, said the action would not hold up its construction, bids for which are expected to be asked early next year.

Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Works Administrator, reported to the Senate Public Works Committee that he found "objectionable" sections of the legislation which would extend powers of the Maryland Roads Commission.

The administrator recommended these sections be deleted and amendments be included to make the enabling legislation for the crossing conform with a federal law of April, 1938.

Changes Acceptable, Lane Says

The Governor said the recommendations "undoubtedly" would be acceptable to the state.

Fleming contended the enabling legislation, known as the Tydings-O'Conor-Beall bill, would alter the 1938 law which provided for Chesapeake crossing and three spans over the Potomac, Susquehanna and Patapsco Rivers. The Potomac and Patapsco bridges have been built.

The Administrator said the pending bill would group together not only the four bridges "but also any additional project facility the State Roads Commission might determine to include, including what was referred to in the 1947 act of the Legislature as 'motorways' or toll roads on all of which tolls would be charged until the whole group whatever it might include, would be paid for."

"What the General is saying," Gov. Lane explained, "is that the language of the bill is too broad and perhaps he is fearful that Maryland would extend the application of the tolls collected on its bridges to highways, toll roads and other projects and not just to the amortization of the bridges alone, as is provided in the federal law of 1938."

Substitute Clause Proposed

Fleming maintained the federal law authorizing construction of the four spans "provided definitely" that they would be free of tolls upon amortization of all costs.

"The pending bill however, would alter this situation," he said.

Fleming said the objectional features of the enabling legislation could be removed by striking out a clause which provided that the authority for the Chesapeake Bay crossing be "in accordance with the laws of Maryland."

He proposed substitution of a clause making the legislation "in accord with the act of April, 1938."

Umstott Held In Jail Under Bond

Cpl. Earl Umstott, 24, 424 Hammond Street, Westernport, was committed to the County Jail in default of $1,000 bond imposed in Trial Magistrates' Court yesterday after he waived a preliminary hearing on a manslaugher by motor vehicle charge.

Assistant State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher preferred the charge which accuses Umstott of being grossly negligent when the motorcycle he was driving caused the death of James Russell Kenney, Franklin, who was riding on the machine.

Kenney was instantly killed when the motorcycle on which he and two other young men were riding skidded on a curve and upset. Umstott, who State Police stated was the driver, managed to hold on to the handle bars but the other three were tossed off.

One of the riders, Earl Kalbaugh, 19, 415 Hammond Street, Westernport, was admitted to Miners' Hospital, Frostburg, suffering with a fractured skull and severe facial lacerations. He was reported improving by hospital attaches last night. Also hurt were Umstott and Roy E. Dayton, 20, Westernport.

Red Cross Issues Housing Appeal

Local Red Cross officials issued an appeal yesterday to Cumberland residents for aid in building up a file of apartments and rooms available for rent, stating that about three persons daily visit the Red Cross office for information and assistance in finding living quarters.

One man with five children said he would be willing to place his children in foster homes temporarily in order to provide better living quarters for his family.

The Red Cross also reported that the mother of a two-month-old baby said her husband was ill and that she had visited a number of real estate offices and other local agencies in an effort to find a place for the family to live.

Several young married couples without children have also appealed to the Red Cross for assistance, it was stated. Many of those seeking homes are ex-servicemen and their families.

Officials explained, however, that unless the Red Cross has a list of apartments or rooms for rent, no help can be given to the families, whose primary need is for living quarters and not for financial assistance.

In some cases, they said, tenants have been legally evicted by landlards after due notice was given, but the tenants were unable to find new homes prior to the eviction date.

Woman Describes Slaying Of Mate

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (AP) — Mrs. Anna Sosnowski told a coroner's jury today she beat her husband to death with a hammer and butchered his body, and also was quoted as saying she tore out his heart and tossed his head in a river.

The 54-year-old grandmother moaned "I'm a terrible woman" as she sat in a jail cell but later described details of the slaying and butchering, with a hacksaw and knife, and declared:

"I killed him and I'm glad he's dead."

Her earlier remorse apparently gone, she testified in heavy Polish accents that she killed her mate, Tony, 58, aftr a quarrel in their apartment last Sunday, wrapped the parts of his dissected body in several packages and dropped them in the Chicago River.

After hearing her story, the coroner's jury recommended that she be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Sosnowski listened unperturbed when Police Lt. LeRoy Steffens testified that Sosnowski's body was cut up into 15 parts, and that Mrs. Sosnowski admitted "tearing out the heart." Steffens said she told police, "you'll find the body all around."

The head still hasn't been found. Asked about it by Coroner A. L. Brodie, Mrs. Sosnowski said:

British Economic Parley Proposed

LONDON, Aug. 29—(AP)—Dr. Cyril Garbett, Archbishop of York and second ranking prelate of the Church of England, ni an unusual move, proposed today that Prime Minister Attlee call a round-table conference of all political parties to save Britain from what he termed economic ruin.

The Archbishop's statement appeared in his diocesan weekly paper, as a spreading coal strike, accompanied by a threat of violence to the head of the National Union of Mineworkers, spread through Yorkshire in a new threat to Britain's recovery program.

The National Coal Board, which administers the nationalized pits, said 16,701 men were on strike at 14 mines, but reports from the area quoted by the British Press Association put the number at 25,000 men and 16 mines.

Dr. Garbett said a coalition government was "at present entirely out o the question" but that "united action by all parties" would help the national production effort and "show America that the whole nation was united in its determination" to survive the economic crisis.

If you're planning to put up fruit preserves this year, keep this tip in mind. Weigh rather than measure the ingredients because the weight of a quart will vary with the kind of fruit, the way it is packed, and the shape and size of the pieces. Weighing is more accurate and gives better results than does measuring.

Playgrounds Close With Treat Given 1,820 Children

There were 1,820 children entertained at the annual treat concluding the summer playground season, yesterday Mrs. Ralph W. Stein, supervisor of city playgrounds, said last night. The treat, consisting of ice cream cake roll and cheese pop corn, was held at all 12 playgrounds in the city, including Mapleside, which is not equipped nor has a leader, Mrs. Stein said.

The largest enrollment yesterday was at LaFayette Avenue, which had 300; others were Virginia Avenue, 175; West Side, 150; Mt. Royal, 100; North End, 200; East Side, 250; Columbia Street, 150; Penn Avenue, 150; Centre Street, 60; Gephart, 125; Pine Avenue, 60 and Mapleside, 100.

The playgrounds, which were opened for a 10 week period, were well attended throughout the entire time. There were no serious accidents on the playground and the children co-operated very well with the leaders, Mrs. Stein said. However attendance dropped off a little the last few weeks as some of the children were out of town for their vacations.

During the summer different programs and festivals were given for the benefit of the children, with some special entertainment at one or the other playground almost every Friday night.

Emergency Meeting Granted Rockingham

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 29—(AP)—Rockingham Park was authorized today to run an "emergency" 19-day race meeting to accommodate horses quarantined by an epidemic of "swamp fever" at the track.

Lou Smith, executive director of Rockingham, announced the special meet would open September 13 and run until October 4 when the regular autumn meet gets under way.

With Narragansett Park in Pawtucket, R. I., opening a month-long meeting on Monday, this means that the major Rhode Island and New Hampshire tracks will be operating at the same time.

The New Hampshire racing commission announced it was authorizing the "emergency" meet to alleviate financial hardships facing horse owners at Rockingham who are forbidden to move their thoroughbreds to other tracks.

Narragansett officials declared their track was completely free of "swamp fever"—a form of anemia that saps the strength of horses and often is fatal.

Damiani To Coach Salem College Eleven

SALEM, W. Va., Aug. 29 (AP) — Frank Damiani, 28-year-old former New York Giants professional football team tackle, has been appointed head football coach of Salem College, Athletic Director Carl Mallon announced today.

A native of Carnegie, Pa., Damiani played three years of football at Manhattan College, New York City, under Coach Herb Kopf. He was graduated in 1942 and entered the Army Air Force.

It was while he was in the service that Damiani played for a time with the Giants.

Last year, he was line coach at Columbia University.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Bob Lemon, who came to the Cleveland Indians as an outfielder, is now one of their brightest pitching prospects.

Lemon, a popular athlete with the Tribe, attributes most of his recent success to Coach Bill McKechnie, Pitcher Mel Harder and Catcher Al Lopez.

"Bill changed my stance on the hill and gave me better balance," Lemon says. "Then Mel and Al started working on my curve ball delivery and got me to throw it from above my shoulder. This and a new release point gave it a better sinking action."

W. Va. Firemen To Meet At Keyser

Keyser, W. Va., was selected as the scene of the 1948 annual convention by the West Virginia Volunteer Firemen's Association which yesterday named Fort Ashby and Ridgeley men vice presidents of the organization. The present convention, the 19th, being held at Charles Town, ends today.

K. B. Welch, Fort Ashby, was elected second vice president and Leo Rice, Ridgeley, third vice president. L. A. Stanley, Vienna, W. Va., was named president, and Charles Miller, Elkins, secretary.

Among the re-elected officers are W. H. Martin, Fort Ashby, chaplain, and J. A. Simmons, Ridgeley, association attorney.

Formal Ending

diers from Bulgaria, while the United States and Britain must evacuate Italy within 90 days of the deposit of the instruments of ratification.

Control Commission To End

Russia is permitted to maintain troops in Romania and Hungary to "protect lines of communication" with the Soviet occupation zone in Austria. In Finland, Russia has a peace treaty agreement for a 50-year lease on the Porkalla naval base.

Another result of the termination of hostilities will be the ending of Allied Control Commissions in the five countries, although diplomatic representatives of the United States, Russia, Britain and—in the case of Italy—France will be empowered to supervise administration of the treaties. Should they disagree, the treaties provide that the differences be submitted to the United Nations.

The coming of peace in the five countries also will see the birth of the free territory of Trieste—a compromise hammered out by the peace conference to deal with the conflicting claims of Italy and Yugoslavia for the vital port at the head of the Adriatic Sea.

The United Nations Security Council is empowered to appoint a Governor for Trieste "at the earliest possible moment" after the Italian treaty goes into effect. Until the Governor is named and for 90 days after he takes office, the United States, Britain and Yugoslavia are authorized to keep 5,000 troops each in their respective zones.

The Moscow radio broadcast, heard in London by the Soviet monitor, gave the five texts of the ratification instruments in rapid succession. They were identical except for the name of the conquered nation.

British "Pass Torch"

Nimitz, Chief of Naval Operations, asked the Legionnaires to act "as sentinels to see that no one branch of the armed forces is permitted to decline to the point where it can no longer carry out its share of responsibility for the national security."

"Each branch of our armed forces—like each leg of a three-legged stool—must be as effective as the others," he said.

Sir Ian Fraser, president of the 1,000,000-member British Legion, told the convention that the British navy for 100 years kept the peace of the world but said "we can no longer afford to do this."

"We pass the torch to you and our Canadian brothers in North America without regret, without jealousy," he added, "for you have inherited and nurtured our way of life and you will protect it."

Trucker Is Badly Injured In Crash Near Meyersdale

Found Staggering Along Route 219

A Westmoreland County, Pa., truck driver was in fair condition in Hazel McGilvery Hospital, Meyersdale, Pa., last night with injuries suffered when his truck climbed an embankment and overturned on Route 219 about two and a half miles north of Meyersdale.

Pennsylvania State Police at Somerset said the driver, Constantino Gazza, 24, of Luxor, Pa., near Greensburg, admitted he was driving too fast, failed to make a "treacherous" curve and climbed a four to five foot embankment, completely overturning at the top. It occurred about 5:45 p. m.

The cab of the truck was completely demolished, but Gazza soon managed to crawl out and later was found staggering along the highway in a dazed condition, police reported, adding that he was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist, H. Clay Stickle, Oakland.

Gazza was said to be suffering from a concussion of the brain, brush burns and other undetermined injuries. He will be X-rayed today.

The truck, owned by V. Z. Snall, also of Luxor, was demolished to the extent of $1,500 according to police, who said Snall is in the rendering business.

Gazza, who police said travels the road frequently, was charged with traveling too fast for conditions.

Pfc. W. H. Uhl, of the Pennsylvania Police, investigated.

Security Council

The Chinese delegate said he was not making a proposal but suggested that the council note the troop problem and urge the two parties to resume bilateral negotiations. He said he would toss this onto the council table if it appeared to have some chance.

Herschel Johnson, United States, said his country could support such a proposal unless Britain and Egypt opposed it so strongly that it would not work.

After consultation with the incoming council president for the month of September — Andrei A. Gromyko, of Russia—El Khoury announced the case would rest until September 9.

Police Department, assisted in the arrest.

The FBI said Walker has a 1947 Cadilac sedan and from information gained he tried to impress his associates at the track with the idea that he was a millionaire. He usually observed the races from the club house where he reserved a special table, agents stated, and attempted in many ways to impress his associates with his importance along with the fact that he was a financial tycoon.

Until recently, authorities said, the man employed a negro chauffeur to drive his car but a few weeks ago he fired the negro because "he was joy riding without Walker's permission."

Police said Walker's methods of operation in defrauding Mrs. Grehan is what is referred to in police language as the "confidence game."

He will be returned to Lexington, Ky., in the near future, agents said.

Jail "Place For Him," Walker's Wife Says

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 29 (AP)—Mrs. Sally Grehan Walker, informed here tonight that her husband had been placed in jail in Maryland on her charges that he fraudulently obtained $18,000 from her, said: "I'm glad of it, for that's the place for him."

She said she married him at Versailles, Ky., last December 27 after she had been introduced to him at Keeneland race track by some "Louisville friends" and after he had sent her orchids every two days for a year.

Mrs. Walker, who said she filed suit for divorce July 30, said she was entertained in Chicago by Walker's mother, "a lovely and charming woman who didn't know about her son."

She said Walker was "a perfect gentleman" and represented himself to be wealthy, claiming to have had a little hard luck and pleading that he needed some money to tide him over until he received an inheritance of $80,000.

The widow of a former money order clerk at the Lexington postoffice said that besides the $18,000, which she said she borrowed to loan him, she also let him have her own money, the amount of which she declined to divulge.

Mrs. Walker said the last she saw her husband was January 3 or 4 about a week after their marriage when he left to make "various business trips." She said he wired and telephoned her several times.

Well, here we are folks! The greatest group in America—the family! Along with millions of other families, we constitute the backbone of American life. We are America—America at her best!

We are all set to celebrate Labor Day—a holiday set aside by our government to emphasize the dignity and importance of labor as the basis of our national and individual prosperity.

We till the soil, man the shops and factories and offices, build the homes, support the schools and churches, and aim to have the best government and greatest freedom of any nation on earth. And that is just what we have.

In any period of national crisis, in war or peace, the government turns to us—the homes of America—the families and workers of America—and we never fail.

For our homes and our families are built on faith—faith in God's power and providence in human life. Our churches inspire us to live uprightly, to be happy and hopeful, and to build that most blessed of all institutions — the American home.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday and read your Bible daily

Well, here we are folks! The greatest group in America—the family! Along with millions of other families, we constitute the backbone of American life. We are America—America at her best!

We are all set to celebrate Labor Day—a holiday set aside by our government to emphasize the dignity and importance of labor as the basis of our national and individual prosperity.

We till the soil, man the shops and factories and offices, build the homes, support the schools and churches, and aim to have the best government and greatest freedom of any nation on earth. And that is just what we have.

In any period of national crisis, in war or peace, the government turns to us—the homes of America—the families and workers of America—and we never fail.

For our homes and our families are built on faith—faith in God's power and providence in human life. Our churches inspire us to live uprightly, to be happy and hopeful, and to build that most blessed of all institutions — the American home.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday and read your Bible daily

Lonaconing took a half game lead over Frostburg in the battle for fourth place and a spot in the Bi-State Baseball League playoffs by defeating Westvaco yesterday at Memorial Park, Westernport, by the score of 9 to 4.

Westvaco took a 2-1 lead with Young Bob Grove on the rubber in the second inning and Claude Steele came on the scene to let the league leaders down with seven hits and two runs in the last 7⅓ frames, receiving credit for the victory, his eighth of the season against six defeats.

'Coney sewed up the game with a three-run rally in the eighth featured by Charley Genevie's homer over the right field fence with one aboard.

Westvaco Holds Lead

Leo Ryan went the route for Westvaco and suffered his second loss of the season. He has won seven games.

The setback reduced Westvaco's lead over the second place Amvets to one-half game.

"Bud" Mosser homered over the centerfield barrier for Westvaco with one on base to put Westvaco out in front in the second inning.

Ray Cameron topped the 'Coney offensive with three hits while Forrest High and Mosser each hit safely three times for the losers.

Robertson featured afield for Westvaco, turning in a bare-handed catch on Ray Cameron's grounder and throwing out the runner.

Mt. Savage defeated the Queen City Brewers in a replay of a protested game which Mt. Savage won on August 9 by the score of 9-4.

Mt. Savage Retains Win

Yesterday's game was replayed from the last of the fifth inning with the score 4-3 in Mt. Savage's favor and neither team was able to score a run in the remaining innings.

League games are scheduled today at Romney and Lonaconing.

Tomorrow the Amvets play Queen City at Stitcher Field in a twin bill, commencing at 1 p. m. The opening game is a replay of a protest contest and will start in the last of the fourth inning with the Amvets at bat and the score knotted at 4-4, two out and Gerdeman on third base. Hyndman plays at Barton, Lonaconing at Mt. Savage and Midland at Westvaco. Boxes:

Reed's Electricians defeated the Concord Clothiers by the score of 11 to 4 and Lacy's Delicatets trounced the American Legion by the score of 16 to 3 in a pair of City Softball League games staged yesterday at Campobello and Community Park.

"Moose" Minnick of Reed's tossed a two-hitter and led his team at the plate by collecting four hits in as many trips to the plate. Pete Elliott knocked a homer in the first inning and John Pellerzi played a nice game at first base, handling ten chances without a slipup. The defeat knocked Concord out of third place and the idle V.F.W. team moved into that position. Williams' single and J. Broome's homer were the only hits credited to the Clothiers.

The Delicatets, priming for the playoff series with the Amvets, who need only one more win to clinch second half honors, rapped out 15 hits in defeating Fort Cumberland Post.

Vernon Penner rapped a homer and three doubles, Hardy garnered a homer and single and Miller, Scaletta, Durbin and Hawse racked up two hits each for the first half champs. The only hit made by the Legion was Valentine's single off Gene Scaletta in the fourth inning. Scores:

A squad of 26 players is now working out under the supervision of Coach Johnny Paugh and several more candidates are expected to report when school opens September 2.

Seven first stringers of 1946 lost to this year's team are Don Smith, Dwight Kessel, backs; Wallace Sherman, Bob Keller, "Mugs" Pink, Junior Riggleman and Jack Hartman, linemen.

The Jackets won the Potomac Valley Conference title last season. Fort Hill, Petersburg, Romney, Ridgeley, Franklin, Keyser and Allegany appear on Moorefield's schedule this year.

Federal Agency Opposes Night Fishing In Canal

Federation Gets Report On Bottle Run Survey

WESTERNPORT, Md., Aug. 29—The Battie Mixon Fishing Hole east of Cumberland cannot be opened to night fishing because the United States Department of National Park Service is unable to provide the necessary protection due to its limited appropriations this year.

The government agency states that if the C. & O. Canal were opened to night fishing, police protection would be necessary to enforce public safety and conservation.

These facts were revealed this week at a meeting of the Western Maryland Wildlife Federation at the club house of the Eckhart Square Circle Club. The host was the Allegany Sports Club of Zihlman. Six district clubs were represented.

Advocate Night Fishing

The federation plans to investigate reports that the Battie Mixon fishing hole section of the canal is the only part closed to night fishing. It has been pointed out before that the Battie Mixon fishing hole is suited to night fishing and it's to the sportsmen's advantage in the Cumberland area to have it opened at night.

A delegation from the League of Maryland Sportsmen accompanied by representatives of the federation recently inspected the Savage River Dam area and the Battie Mixon fishing hole.

The federation has approved a resolution proposed by the League of Maryland Sportsmen calling for the early completion of the Savage River Dam.

Federation members were informed that the League of Maryland Sportsmen recently sponsored a resurvey of Bottle Run in Allegany county. Eugene Surber, attached to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, stated that the establishment of rearing ponds at this location should produce 50,000 legal sized trout a year. He added that the water had an unusually high oxygen content and would make an ideal rearing pond site. Earlier at a state game commission meeting in Baltimore the federation had asked for the establishment of rearing ponds at Bottle Run.

October Outing Planned

It was decided to hold an all day outing in October and the federation hopes to make this affair the biggest of its kind ever staged in the district. It is planned to have members of the state game and fish commission present and all sportsmen regardless of whether they are connected with a club will be invited. A special meeting of all delegates of the federation will be held September 14 to formulate plans for the outing.

George Schriver, president of the Allegany Sports Club of Zihlman has invited all sportsmen to attend the all day picnic at Allegany on Labor day.

The next federation meeting is scheduled for October 9 in Westernport.

Sugar Robinson Stops Sebastian

16,000 Legionnaires See One Round Kayo

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP) — A most unusual fight show was put on in Madison Square Garden tonight for the entertainment of the American Legion—unusual in every respect except that Welterweight Champion Ray Robinson scored another knockout. This one was over the champion of the Orient, flashy Sebastian, and came at 1:02 of the first round.

This show was so different, in fact, that the customers came in strictly for free—and had to be members of the American Legion or legionnaires' guests to get past the doors. And there was a near "sell-out" of more than 16,000 of them on hand for the beak-busting.

What's more, the fighters were paid off in what amounted to cigar coupons for them. Robinson, for instance, got $5,000 which included his training expenses, and he figures on giving all but $1,000 or so to the family of the late Jimmy Doyle, who died after a bout with Sugar Ray in Cleveland in June. And Sebastian, who couldn't get a shot at Ray's title in Manila this summer, got $3,000 for making it an overweight affair tonight.

At 5 p. m. Sunday at Taylor Field the Oakland (Md.) Amvets will be met in a contest featuring the Amvets' convention.

Barton will be met in a Bi-State League twin bill here Labor Day at 1 p. m.

"We're hard up for pitchers and before it's all over Ralph Thuss may be in there chucking for us," Gerdeman declared.

Steelers Win, 24-17

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League turned in a surprising 24-17 win over the Green Bay Packers tonight in a pre-season exhibition game which drew over 31,000 fans. It was the first time the Steelers ever defeated their league rivals.

10,000 To Witness Davis Cup Matches

Kramer And Pails Will Open Series

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP) — Jack Kramer of the United States and Dinny Pails of Australia, the amateur tennis champions of their respective nations, will clash in the opening singles match of the Davis Cup challenge round at Forest Hills tomorrow before an expected crowd of more than 10,000.

This was the luck of the draw that the challenging Aussies had hoped for, as they feel it gives them their best chance of finishing the first day's play all-square. They are counting on their veteran star, Jack Bromwich, to defeat America's other singles player, Ted Schroeder, in tomorrow's second duel.

Pail's name was the first pulled out of the big cup in the official draw on the clubhouse veranda. Then Mrs. T. Ellsworth Davenport, wife of the referee of the cup matches, plucked out the name of Kramer.

Schroeder and Bromwich played the opening match at Melbourne last winter, and the net-playing Californian won out in a five-set thriller that set the Americans off flying toward their 5-0 shutout victory over the Australians.

Bromwich, who has been playing brilliantly in practice this week, fully expects to turn the tables on Schroeder tomorrow. There is little hope in the visitors' camp, however, that Pails is equal to the task of holding Kramer.

GRETCHEN WILLIAMS LOSES 3-SET MATCH TO MRS. G. L. BOWIE

An interesting women's single match, in the county tennis tournament, was played yesterday evening on the Dingle courts when Gretchen Williams, one of the younger players, extended Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie, who has won numerous local tournaments to three sets. Mrs. Bowie won the first set 6-2, and the third set at 6-2, but lost the second set to Miss Williams, 5-7. The match was noted for exceptionally long rallies nearly every point.

Midland at Westvaco (2:30)

Lonaconing took a half game lead over Frostburg in the battle for fourth place and a spot in the Bi-State Baseball League playoffs by defeating Westvaco yesterday at Memorial Park, Westernport, by the score of 9 to 4.

Westvaco took a 2-1 lead with Young Bob Grove on the rubber in the second inning and Claude Steele came on the scene to let the league leaders down with seven hits and two runs in the last 7⅓ frames, receiving credit for the victory, his eighth of the season against six defeats.

'Coney sewed up the game with a three-run rally in the eighth featured by Charley Genevie's homer over the right field fence with one aboard.

Westvaco Holds Lead

Leo Ryan went the route for Westvaco and suffered his second loss of the season. He has won seven games.

The setback reduced Westvaco's lead over the second place Amvets to one-half game.

"Bud" Mosser homered over the centerfield barrier for Westvaco with one on base to put Westvaco out in front in the second inning.

Ray Cameron topped the 'Coney offensive with three hits while Forrest High and Mosser each hit safely three times for the losers.

Robertson featured afield for Westvaco, turning in a bare-handed catch on Ray Cameron's grounder and throwing out the runner.

Mt. Savage defeated the Queen City Brewers in a replay of a protested game which Mt. Savage won on August 9 by the score of 9-4.

Mt. Savage Retains Win

Yesterday's game was replayed from the last of the fifth inning with the score 4-3 in Mt. Savage's favor and neither team was able to score a run in the remaining innings.

Reed's Electricians defeated the Concord Clothiers by the score of 11 to 4 and Lacy's Delicatets trounced the American Legion by the score of 16 to 3 in a pair of City Softball League games staged yesterday at Campobello and Community Park.

"Moose" Minnick of Reed's tossed a two-hitter and led his team at the plate by collecting four hits in as many trips to the plate. Pete Elliott knocked a homer in the first inning and John Pellerzi played a nice game at first base, handling ten chances without a slipup. The defeat knocked Concord out of third place and the idle V.F.W. team moved into that position. Williams' single and J. Broome's homer were the only hits credited to the Clothiers.

The Delicatets, priming for the playoff series with the Amvets, who need only one more win to clinch second half honors, rapped out 15 hits in defeating Fort Cumberland Post.

Vernon Penner rapped a homer and three doubles, Hardy garnered a homer and single and Miller, Scaletta, Durbin and Hawse racked up two hits each for the first half champs. The only hit made by the Legion was Valentine's single off Gene Scaletta in the fourth inning. Scores:

Federal Agency Opposes Night Fishing In Canal

Federation Gets Report On Bottle Run Survey

WESTERNPORT, Md., Aug. 29—The Battle Mixon Fishing Hole east of Cumberland cannot be opened to night fishing because the United States Department of National Park Service is unable to provide the necessary protection due to its limited appropriations this year.

The government agency states that if the C. & O. Canal were opened to night fishing, police protection would be necessary to enforce public safety and conservation.

These facts were revealed this week at a meeting of the Western Maryland Wildlife Federation at the club house of the Eckhart Square Circle Club. The host was the Allegany Sports Club of Zihlman. Six district clubs were represented.

Advocate Night Fishing

The federation plans to investigate reports that the Battie Mixon fishing hole section of the canal is the only part closed to night fishing. It has been pointed out before that the Battie Mixon fishing hole is suited to night fishing and it's to the sportsmen's advantage in the Cumberland area to have it opened at night.

A delegation from the League of Maryland Sportsmen accompanied by representatives of the federation recently inspected the Savage River Dam area and the Battie Mixon fishing hole.

The federation has approved a resolution proposed by the League of Maryland Sportsmen calling for the early completion of the Savage River Dam.

Federation members were informed that the League of Maryland Sportsmen recently sponsored a resurvey of Bottle Run in Allegany county. Eugene Surber, attached to the U. S. Fish and Wildl

Miner Badly Burned

Earl Swauger, 32, a miner residing at Ocean, was badly burned about the face, arms and back this morning at 7 o'clock when a can of gasoline burst into flames as he poured the fuel on a smouldering fire in the kitchen stove.

Swauger, admitted to Miners' Hospital here in a serious condition, said he thought the can contained a mixture of oil and kerosene. He decided to use fuel to start the fire, he added, as wood placed in the stove failed to burn readily due to being damp.

Swauger is married and the father of seven children.

Trees To Be Cut

Seven large trees on East Main Street in front of the properties of Dr. W. O. McLane and David C. Morehouse, and Mrs. Elizabeth Dennison, which have been considered a menace for some time, are to be removed by the city.

Urner G. Wigfield, Cumberland, informed the city council Wednesday evening that he would cut the trees down for $75 each, providing the city would furnish trucks to remove the debris. The prop size timber in the trees will be sold to a purchaser who will haul it away as the trees are being cut.

Wigfield agreed to assume responsibility for property damage while cutting down the trees only. He will submit a bid in writing at the regular meeting of the council Tuesday, September 2.

The trees have been doing much damage to sidewalks and sewers, and are beginning to show signs of rotting at the roots. Since the city officials are acquainted with the condition of the trees, it was decided by the mayor and city commissioners to have them removed before the city might become liable in case of property or personal damage should the trees or any part of them topple over during a storm or under the weight of a heavy sleet in winter time.

Oakland Legion Donates Ground For National Guard Armory Site

School Board Gives Temporary Quarters

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Md., Aug. 29—A site large enough to accommodate the permanent structure of the proposed National Guard armory has been donated by Proctor Kildow Legion Post No. 71, it was announced by Stuart W. Hamill, Jr., county chairman of the interested organizations.

The plot is located near the Legion home on Fourth Street and is 100 by 200 feet in size. If needed, the Legion will give additional land, Hamill said.

Another advancement in getting needed facilities came through the County Board of Education which granted the use of the school workshop on Eighth Street as temporary headquarters for the unit. The board also promised donation of a permanent site in that section of town if it were thought a better spot to erect the building. They are waiting for a letter giving full specifications before presenting the ground, according to Hamill.

At a meeting this week it was decided to have a citizens' meeting on Tuesday, September 16, at 7:30 to determine which one of three units should be established. All interested citizens are being urged to attend the discussion which will be in the court room of the court house. Either the Field Artillery, Military police or Combat Engineers branches can be started and there was some suggestion of an air unit.

After a decision of which branch to establish, the project will be turned over o the National Guard which will begin recruiting members immediatedly. A representative of the Guard has been asked to be present at the meeting.

The project for an armory has been under way for several weeks, as the result of an appropriation by the recent legislature for an expenditure of $140,000 here for such a structure.

Standard Time Adopted

At a special meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland this week, it was decided that daylight saving time, officially adopted by the council in May, would be rescinded at midnight on Sunday August 31, and that Eastern Standard Time would become effective as of that date.

The motion was made by Mayor A. G. Hesen and seconded by Councilman Ralph Pritts, and all other members present voted for the proposal. Edward G. Schmidt acted as president pro-tem, in the absence of Dr. E. I. Baumgartner. Earl Shartzer and Prentice DeBerry were the other members present.

It was stated in the motion that the Mayor and Council felt it was necessary to make the change at the present time due to opening of the county schools on September 2, pointing out if daylight saving time was extended it would be inconvenient for the students and bus drivers for lunch hour periods of opening and closing.

The council declared the town on daylight time as of May 25, and ordinarily such time would have continued until late September, the same as other towns having daylight time.

Daylight time was observed in Oakland by the city hall, banks, some of the churches and garages, and by a few of the business places, the balance remaining on standard time with the County Commissioners, the Court House, and county residents.

When served on mashed potatoes, hot biscuits, bread dressing, spaghetti or rice, gravy not only extends the good flavor of meat, but also adds nourishment to the meal. The fat in the drippings has energy value; and research has shown that some of the vitamins in the meat go into the drippings during cooking.

Trees To Be Cut

Seven large trees on East Main Street in front of the properties of Dr. W. O. McLane and David C. Morehouse, and Mrs. Elizabeth Dennison, which have been considered a menace for some time, are to be removed by the city.

Urner G. Wigfield, Cumberland, informed the city council Wednesday evening that he would cut the trees down for $75 each, providing the city would furnish trucks to remove the debris. The prop size timber in the trees will be sold to a purchaser who will haul it away as the trees are being cut.

Wigfield agreed to assume responsibility for property damage while cutting down the trees only. He will submit a bid in writing at the regular meeting of the council Tuesday, September 2.

The trees have been doing much damage to sidewalks and sewers, and are beginning to show signs of rotting at the roots. Since the city officials are acquainted with the condition of the trees, it was decided by the mayor and city commissioners to have them removed before the city might become liable in case of property or personal damage should the trees or any part of them topple over during a storm or under the weight of a heavy sleet in winter time.

Oakland Legion Donates Ground For National Guard Armory Site

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Md., Aug. 29—A site large enough to accommodate the permanent structure of the proposed National Guard armory has been donated by Proctor Kildow Legion Post No. 71, it was announced by Stuart W. Hamill, Jr., county chairman of the interested organizations.

The plot is located near the Legion home on Fourth Street and is 100 by 200 feet in size. If needed, the Legion will give additional land, Hamill said.

Another advancement in getting needed facilities came through the County Board of Education which granted the use of the school workshop on Eighth Street as temporary headquarters for the unit. The board also promised donation of a permanent site in that section of town if it were thought a better spot to erect the building. They are waiting for a letter giving full specifications before presenting the ground, according to Hamill.

At a meeting this week it was decided to have a citizens' meeting on Tuesday, September 16, at 7:30 to determine which one of three units should be established. All interested citizens are being urged to attend the discussion which will be in the court room of the court house. Either the Field Artillery, Military police or Combat Engineers branches can be started and there was some suggestion of an air unit.

After a decision of which branch to establish, the project will be turned over to the National Guard which will begin recruiting members immediatedly. A representative of the Guard has been asked to be present at the meeting.

The project for an armory has been under way for several weeks, as the result of an appropriation by the recent lecislature for an expenditure of $140,000 here for such a structure.

Standard Time Adopted

At a special meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland this week, it was decided that daylight saving time, officially adopted by the council in May, would be rescinded at midnight on Sunday August 31, and that Eastern Standard Time would become effective as of that date.

The motion was made by Mayor A. G. Hesen and seconded by Councilman Ralph Pritts, and all other members present voted for the proposal. Edward G. Schmidt acted as president pro-tem, in the absence of Dr. E. I. Baumgartner. Earl Shartzer and Prentice DeBerry were the other members present.

It was stated in the motion that the Mayor and Council felt it was necessary to make the change at the present time due to opening of the county schools on September 2, pointing out if daylight saving time was extended it would be inconvenient for the students and bus drivers for lunch hour periods of opening and closing.

The council declared the town on daylight time as of May 25, and ordinarily such time would have continued until late September, the same as other towns having daylight time.

Daylight time was observed in Oakland by the city hall, banks, some of the churches and garages, and by a few of the business places, the balance remaining on standard time with the County Commissioners, the Court House, and county residents.

Lt. Col. Shettle Visits Local Army Recruiting Station

Lt. Col. John G. Shettle, commanding officer of the Baltimore Army Recruiting District, made an inspection trip to the local Army Recruiting station yesterday and stated the district was the first in the Second Army area to reach its quota of enlistments during August.

Col. Shettle stated that including Wednesday recruiters in the Baltimore district had enlisted 669 men. The quota for the month of August is 550 and was topped on Monday when the total for Maryland was 568, the first in the entire Second Army area to reach the perscribed total.

The district last month exceeded its goal by recruiting 147.8 percent of the quota and was first in the area, Col. Shettle said. He remarked that the local detachment has exceeded its quota every month but three since the office was opened.

Fifty one men were sent from the local recruiting station during August, with 49 signing for three year enlistments and two for two year periods.

The Air Forces claimed the majority of the recruits with 21 enlistments. Four enlisted in both the Ordnance and Cavalry Departments.

Thirty six men enlisted in the Regular Army unassigned, seven preferred the Pacific Theater, five, the European Theater, and two, the Alaskan area.

Of the 51 men, 15 were veterans and 36 had no previous service.

Stephen Crane, author of "The Red Badge of Courage," was born in New York City, and was, for a time, a newspaper man. He died young while visiting abroad, and his remains were brought back to New York and buried within a few miles of his birthplace.

She attended Potomac State College last year, majoring in journalism. This fall she is matriculating to Frostburg State Teachers College, where she will major in junior high school education. She is a member of Sigma Chi Omega.

Her fiance graduated from Brunswick High School in 1943. While there he was a member of the band and the soccer team. A veteran of three years service in the Navy, he was on duty in both the European and Pacific theaters. He will attend Frostburg State Teachers College this fall also.

Mrs. Emma B. Linn, grandmother of the bride, will entertain with a wedding reception at her home, Goethe Street, following the ceremony. The bridal motif is to be carried out in the bouquets of white flowers, candelabra of tall white tapers and the three tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Hares, Judy O'Neal Win In Gephart Reading Contest

The Gephart School Branch Library Reading Contest, held for the third consecutive summer, closed yesterday with the "Hares," captained by Sue Keyser, winning over the "Tortoises," captained by Wayne Sams. The individual prize was won by Judy O'Neal, 1205 Bedford Street, a member of the "Hares." Judy read 55 books during the summer, and her prize was another book.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, who presided at the closing ceremony, said that "all the children did very well during the summer, they all read a great number of books, none fewer than ten and many read in the 30s." The children using it elected two captains for the contest, who in turn chose their teams, composed of approximately 40 children each. The branch and the contest opened the latter part of June. Library hours were held three days a week and a story hour was held each Friday afternoon.

Concluding the ceremony a treat was given the children by the Playground Association and the Library presented each with souvenirs. Approximately 90 children participat-

He was a well known member of the select group known as Company B (for Buffs) of the Cumberland Fire Department and stopped at Central station at least twice a day to keep up on the events of the department.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Gertrude McVicker Callahan, and a daughter, Mrs. R. Leo Reichert, 415 Cumberland Street.

the man's death will be continued until today when the crew of the train will return here from Baltimore for questioning. Until then, the railroad ploiceman said, it cannot be determined how close Collins was walking to the track when he was struck, or what section of the engine struck him.

The train, No. 2 eastbound, had just left the local Western Maryland Station when the accident occurred. Capt. Clark estimated the speed of the train at 50 miles an hour, and said that is the usual speed of a train passing through the tunnel.

Opening Dates Set For Catholic Girls' Schools In City

With the exception of St. Mary's High School, all of Cumberland's Catholic girls' high and parochial schools will open Thursday, September 4, at 9 a. m. St. Mary's will hold registration Friday, September 5, at 9 a. m.

All Catholic schools will have changes in faculties this year with the transfer of several former instructors to the Ursuline College Model School, Louisville, Ky., one to Madison, Ind., and another to Columbia, S. C.

The Catholic Girls' Central Business High School, Catholic Girls' Central High School and St. Patrick's Parochial School will all open September 4 at 9, Sister Marie announced. Some faculty changes are planned, she said, but the list is not complete.

St. Mary's High School will have a new principal in Sister Francelle who transferred from Ursuline Academy to replace Sister Merici, now head of the education department at Ursuline College. One other change in the St. Mary's High faculty brings Sister Clarice to the staff to replace Sister Giovanni, who was transferred to the library at the Louisville college.

Grade school faculty changes at St. Mary's include: Second Grade, Sister Ivo replaces Sister Gemma who goes to Ursuline College; Fourth Grade, Mrs. Mary Colbert replaces Sister Teresina who will teach the Sixth Grade former taught by Sister Esther who goes to Ursuline College; Seventh Grade, Sister Constance replacing Sister Rosella who goes to Ursuline College; music teacher, Sister Suzanne replaces Sister Eileen, who goes to Columbia, S. C.

Both Ursuline Academy and SS. Peter and Paul Parochial School will open September 4.

Two changes in the Ursuline Academy faculty will bring Sister Celine and Sister Alphonsine to the staff, the latter replacing Sister Francelle, now principal at St. Mary's, and the former taking the instructorship formerly held by Sister Delia, now at Ursuline College.

A change in the parochial school setup will see one of the two eighth grades disbanded, and a second first grade class added, Sister Loretto, principal said.

Faculty changes in the parochial school include: Eighth Grade, Sister Pietra replacing Sister Basil; Seventh Grade, Sister Josena, new faculty member, replacing Sister Antonella, who also goes to Louisville; Fifth Grade, Sister Bonaventure, who taught here last year, replacing Sister Annella, now in Madison, Ind.; First Grade, Sister Denise, new teacher, with Sister Borromo remaining as teacher for the second class; and Sister Harriet as replacement for Sister Veronica who goes to Louisville.

Lt. Col. Shettle Visits Local Army Recruiting Station

Lt. Col. John G. Shettle, commanding officer of the Baltimore Army Recruiting District, made an inspection trip to the local Army Recruiting station yesterday and stated the district was the first in the Second Army area to reach its quota of enlistments during August.

Col. Shettle stated that including Wednesday recruiters in the Baltimore district had enlisted 669 men. The quota for the month of August is 550 and was topped on Monday when the total for Maryland was 568, the first in the entire Second Army area to reach the perscribed total.

The district last month exceeded its goal by recruiting 147.8 percent of the quota and was first in the area, Col. Shettle said. He remarked that the local detachment has exceeded its quota every month but three since the office was opened.

Fifty one men were sent from the local recruiting station during August, with 49 signing for three year enlistments and two for two year periods.

The Air Forces claimed the majority of the recruits with 21 enlistments. Four enlisted in both the Ordnance and Cavalry Departments.

Thirty six men enlisted in the Regular Army unassigned, seven preferred the Pacific Theater, five, the European Theater, and two, the Alaskan area.

Of the 51 men, 15 were veterans and 36 had no previous service.

Stephen Crane, author of "The Red Badge of Courage," was born in New York City, and was, for a time, a newspaper man. He died young while visiting abroad, and his remains were brought back to New York and buried within a few miles of his birthplace.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29—Busy day for William Cagney, producer of his brother Jimmy's movies. Bill decided to start work, himself, immediately on "Only the Valiant", the Charles Marcus noved, for which he formerly turned down an offer of $150,000 plus the loan of a star from one of the top studios.

Bette Davis

Jimmy Cagney who just finished Saroyan's "Time Of Your Life" was in New York on vacation. Bill telephoned and asked him to return as soon as possible because he's lining up the entire acting personnel of the Saroyan film for this new one. He's trying to re-borrow Bill Bendix from Hal Roach, Wayne Morris from Warners, trying to get Paul Draper to cut short his concert plans, and James Barton to postpone his tour on "Tobacco Road."

Sister Jeanne Cagney has already said she'll cancel her stage commitment, while Broderick Crawford and Ward Bond have promised Bill they'll be on hand. That's the first time I have ever heard of a complete cast doing an encore.

Direct from Paris comes news that Paulette Goddard has a date on Monday at the George V Hotel with John Wildberg. Paulette, who is making a picture in Dublin, flies to Paris to confer with Producer Wildberg about starring in "Anna Lucasta", both in the play and in the movie.

Robert Kane, who is producing the picture, would like very much to have Paulette in the starring role, and Paulette has always had her eye on the play. However, she wants to make the picture in England, which offers a problem.

Her idea is to star in the play in Paris with an all-white cast and then make the movie in England immediately after. But those who have made pictures abroad, and Bob Kane is one of them, know the difficulties in making movies in Europe now.

Thank goodness the Adrian fashion collection for Fall and Winter hasn't a padded hip in the lot, nor a sloping shoulder.

Gray and taupe predominated in the color line. I was greatly impressed with the originality. So many of the dresses had extra little scarfs, almost small capes. Some of the evening gowns had wing affects on the shoulders.

It's hard to describe them since I'm a movie writer and know little about fashion terms. But being a woman, I know what I like, and I do love's Adrian's clothes this year.

I saw Claudette Colbert busily taking notes. Ann Sothern perched on a table so she wouldn't miss a trick. I sat wtih Virginia Zanuck, Constance Bennett and Dolly O'Brien, and there was one dress all three wanted, a cocktail suit with a filmy lace front in black.

Other admiring femmes were Mary Pickford, Joan Crawford, Anne Baxter, Billie Burke, Mrs. N. Peter Rathvon, Mrs. Henry Ginsberg and Cobina Wright, Sr.

Chit-Chat: Rita Hayworth's first date when she gets off the boat on Monday is luncheon with Jimmy Stewart. Jimmy closes in the stage play, "Harvey", Saturday night, and he's waiting over to buy luncheon for Rita.

New York hasn't seen a spectacle like the "Harvey" stage door since matinee idols were in vogue. From 500 to 1,000 fans wait for Jimmy every night at the theatre, and there's no doubt that his excursion to Broadway has done him a lot of good, and it couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

I congratulate Bette Davis on her wisdom in refusing to let that certain picture magazine make an exclusive layout of the christening of her daughter, Barbara Davis Sherry. This magazine, which continually raps Hollywood and then tries to move in and take exclusives, wanted to bar all the other photographers, but Bette said no.

When the christening takes place all the photographers who have been kind to Bette in the past will be invited to photograph the little princess. If we had more people with that courage we would fight for Hollywood, we would get fewer slams in those certain magazines that make it a habit to belittle our people.

Last weekend Greta Garbo met Thomas Mann by appointment Mann, who has been in Switzerland, flew to London to try to sell the Garbo the idea of starring in "A Woman With a Hundred Faces," the movie Mann wrote in conjunction with Louis Bromfield and Maxmilian Ilyin, and which Boris Morros and William Lebaron bought.

Garbo, who turned down every movie before she sailed, would have to come back to America to make this one, if Mann is able to persuade her. But personally, I don't believe Garbo will ever make another picture.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: John Loder's serious romantic interest in Evelyn Auffmordt, socialite from Ojai Valley.

Howard Hughes escorted Cyd Charisse to the Mel Ferrer birthday party given by Mrs. Ferrer—but don't get excited, he was asked to take her.

The same night Tony Martin, who used to take Cyd places, gave a farewell party for Irish Bynum, who is leaving for Honolulu. Seems that Tony and Cyd's kiss and make up didn't last.

Guess who Alexis Smith received a big bouquet of roses from on her first day of shooting on "Christopher Blake?" Irving Rapper, no less, who walked out as director because he felt Alexis wasn't right for the part. That's what I call a nice gesture.

Larry Parks is making it a nightly habit to watch Sammy Wolf do his impersonation of Larry Impersonating Al Jolson, at Charley Foy's.

Bill Holden has turned out to be a real hero. He rescued Gary Grant, nine-year-old actor, on location with him at Eugene, Oregon, from a rattlesnake.

Don't you believe those rumors that Ann Sheridan and Steve Hannagan have separated. Steve is right here with Ann, and only left for a day to go to San Francisco.

Josephine Baker, famed negro singer, opens in Chicago the second week in September, and may come on to Hollywood for an engagement. She's now in South America.

Hedy Lamarr and Mark Stevens are making it an every night habit to appear at Ciro's.

What penalty is Frank Morgan going to pay off at the stag party at the Bel Air Hotel in celebration of his winning the Honolulu yacht race? Wish I could tell you, but I can't. Anyway, the irrepressible Frank will keep the promise he made the McNab Brothers, members of his crew.

Rumor persists that Rosemary Lane and Buddy Westmore are talking a reconciliation, and I hope it's true.

That's all today.

I congratulate Bette Davis on her wisdom in refusing to let that certain picture magazine make an exclusive layout of the christening of her daughter, Barbara Davis Sherry. This magazine, which continually raps Hollywood and then tries to move in and take exclusives, wanted to bar all the other photographers, but Bette said no.

When the christening takes place all the photographers who have been kind to Bette in the past will be invited to photograph the little princess. If we had more people with that courage we would fight for Hollywood, we would get fewer slams in those certain magazines that make it a habit to belittle our people.

Last weekend Greta Garbo met Thomas Mann by appointment. Mann, who has been in Switzerland, flew to London to try to sell the Garbo the idea of starring in "A Woman Witn a Hundred Faces," the movie Mann wrote in conjunction with Louis Bromfield and Maxmilian Ilvin, and which Boris Morros and William Lebaron bought.

Garbo, who turned down every movie before she sailed, would have to come back to America to make this one, if Mann is able to persuade her. But personally, I don't believe Garbo will ever make another picture.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: John Loder's serious romantic interest in Evelyn Auffmordt, socialite from Ojai Valley.

Howard Hughes escorted Cyd Charisse to the Mel Ferrer birthday party given by Mrs. Ferrer—but don't get excited, he was asked to take her.

The same night Tony Martin, who used to take Cyd places, gave a farewell party for Irish Bynum, who is leaving for Honolulu. Seems that Tony and Cyd's kiss and make up didn't last.

Guess who Alexis Smith received a big bouquet of roses from on her first day of shooting on "Christopher Blake?" Irving Rapper, no less, who walked out as director because he felt Alexis wasn't right for the part. That's what I call a nice gesture.

Larry Parks is making it a nightly habit to watch Sammy Wolf do his impersonation of Larry impersonating Al Jolson, at Charley Foy's.

Bill Holden has turned out to be a real hero. He rescued Gary Grant, nine-year-old actor, on location with him at Eugene, Oregon, from a rattlesnake.

Don't you believe those rumors that Ann Sheridan and Steve Hannagan have separated. Steve is right here with Ann, and only left for a day to go to San Francisco.

Josephine Baker, famed negro singer, opens in Chicago the second week in September, and may come on to Hollywood for an engagement. She's now in South America.

Hedy Lamarr and Mark Stevens are making it an every night habit to appear at Ciro's.

What penalty is Frank Morgan going to pay off at the stag party at the Bel Air Hotel in celebration of his winning the Honolulu yacht race? Wish I could tell you, but I can't. Anyway, the irrepressible Frank will keep the promise he made the McNab Brothers, members of his crew.

Rumor persists that Rosemary Lane and Buddy Westmore are talking a reconciliation, and I hope it's true.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—We were speaking of tipping, the other afternoon, and the hard life of the poor taxi drivers whose gratuities seem to be dwindling these days along with John Public's financial fortunes.

Mel Heimer

Out-of-towners drifting into Manhattan for the first time always are startled by the practice of tipping. I speak of small-town residents, that is; Chicagoans and Bostonians and others from the big cities are aware of the necessary evil and, like us, they put up with it.

However, even they are taken aback by the size of New York tipping. In other cities, one can get away with paying no more than 10 per cent of the bill in the swankiest restaurant, and in medium-priced eateries like Childs and Schrafft's the style seems to be a nickel or a dime and a subsequent departure with a righteous air at having done the charitable thing.

Here we are the orginal suckers. We tip everyone—and overtip them. We do not get spectacular service nor do we get our shoes shined, free drinks on the house or a cigar for our pains. We sometimes get a "thank you."

More often, our tips are swept into the palm by a waiter to whom the coins are considered no more than his just due. Lord help us if we forget the tip, anywhere in the city; we will be lucky to escape with legs and arms intact.

In the good old days—heavens, as recently as five years ago—you could get a shine for a nickel. Now its at least a dime, and no guarantee that a polising brush will not be hurled at your retreating head if you do not add a nickel or dime tip.

Try and get away with a 10-percent-of-the-bill reward in the razzle-dazzle night spots these evenings. You likely will be blackballed from every joint in town, including the one-arm coffee houses, if you try that stunt.

In the tinny gin mills of 52nd street, of course, where the jazz giants hold forth, there are no holds barred and the waiters, hat-check girls and headwaiters greet you as you enter as if they were Strangler Lewis coming out of the opposite corner to test hammerlocks with you.

Ringside tables are purchasable only by a bill of sufficient size stuffed into the headwaiter's hand, Why, the tip even has found its insidious way into hospitals. Floundering around town with a piece of soot in my left eye the other evening, I finally ended up in a hospital to have it taken out.

An interne accomplished the job precisely enough, and then I turned to him and asked if there was a fee. "Well, not exactly," he said, studying my billfold in hand coolly. We stood face to face for a moment and I wondered if he were going to put the soot back in my aching orb if I didnt slip him at least enough for a drink at the corner saloon.

However, I was his match; I was the outraged sucker at bay, Casper Milquetoast finally aroused to a quiet fury. "That's nice," I said blandly, and disappeared out into the city streets, bloody, but unbowed. No tip.

You tip doormen at Christmas, letter carriers at the same time, telegraph messengers, drugstore counter clerks—in fact, about the only persons you don't tip in New York are your friends.

Sometimes the habit seems to be so ingrained in me that I feel like slipping a half-dollar on the coffee table when I leave a friends apartment, to compensate him for putting up with my company and for the strenuous effort of putting up canapes and cocktails for me.

It cannot be that those who receive the tips are a race apart, for there are thousands of them, and yet I have wondered often just how they could square the acceptance of a tip with their pride.

When I was a boy and the best deliverer of hamburger in the butcher business, I grabbed tips happily and without righteous indignation—but now that I am allegedly grown, I think the tip would stick in the craw of my pride.

Or am I kidding myself?

DeMolay Conclave

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—We were speaking of tipping, the other afternoon, and the hard life of the poor taxi drivers whose gratuities seem to be dwindling these days along with John Public's financial fortunes.

Mel Heimer

Out-of-towners drifting into Manhattan for the first time always are startled by the practice of tipping. I speak of small-town residents, that is; Chicagoans and Bostonians and others from the big cities are aware of the necessary evil and, like us, they put up with it.

However, even they are taken aback by the size of New York tipping. In other cities, one can get away with paying no more than 10 per cent of the bill in the swankiest restaurant, and in medium-priced eateries like Childs and Schrafft's the style seems to be a nickel or a dime and a subsequent departure with a righteous air at having done the charitable thing.

Here we are the origninal suckers. We tip everyone—and overtip them. We do not get spectacular service nor do we get our shoes shined, free drinks on the house or a cigar for our pains. We sometimes get a "thank you."

More often, our tips are swept into the palm by a waiter to whom the coins are considered no more than his just due. Lord help us if we forget the tip, anywhere in the city; we will be lucky to escape with legs and arms intact.

In the good old days—heavens, as recently as five years ago—you could get a shine for a nickel. Now its at least a dime, and no guarantee that a polising brush will not be hurled at your retreating head if you do not add a nickel or dime tip.

Try and get away with a 10-percent-of-the-bill reward in the razzle-dazzle night spots these evenings. You likely will be blackballed from every joint in town, including the one-arm coffee houses, if you try that stunt.

In the tinny gin mills of 52nd street, of course, where the jazz giants hold forth, there are no holds barred and the waiters, hat-check girls and headwaiters greet you as you enter as if they were Strangler Lewis coming out of the opposite corner to test hammerlocks with you.

Ringside tables are purchasable only by a bill of sufficient size stuffed into the headwaiter's hand. Why, the tip even has found its insidious way into hospitals. Floundering around town with a piece of soot in my left eye the other evening, I finally ended up in a hospital to have it taken out.

An interne accomplished the job precisely enough, and then I turned to him and asked if there was a fee. "Well, not exactly," he said, studying my billfold in hand coolly. We stood face to face for a moment and I wondered if he were going to put the soot back in my aching orb if I didnt slip him at least enough for a drink at the corner saloon.

However, I was his match; I was the outraged sucker at bay, Casper Milquetoast finally aroused to a quiet fury. "That's nice," I said blandly, and disappeared out into the city streets, bloody, but unbowed. No tip.

You tip doormen at Christmas, letter carriers at the same time, telegraph messengers, drugstore counter clerks—in fact, about the only persons you don't tip in New York are your friends.

Sometimes the habit seems to be so ingrained in me that I feel like slipping a half-dollar on the coffee table when I leave a friends apartment, to compensate him for putting up with my company and for the strenuous effort of putting up canapes and cocktails for me.

It cannot be that those who receive the tips are a race apart, for there are thousands of them, and yet I have wondered often just how they could square the acceptance of a tip with their pride.

When I was a boy and the best deliverer of hamburger in the butcher business, I grabbed tips happily and without righteous indignation—but now that I am allegedly grown, I think the tip would stick in the craw of my pride.

Or am I kidding myself?

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the help and kindness shown to us when our loved one, Mabel B. Gashaw, recently passed away.
Charles C. Gashaw
Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Helple

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mr. Roland T. Dayton, who passed away two years ago, August 29, 1945.
Lonely hours we have passed without you.
We are sad and blue.
Each day we have our heartaches
And think often of you.
Some may think we have forgotten,
Yes, at times they see us smile.
They do not know the lonely hours
We have spent all the while.
Missed by his wife, Mrs. R. T. Dayton, Daughter, and Sons.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the help and kindness shown to us when our loved one, Mabel B. Gashaw, recently passed away.
Charles C. Gashaw
Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Helple

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mr. Roland T. Dayton, who passed away two years ago, August 29, 1945.
Lonely hours we have passed without you.
We are sad and blue.
Each day we have our heartaches
And think often of you.
Some may think we have forgotten,
Yes, at times they see us smile,
They do not know the lonely hours
We have spent all the while.
Missed by his wife, Mrs. R. T. Dayton, Daughter, and Sons.

First Average Upswing Of Week Is Negotiated By Stock Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—The stock market today negotiated its first average upswing of the week as short covering in preparation for the long weekend, in addition to timid investment nibbling, gave a lift to leaders in virtually all departments.

Early narrow irregularity was succeeded by stiffening trends after midday. Gains of fractions to a point or so held a wide majority at the close. Dealings quickened a bit in the final hour.

Norfolk and Western added 5½ points at 248½, Ingersol-Rand three at 118, Allied Chemical 2½ at 188, American Telephone 1⅞ at 157⅞ and Moore-McCormick lines 1¾ at 28¼. Ahead a point or so were Bethlehem Steel at 87½, Santa Fe 82½, Mid-Continent Petroleum 44½, American Machine and Foundry 26⅜, Joy Manufacturing, 36⅜, Douglas Aircraft 56½, du Pont 190¾, Philip Morris 30, Pacific Telephone 101, Chrysler 59 and General Motors 59⅜.

In front were United States Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, American Water Works, Western Union, Anaconda, Westinghouse, General Electric, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Publicker, Pepsi-Cola, and Phillips Petroleum.

Small losses were shown for United States Rubber, Associated Dry Goods, Union Carbide, United States Gypsum, Glenn Martin, Kennecott and International Nickel.

Improved in the Curb were Soss Manufacturing (on resumed dividends), Creole Petroleum, Cities Service and Elliott Company. In arrears were Electric Bond and Share, Humble Oill and N. J. Zinc. Turnover here was 120,000 shares, equalling that of yesterday.

Irregularity ruled the bond market and dealings were extremely light as investors abandoned the financial community for an early start on the long holiday weekend.

Total sales of $2,550,000 compared with $2,560,000 Thursday and were the lightest of the week.

United States governments were quiet in over-the-counter dealings and the Victory 2½s of December 1967-72 were unchanged at 102 30-32 bid.

First Average Upswing Of Week Is Negotiated By Stock Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—The stock market today negotiated its first average upswing of the week as short covering in preparation for the long weekend, in addition to timid investment nibbling, gave a lift to leaders in virtually all departments.

Early narrow irregularity was succeeded by stiffening trends after midday. Gains of fractions to a point or so held a wide majority at the close. Dealings quickened a bit in the final hour.

Transfers for the full stretch aggregated 580,000 shares, the same as Thursday.

Norfolk and Western added 5½ points at 248½, Ingersol-Rand three at 118, Allied Chemical 2½ at 188, American Telephone 1⅞ at 157⅞ and Moore-McCormick lines 1⅜ at 28¼. Ahead a point or so were Bethlehem Steel at 87½, Santa Fe 82½, Mid-Continent Petroleum 44½, American Machine and Foundry 26⅜, Joy Manufacturing, 36⅝, Douglas Aircraft 56½, du Pont 190¾, Philip Morris 30, Pacific Telephone 101, Chrysler 59 and General Motors 59⅜.

In front were United States Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, American Water Works, Western Union, Anaconda, Westinghouse, General Electric, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Publicker, Pepsi-Cola, and Phillips Petroleum.

Small losses were shown for United States Rubber, Associated Dry Goods, Union Carbide, United States Gypsum, Glenn Martin, Kennecott and International Nickel.

Improved in the Curb were Soss Manufacturing (on resumed dividends), Creole Petroleum, Cities Service and Elliott Company. In arrears were Electric Bond and Share, Humble Oill and N. J. Zinc. Turnover here was 120,000 shares, equalling that of yesterday.

Irregularity ruled the bond market and dealings were extremely light as investors abandoned the financial community for an early start on the long holiday weekend.

Total sales of $2,550,000 compared with $2,560000 Thursday and were the lightest of the week.

United States governments were quiet in over-the-counter dealings and the Victory 2½s of December 1967-72 were unchanged at 102 30-32 bid.

Racing Enthusiast Nabbed Here In $18,000 Fraud

Walker Is Held On $5,000 Bond After Arrest At Local Track

Chicago Man Arrested By FBI And Local Detective; Accused Of Confidence Racket

A Chicago horse racing enthusiast, who allegedly worked the confidence game to the tune of $18,000 with the promise of marrying a Lexington, Ky., woman, was arrested yesterday at Fairgo race track and is held here in the county jail in default of $5,000 bond, according to FBI agents.

Identified as John Donald Walker, 46, 542 North Pine Avenue, Chicago, Ill., the FBI said he was arrested at the cashier's office yesterday when he attempted to claim a purse won by his horse, Coral Water, which finished second in the Robert C. Wilson Memorial Race, August 20.

Has Previous Record

Fred Hallford, special agent in charge of the FBI at Baltimore, said Walker was arrested on a warrant issued on August 25, this year, by the United States Commissioner at Lexington, Ky., charging him with violating the Federal National Stolen Property Act.

Walker is alleged to have fraudulently obtained the $18,000 from Mrs. Sally Grehan, Lexington, Ky., as the result of his misrepresentation of financial standing and claims of affection and promises of marriage, the FBI reported.

The FBI quoted Walker as saying that he has been following the horse racing business for the past 20 years, and said he planned to leave Cumberland yesterday to attend the races at Timonium next week.

FBI agents said they received their tip that Walker had come here from Hagerstown, after the racing season closed there, and declared the man and his wife, already had checked out of a local hotel before going to the track with the idea of leaving for Baltimore.

In his statement, Walker admitted, the FBI said, that he has served two terms in Illinois state penitentiaries on conspiracy charges, one for two years, eight months and the other for three years and nine months. He said he married his present wife "about a year ago," but could not recall the date, the agents added.

The agents explained that the alleged fraudulent action with the Kentucky woman was committed between May and December of last year, at a time when Mrs. Grehan was settling an estate.

Waives Preliminary Hearing

Walker waived a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett and was committed to jail in default of bond. He will be returned to Kentucky for trial, the agents said.

Part of the funds which Walker is charged with obtaining from Mrs. Grehan were allegedly transported in interstate commerce in violation of the Federal Statutes, according to the FBI.

Walker told FBI agents, they said, that he borrowed the money from Mrs. Grehan and declared he had signed a promisory note before being given the money. Authorities said they believe Walker's wife, who is traveling with him, had no knowledge of his previous actions or criminal record.

Walker reportedly brought Coral Water here from Hagerstown but the horse was later reclaimed by the previous owner when Walker defaulted in payment, investigating authorities said.

In his statement yesterday, the agents reported that Walker said he left Cumberland over the weekend to attend the funeral of a relative in Chicago, and was en route to Baltimore where he had made reservations at the Belvedere Hotel, so that he could attend the races at Timonium next week.

The FBI said they were not informed that the man was wanted until after he left the city for Chicago and upon learning of his return to the city they requested the Cumberland Fair Association to inform them if Walker attempted to collect his purse, reported to be $385. NABBED BY FBI—Taken into custody yesterday afternoon by the FBI at the Fairgo race track, John Donald Walker, Chicago, self-professed race horse enthusiast, waived a preliminary hearing and was ordered held in Allegany County Jail in default of $5,000 bond on charges of fraudulently obtaining $18,000 from Mrs. Sally Grehan, Lexington, Ky. FBI agents said a warrant for his arrest was issued in Lexington, August 25.

Trevor Jones Is Arrested In Armed Robbery Of Taxi

Driver Identifies Man From Picture

West Virginia State Police were holding one man last night and looking for two more who allegedly robbed a Cumberland taxi driver of his cab at gun point near Short Gap, W. Va., early Thursday morning.

Local police said a man who gave his name as Trevor Jones was arrested at the rear of 34 Virginia Avenue yesterday afternoon and returned to West Virginia State police after the driver, Thomas Cessna, Yello Top Cab Company employe, identified him.

Cpl. R. R. Karickhoff of the West Virginia State Police, said Jones admitted that he was drinking Wednersday night and declared he could not recall his companions. The driver, according to police, could not furnish a description of the other men since they rode in the rear seat.

Police said Cessna was called to the Maryland Avenue call box Friday morning at 3:15 o'clock and picked up three men who asked to be driven to Short Gap, W. Va. Shortly before reaching their destination, Cessna said one of the men pushed a revolver into his ribs and said "this is a holdup."

Police quoted Cessna as saying he jumped from the cab and ran through a brush patch near Short Gap where he hid for several hours before trying to find a telephone to call his office.

The three men, according to police drove away in the cab and abandoned it Thursday afternoon near Mt. Storm, W. Va., after running out of gasoline.

Police said Cessna identified Jones as one of the trio after checking the "rogues gallery morgue" at the local police station. Jones, local police said, was preparing to "get away" at the time he was arrested.

Tech. Sgt. John Newhouse made the arrest after Cpl. Karickhoff requested that Jones be picked up. Police said they have no clue as to whether the other two men were from the city.

West Virginia State Police said Jones will be questioned further and probably will be held for further identification in connection with the theft.

Child Is Fatally Injured By Truck Near Augusta

Girl Killed In Front Of Home

A three-year-old Augusta, W. Va., area girl was fatally injured late yesterday when she was struck by a passing truck in front of her home on West Virginia Route 45, about one mile off US Route 50 and three miles east of Augusta, W. Va., West Virginia State Police said.

State Trooper F. H. Tribett, Romney, who investigated with Trooper E. D. Harbert, identified the child as Shirley Jean McCauley, daughter of Virgil and Virginia McCauley. He said the girl was struck and killed in front of her home about 6:45 p. m. (EST) by a truck owned and operated by Clyde William Smith, Rio, W. Va.

Trooper Tribett explained that the child's father works in Mineral County and rides to Augusta after work when Mrs. McCauley comes to drive him home in their truck.

As Mrs. McCauley started to go for her husband late yesterday she found that the vehicle would not start. Two of the children, Loretta, 14, and John, 7, were in the rear with Shirley as the former two were giving the truck a slight push.

Mrs. McCauley told the troopers that just as the motor caught and the truck started, another truck met and passed her going toward Augusta. Almost immediately, she said, she heard the children scream that Shirley had been run over.

The driver told Trooper Tribett that he saw the little girl come out from behind the truck and slowed down but that the child darted out in front of his truck. He did not realize what had happened, he added, until he heard the children scream.

When the mother stopped the truck she was driving, she said, Loretta was picking up the body of her little sister. A neighbor took the child to Romney where she was pronounced dead by Dr. J. F. Easton, Trooper Tribett said.

State police said no charges have been preferred pending completion of the investigation.

Two Slot Machines Confiscated At North Mechanic Street Club

Woman To Appear At Hearing Today

Acting under a new city ordinance, the Cumberland Police Department last night confiscated two slot machines at the Garibaldi Club, 29 North Mechanic Street, after receiving complaints from two persons that they had lost approximately $50 yesterday.

Police booked a woman identified as Mrs. C. DeArcangelis, and charged her with violation of City Ordinance 1404, Section 3-E, but released her after she posted a $200 bond for a hearing this morning.

The section of the ordinance referred to reads "It shall be deemed a violation x x x to allow any gambling upon premises where alcoholic beverages are sold x x x."

Police said two machines, a 25-cent and a 10-cent machine, were seized in a raid made on the club at 5 p. m. after a man and his wife, listed as Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright, 41 Humbird Street, appeared at headquarters and complained of losing approximately $50 in the machines, while patronizing the club yesterday afternoon.

Under the new ordinance, passed by the Mayor and City Council early this year, the City Police Department has the right to confiscate all gambling devices. After using them as evidence they may be destroyed after giving the defendant an opportunity to appeal the case.

Police said they were informed that the Garibaldi Club, composed mostly of Italian residents in the city, holds only a light beer license, but declared the ordinance indicated that all alcoholic beverages are included in the law.

Authorities identified Mrs. DeArcangelis as the responsible party and police said she will be given a hearing this morning.

County Will Get $264,870 In State Gas, Motor Taxes

$60,000 Also Allotted From Federal Funds

An estimated $264,870.09 will be allocated to Allegany County, municipalities, cities and special taxing areas in the county from state gasoline and motor vehicle taxes for the period from July 1, 1947, to June 30, 1948, the County Commissioners were informed yesterday in a letter from William A. Codd, chief auditor of the State Roads Commission.

In addition, $60,000 will be available from federal funds on an equalization basis, Codd said, for secondary and feeder road construction.

Municipalities Get $63,754.23

The county, according to his letter, will receive an estimated $201,115.86, and municipalities, cities and special taxing areas will share $63,754.23.

Under terms of an act passed by the 1947 session of the Legislature, municipalities, cities and special taxing areas, if each has complied with certain provisions of the act, are entitled to participation in the county's share of gasoline tax and motor vehicle tax—the $264,870.09 — and thus will receive as their share of that amount $63,754.23, Codd explained.

He said the $264,870.09 figure is based on the estimate of income from the two taxes.

At the meeting yesterday, the County Commissioners sold 16 of 30 lots on Holland Street that were advertised for sale to veterans.

Sixty-six bids were considered and unsuccessful bidders either failed to comply with conditions, withdrew their bids or were not present to state alternate choices.

Veterans whose priorities to buy the lots were not high enough yesterday will be asked if they care to purchase one of the remaining lots before they are advertised for public sale to the highest bidder.

Mrs. Hannah Offman, 149 Green Street, Frostburg, asked the board to dredge a creek which during heavy showers overflows into her basement. County Attorney Lewis M. Wilson said that public funds could not be expended for this purpose of benefiting private property. The stream in question is on land owned by Mrs. Offman.

The board voted to renew a $500 fire insurance policy on the Mt. Savage jail.

Caleb J. White, OPA rent control director here, in a letter to the board asked for an adjustment in the rental lease covering the office space the Rent Office is using in the Union Street County Building. He stated that his lease calls for 1,376 square feet, and the office occupies only 516 square feet.

WMR Honor Plaques Erected In Stations

In tribute to its 1,380 employes who served their country during World War II, the Western Maryland Railway has erected four honor roll plaques along its lines, according to Charles W. Broun, president.

Placed in prominent locations at Hillen Station, Baltimore, and in the railway passenger stations at Hagerstown and Cumberland, Md., and Elkins, W. Va., each plaque contains a complete list of the Western Maryland workers who were released by the company to enter the armed forces. The names of 26 who were killed in action are marked by a star.

The memorials are in the form of beautiful walnut cases, approximately 12 feet wide and six feet high, with the names embossed in gold lettering and enclosed in glass.

Approximately 200 Western Maryland employes went into service from the Cumberland area.

ELECTROCUTED HAWKS—Two Marsh Hawks, one a male and one a female, battled atop a light pole for possession of a young rat one had caught. Each hawk had a talon in the rat and when the birds stepped on separate 6,900 volt wires, the charge was conducted through the rat's body, killing all three. The incident took place at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory Wednesday afternoon. The hawks are shown above with the one at the left still clutching the rat. Holding the hawks are (left to right) Luther Hite, electrician, Thomas Gulland, safety supervisor, and F. J. Shafnacker, personnel supervisor, all of the ballistics lab staff.—Photo by K. T. Sisk.

Skeleton Of Man Found In Woods Near Somerset

Pocketbook May Yield Identity

The skeleton of a man believed to be about 60 years old was found in a wooded section about half a mile off the Lincoln Highway 20 miles from Somerset, Pa., yesterday afternoon.

Dr. A. M. Uphouse, Somerset County coroner, said he has not been able to determine the skeleton's identity or the cause of death. He estimated the man had been dead for as much as nine months.

Game Warden Stanis, Stoystown, Pa., discovered the skeleton just beyond a game preserve on the McNeal lumber property in Shade Township, and notified Peunsylvania State Police at Somerset, the coroner said.

The skeleton was lying "pretty much of a thicket," he said, adding that it appeared as if the man might have lain down to rest.

A badly decayed pocketbook and an old notebook were found in the skeleton's faded clothing, and Dr. Uphouse said he will inspect both as soon as the billfold and notebook are dry enough to be handled in an effort to learn the man's identity.

The dead man's height was estimated to be about five feet 10 inches. He had some teeth missing but no artificial ones, according to the coroner.

Two Marsh Hawks Electrocuted During Battle Over Young Rat

Charge Conducted By Rodent's Body

Two Marsh Hawks and a rat they were fighting over were electrocuted Wednesday afternoon when the rat's body conducted a 6,900-volt charge of electricity from one predator to the other.

The hawks, a male and a female, picked out a crossarm on a fence lighting pole near the range area of the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory for their battle for possession of the young rat which one of them had caught. The pole crossarm carries wires charged with 6,900 volts.

Investigation after Joseph Brode, driver for powder service, saw a flash atop the pole, showed that each hawk had one talon in the rat, and when each hawk grabbed a separate wire, the charge was conducted through the rat's body.

The shock left one hawk hanging on each side of the crossarm with the rat cooking on the crossarm next to the slightly scorched pole.

Laboratory electricians Luther Hite and Charles Day cut the power for the area since the pole was wet and probably charged. Day climbed the pole to release the victims and when he pried the hawks' claws from the wires, the hawks and rat dropped as one, separating when they hit the ground.

Tax Assessment Audit Authorized By City Council

A special audit to review city tax assessments on real and personal property within the city limits during 1944, 1945 and 1946 was ordered yesterday by the Mayor and Council following an executive session attended by City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett and City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

The council order employs Myer L. Sigel, of Berman, Goldman, Levin and Company, local accountants, to make the audit. Sigel will be "compensated in due time upon a fair and reasonable basis for the work and services when performed," according to the formal order.

Charles F. Burke, Jr., city tax collector, explained that assessments are compiled for the city by the county assessor's office and by the State Tax Commission office.

Assessments for property in the six city election districts have been completed during the past two years. The last previous assessment was made in 1940, and prior to that time no complete assessment had been made since about 1928, he added.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said the purpose of the check is to make sure that all accounts are in order. He said that nothing in particular has prompted the action and that a general check is being made.

It was explained that during the recent building boom in the city, some taxable property may not have been assessed.

The city yesterday received the official audit for the city fiscal year ending March 31, 1947, and for the Memorial Hospital fiscal year ending September 30, 1946.

Last-minute shopping and relaxation are on today's schedule for pretty, dark-haired Jean Dixon, who will leave by car tomorrow at 1 p. m. for Atlantic City to represent the state as "Miss Maryland" at the 1947 Miss America Pageant.

Jean will be accompanied by Mrs. Louise Moore, who has been designated by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce as her official chaperone for the trip to Atlantic City.

Other members of the party will be Jack Moore, who staged and directed the Miss Cumberland and Miss Maryland beauty pageants here this summer, and Galen Metzger, stage manager of the local and state contests.

A light gray 1947 sedan, donated by a local automobile dealer for Jean's use during the week in Atlantic City, will be used in making the trip from Cumberland.

The party will leave from the home of Jean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dixon, 696 Fayette Street, and will take the Pennsylvania Turnpike from Bedford en route to Philadelphia, where hotel accommodations have been arranged for tomorrow night.

They plan to arrive in Atlantic City before noon Monday so that "Miss Maryland" can register well in advance of the 6 p. m. deadline.

Mrs. Moore will stay with Jean at the Mayflower Hotel in Atlantic City, but the Miss America Pageant Committee will provide Jean with a chaperone who will attend all functions with her during the week.

Despite the excitement of final preparations for her trip, Jean is poised and confident in readying herself for appearances with the 53 other contestants from states and key cities in Convention Hall.

Contestants will attend a civic reception on Monday, to be followed by a boardwalk parade Tuesday afternoon. Wednesday night will mark the first preliminary contest in Convention Hall auditorium.

On Thursday and Friday other preliminary contests will be held, and the big night will be next Saturday, when the final contest will be held for 15 possible winners.

Local Jaycees expressed confidence last night that "Miss Maryland" will make Cumberland and the state proud of her showing.

Racing Enthusiast Nabbed Here In $18,000 Fraud

Chicago Man Arrested By FBI And Local Detective; Accused Of Confidence Racket

A Chicago horse racing enthusiast, who allegedly worked the confidence game to the tune of $18,000 with the promise of marrying a Lexington, Ky., woman, was arrested yesterday at Fairgo race track and is held here in the county jail in default of $5,000 bond, according to FBI agents.

Identified as John Donald Walker, 46, 542 North Pine Avenue, Chicago, Ill., the FBI said he was arrested at the cashier's office yesterday when he attempted to claim a purse won by his horse, Coral Water, which finished second in the Robert C. Wilson Memorial Race, August 20.

Has Previous Record

Fred Hallford, special agent in charge of the FBI at Baltimore, said Walker was arrested on a warrant issued on August 25, this year, by the United States Commissioner at Lexington, Ky., charging him with violating the Federal National Stolen Property Act.

Walker is alleged to have fraudulently obtained the $18,000 from Mrs. Sally Grehan, Lexington, Ky., as the result of his misrepresentation of financial standing and claims of affection and promises of marriage, the FBI reported.

The FBI quoted Walker as saying that he has been following the horse racing business for the past 20 years, and said he planned to leave Cumberland yesterday to attend the races at Timonium next week.

FBI agents said they received their tip that Walker had come here from Hagerstown, after the racing season closed there, and declared the man and his wife, already had checked out of a local hotel before going to the track with the idea of leaving for Baltimore.

In his statement, Walker admitted, the FBI said, that he has served two terms in Illinois state penitentiaries on conspiracy charges, one for two years, eight months and the other for three years and nine months. He said he married his present wife "about a year ago," but could not recall the date, the agents added.

The agents explained that the alleged fraudulent action with the Kentucky woman was committed between May and December of last year, at a time when Mrs. Grehan was settling an estate.

Waives Preliminary Hearing

Walker waived a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett and was committed to jail in default of bond. He will be returned to Kentucky for trial, the agents said.

Part of the funds which Walker is charged with obtaining from Mrs. Grehan were allegedly transported in interstate commerce in violation of the Federal Statutes, according to the FBI.

Walker told FBI agents, they said, that he borrowed the money from Mrs. Grehan and declared he had signed a promisory note before being given the money. Authorities said they believe Walker's wife, who is traveling with him, had no knowledge of his previous actions or criminal record.

Walker reportedly brought Coral Water here from Hagerstown but the horse was later reclaimed by the previous owner when Walker defaulted in payment, investigating authorities said.

In his statement yesterday, the agents reported that Walker said he left Cumberland over the weekend to attend the funeral of a relative in Chicago, and was en route to Baltimore where he had made reservations at the Belvedere Hotel, so that he could attend the races at Timonium next week.

The FBI said they were not informed that the man was wanted until after he left the city for Chicago and upon learning of his return to the city they requested the Cumberland Fair Association to inform them if Walker attempted to collect his purse, reported to be $385. Detective Edwin R. Lilya, City

FBI agents said a warrant for his arrest was issued in Lexington, August 25.

Driver Identifies Man From Picture

West Virginia State Police were holding one man last night and looking for two more who allegedly robbed a Cumberland taxi driver of his cab at gun point near Short Gap, W. Va., early Thursday morning.

Local police said a man who gave his name as Trevor Jones was arrested at the rear of 34 Virginia Avenue yesterday afternoon and returned to West Virginia State police after the driver, Thomas Cessna, Yello Top Cab Company employe, identified him.

Cpl. R. R. Karickhoff of the West Virginia State Police, said Jones admitted that he was drinking Wednersday night and declared he could not recall his companions. The driver, according to police, could not furnish a description of the other men since they rode in the rear seat.

Police said Cessna was called to the Maryland Avenue call box Friday morning at 3:15 o'clock and picked up three men who asked to be driven to Short Gap, W. Va. Shortly before reaching their destination, Cessna said one of the men pushed a revolver into his ribs and said "this is a holdup."

Police quoted Cessna as saying he jumped from the cab and ran through a brush patch near Short Gap where he hid for several hours before trying to find a telephone to call his office.

The three men, according to police drove away in the cab and abandoned it Thursday afternoon near Mt. Storm, W. Va., after running out of gasoline.

Police said Cessna identified Jones as one of the trio after checking the "rogues gallery morgue" at the local police station. Jones, local police said, was preparing to "get away" at the time he was arrested.

Tech. Sgt. John Newhouse made the arrest after Cpl. Karickhoff requested that Jones be picked up. Police said they have no clue as to whether the other two men were from the city.

West Virginia State Police said Jones will be questioned further and probably will be held for further identification in connection with the theft.

Child Is Fatally Injured By Truck Near Augusta

Girl Killed In Front Of Home

A three-year-old Augusta, W. Va., area girl was fatally injured late yesterday when she was struck by a passing truck in front of her home on West Virginia Route 45, about one mile off US Route 50 and three miles east of Augusta, W. Va., West Virginia State Police said.

State Trooper F. H. Tribett, Romney, who investigated with Trooper E. D. Harbert, identified the child as Shirley Jean McCauley, daughter of Virgil and Virginia McCauley. He said the girl was struck and killed in front of her home about 6:45 p. m. (EST) by a truck owned and operated by Clyde William Smith, Rio, W. Va.

Trooper Tribett explained that the child's father works in Mineral County and rides to Augusta after work when Mrs. McCauley comes to drive him home in their truck.

As Mrs. McCauley started to go for her husband late yesterday she found that the vehicle would not start. Two of the children, Loretta, 14, and John, 7, were in the rear with Shirley as the former two were giving the truck a slight push.

Mrs. McCauley told the troopers that just as the motor caught and the truck started, another truck met and passed her going toward Augusta. Almost immediately, she said, she heard the children scream that Shirley had been run over.

The driver told Trooper Tribett that he saw the little girl come out from behind the truck and slowed down but that the child darted out in front of his truck. He did not realize what had happened, he added, until he heard the children scream.

When the mother stopped the truck she was driving, she said, Loretta was picking up the body of her little sister. A neighbor took the child to Romney where she was pronounced dead by Dr. J. F. Easton, Trooper Tribett said.

State police said no charges have been preferred pending completion of the investigation.

Two Slot Machines Confiscated At North Mechanic Street Club

Woman To Appear At Hearing Today

Acting under a new city ordinance, the Cumberland Police Department last night confiscated two slot machines at the Garibaldi Club, 29 North Mechanic Street, after receiving complaints from two persons that they had lost approximately $50 yesterday.

Police booked a woman identified as Mrs. C. DeArcangelis, and charged her with violation of City Ordinance 1404, Section 3-E, but released her after she posted a $200 bond for a hearing this morning.

The section of the ordinance referred to reads "It shall be deemed a violation x x x to allow any gambling upon premises where alcoholic beverages are sold x x x."

Police said two machines, a 25-cent and a 10-cent machine, were seized in a raid made on the club at 5 p. m. after a man and his wife, listed as Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright, 41 Humbird Street, appeared at headquarters and complained of losing approximately $50 in the machines, while patronizing the club yesterday afternoon.

Under the new ordinance, passed by the Mayor and City Council early this year, the City Police Department has the right to confiscate all gambling devices. After using them as evidence they may be destroyed after giving the defendant an opportunity to appeal the case.

Police said they were informed that the Garibaldi Club, composed mostly of Italian residents in the city, holds only a light beer license, but declared the ordinance indicated that all alcoholic beverages are included in the law.

Authorities identified Mrs. DeArcangelis as the responsible party and police said she will be given a hearing this morning.

County Will Get $264,870 In State Gas, Motor Taxes

$60,000 Also Allotted From Federal Funds

An estimated $264,870.09 will be allocated to Allegany County, municipalities, cities and special taxing areas in the county from state gasoline and motor vehicle taxes for the period from July 1, 1947, to June 30, 1948, the County Commissioners were informed yesterday in a letter from William A. Codd, chief auditor of the State Roads Commission.

In addition, $60,000 will be available from federal funds on an equalization basis, Codd said, for secondary and feeder road construction.

Municipalities Get $63,754.23

The county, according to his letter, will receive an estimated $201,115.86, and municipalities, cities and special taxing areas will share $63,754.23.

Under terms of an act passed by the 1947 session of the Legislature, municipalities, cities and special taxing areas, if each has complied with certain provisions of the act, are entitled to participation in the county's share of gasoline tax and motor vehicle tax—the $264,870.09 — and thus will receive as their share of that amount $63,754.23, Codd explained.

He said the $264,870.09 figure is based on the estimate of income from the two taxes.

At the meeting yesterday, the County Commissioners sold 16 of 30 lots on Holland Street that were advertised for sale to veterans.

Sixty-six bids were considered and unsuccessful bidders either failed to comply with conditions, withdrew their bids or were not present to state alternate choices.

Veterans whose priorities to buy the lots were not high enough yesterday will be asked if they care to purchase one of the remaining lots before they are advertised for public sale to the highest bidder.

Mrs. Hannah Offman, 149 Green Street, Frostburg, asked the board to dredge a creek which during heavy showers overflows into her basement. County Attorney Lewis M. Wilson said that public funds could not be expended for this purpose of benefiting private property. The stream in question is on land owned by Mrs. Offman.

The board voted to renew a $500 fire insurance policy on the Mt. Savage jail.

Caleb J. White, OPA rent control director here, in a letter to the board asked for an adjustment in the rental lease covering the office space the Rent Office is using in the Union Street County Building. He stated that his lease calls for 1,376 square feet, and the office occupies only 516 square feet.

WMR Honor Plaques Erected In Stations

In tribute to its 1,380 employes who served their country during World War II, the Western Maryland Railway has erected four honor roll plaques along its lines, according to Charles W. Broun, president.

Placed in prominent locations at Hillen Station, Baltimore, and in the railway passenger stations at Hagerstown and Cumberland, Md., and Elkins, W. Va., each plaque contains a complete list of the Western Maryland workers who were released by the company to enter the armed forces. The names of 26 who were killed in action are marked by a star.

The memorials are in the form of beautiful walnut cases, approximately 12 feet wide and six feet high, with the names embossed in gold lettering and enclosed in glass.

Approximately 200 Western Maryland employes went into service from the Cumberland area.

Skeleton Of Man Found In Woods Near Somerset

Pocketbook May Yield Identity

The skeleton of a man believed to be about 60 years old was found in a wooded section about half a mile off the Lincoln Highway 20 miles from Somerset, Pa., yesterday afternoon.

Dr. A. M. Uphouse, Somerset County coroner, said he has not been able to determine the skeleton's identity or the cause of death. He estimated the man had been dead for as much as nine months.

Game Warden Stanis, Stoystown, Pa., discovered the skeleton just beyond a game preserve on the McNeal lumber property in Shade Township, and notified Peunsylvania State Police at Somerset, the coroner said.

The skeleton was lying "pretty much of a thicket," he said, adding that it appeared as if the man might have lain down to rest.

A badly decayed pocketbook and an old notebook were found in the skeleton's faded clothing, and Dr. Uphouse said he will inspect both as soon as the billfold and notebook are dry enough to be handled in an effort to learn the man's identity.

The dead man's height was estimated to be about five feet 10 inches. He had some teeth missing but no artificial ones, according to the coroner.

Clothing was listed as tan shoes, a blue suit and a white or other light color and brown herringbone coat.

Two Marsh Hawks Electrocuted During Battle Over Young Rat

Charge Conducted By Rodent's Body

Two Marsh Hawks and a rat they were fighting over were electrocuted Wednesday afternoon when the rat's body conducted a 6,900-volt charge of electricity from one predator to the other.

The hawks, a male and a female, picked out a crossarm on a fence lighting pole near the range area of the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory for their battle for possession of the young rat which one of them had caught. The pole crossarm carries wires charged with 6,900 volts.

Investigation after Joseph Brode, driver for powder service, saw a flash atop the pole, showed that each hawk had one talon in the rat, and when each hawk grabbed a separate wire, the charge was conducted through the rat's body.

The shock left one hawk hanging on each side of the crossarm with the rat cooking on the crossarm next to the slightly scorched pole.

Laboratory electricians Luther Hite and Charles Day cut the power for the area since the pole was wet and probably charged. Day climbed the pole to release the victims and when he pried the hawks' claws from the wires, the hawks and rat dropped as one, separating when they hit the ground.

Tax Assessment Audit Authorized By City Council

A special audit to review city tax assessments on real and personal property within the city limits during 1944, 1945 and 1946 was ordered yesterday by the Mayor and Council following an executive session attended by City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett and City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

The council order employs Myer L. Sigel, of Berman, Goldman, Levin and Company, local accountants, to make the audit. Sigel will be "compensated in due time upon a fair and reasonable basis for the work and services when performed," according to the formal order.

Charles F. Burke, Jr., city tax collector, explained that assessments are compiled for the city by the county assessor's office and by the State Tax Commission office.

Assessments for property in the six city election districts have been completed during the past two years. The last previous assessment was made in 1940, and prior to that time no complete assessment had been made since about 1928, he added.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said the purpose of the check is to make sure that all accounts are in order. He said that nothing in particular has prompted the action and that a general check is being made.

It was explained that during the recent building boom in the city, some taxable property may not have been assessed.

The city yesterday received the official audit for the city fiscal year ending March 31, 1947, and for the Memorial Hospital fiscal year ending September 30, 1946.

'Miss Maryland' Making Final Plans For Atlantic City Beauty Pageant

Party Will Leave By Car Tomorrow

Last-minute shopping and relaxation are on today's schedule for pretty, dark-haired Jean Dixon, who will leave by car tomorrow at 1 p. m. for Atlantic City to represent the state as "Miss Maryland" at the 1947 Miss America Pageant.

Jean will be accompanied by Mrs. Louise Moore, who has been designated by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce as her official chaperone for the trip to Atlantic City.

Other members of the party will be Jack Moore, who staged and directed the Miss Cumberland and Miss Maryland beauty pageants here this summer, and Galen Metzger, stage manager of the local and state contests.

A light gray 1947 sedan, donated by a local automobile dealer for Jean's use during the week in Atlantic City, will be used in making the trip from Cumberland.

The party will leave from the home of Jean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dixon, 696 Fayette Street, and will take the Pennsylvania Turnpike from Bedford en route to Philadelphia, where hotel accommodations have been arranged for tomorrow night.

They plan to arrive in Atlantic City before noon Monday so that "Miss Maryland" can register well in advance of the 6 p. m. deadline.

Mrs. Moore will stay with Jean at the Mayflower Hotel in Atlantic City, but the Miss America Pageant Committee will provide Jean with a chaperone who will attend all functions with her during the week.

Despite the excitement of final preparations for her trip, Jean is poised and confident in readying herself for appearances with the 53 other contestants from states and key cities in Convention Hall.

Contestants will attend a civic reception on Monday, to be followed by a boardwalk parade Tuesday afternoon. Wednesday night will mark the first preliminary contest in Convention Hall auditorium.

On Thursday and Friday other preliminary contests will be held, and the big night will be next Saturday, when the final contest will be held for 15 possible winners.

Local Jaycees expressed confidence last night that "Miss Maryland" will make Cumberland and the state proud of her showing.
